Publications: Books

Science Fiction Double Feature: The Science Fiction Film as Cult Text, Co-editor, with J. P. Telotte. Liverpool, UK: Liverpool UP, 2015. An examination of cult science fiction films via a variety of theoretical and text-based essays that consider the presentation of characters, national trends, genre differences, and performance.

Science Fiction Film, Television, and Adaptation: Across the Screens, Co-editor (with J.P. Telotte), Routledge Press, 2012. An examination through case studies of the adaptation process from television to the big screen. The essays examine a variety of texts as they move across their respective screens in the adaptive process. The essays help viewers to better understand both how and why a "filtering" process works as it does, and, as a consequence, why certain texts have successfully managed to crossover from television to the movie theatre and vice versa, while a majority have failed to successfully make the crossover.

Film Voices: Interviews from Post Script. Editor. State UP of New York, 2004. Substantive interviews with Hollywood directors (Robert Altman, Francis Ford Coppola, Clint Eastwood, Sydney Pollack, Oliver Stone), actors (Clint Eastwood, James Woods), independent filmmakers (Robert Downey, Barbara Hammer, Jamie Babbit), screenwriters (Horton Foote, Oliver Stone), animator (Don Bluth), film editor (Dede Allen), and international voices (Atom Egoyan, Stephen Frears, Louis Malle, Paul Verhoeven) offering a snapshot of movie making.

Humphrey Bogart: A Bio-Bibliography (Greenwood Press, 1999). Examines Bogart as a complex actor, as a public and private person, as a legend, and as a star who served as a barometer of our culture's perception of modern man. This study also includes an original interview with one of Bogart's directors, bibliographical essays evaluating all published English language biographical and scholarly material on Bogart, checklists detailing research materials, and an essay examining his impact on popular culture.
