COURSE DESCRIPTION	This course explores the evolution and current development of social work practice in Costa Rica through building knowledge links between political processes, economic constraints and the actual implementation of public policies. Focusing on how modern and evolving bureaucracies along with cultural and institutional frameworks of a given political system dictate the ways in which governments work and interact with the public/private sector.
COURSE RATIONAL	A significant shift has been occurring in the United States over the past several decade and according to the State Comptroller's Office of Texas, the Hispanic population in 2006 constituted 35.7% of Texans. By 2020 the Texas Hispanic population is expected to outnumber the White population. Through this experience, the students will learn about social work and the welfare system in Costa Rica. In the United States, the course will provide the cultural, historical and political context for preparation of the Costa Rica experience and upon return, provide the context for translating the Costa Rica cultural and language experience to work with other subpopulations of Latino immigrants in the United States.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

This course is designed to prepare students with knowledge, skills and abilities in social welfare practices for transnational work in the United States with individuals from diverse cultures and backgrounds. *Tentative Course Schedule

Social Work in Costa Rica embraces a Brazilian model with a Marxist paradigm. The focus is on human rights and social justice that differs from an individual, direct practice focus. The culture reflects the collective good for groups, as opposed to individual autonomy. The ability to experience this allows students to step out of the Western paradigm and recognize the strengths in this perspective. Experiential activities are designed to allow students to experience this culture, allowing them to work with and advocate for clients in Western society whose values and cultures are those that reflect a collective approach as opposed to individualistic.
