

Workers' Compensation

Responsible University Office:

Human Resources

Responsible University Administrator:

Human Resources Time and Leave Representative

All faculty members are covered by Workers' Compensation Insurance. If a faculty member sustains an accidental injury or occupational disease while working, Workers' Compensation pays for medical expenses and, in some cases, for lost wages. A faculty member who is injured on the job must report the injury to his or her department head/supervisor immediately even if the injury does not appear serious. All accidents must be reported within 30 days of occurrence. See the university's Workers' Compensation webpage or email HR.Leave@tamuc.edu for more information and reporting forms.