Undergraduate Tutoring Services (UTS) provide academic resources to help each undergraduate student reach his or her intellectual potential and achieve academic success. UTS offers face-to-face and online tutoring, study skills and time management training, as well as the Supplemental Instruction (SI) program. Faculty teaching core level undergraduate courses can learn more about the SI program on this page. Faculty can direct their students to the UTS page that provides links to resources for all students around campus and on the web (e.g., time management, study strategies, help with subject areas), as well as resources specifically for nursing students.
