COURSE INFORMATION

Materials –Required Text

Kottak, Conrad. Cultural Anthropology, 16th edition. McGraw-Hill, 2014.
ISBN 9780078035005

Course Description:

This course provides an introduction to the major concepts, theoretical frameworks and research methods of cultural anthropology. We will examine a range of societies from small-scale foraging bands to complex industrial nations from a global perspective. A broad range of topics will be addressed from a cross-cultural perspective, including: social, political and economic development; marriage and kinship; religion and magic; gender, and language. In addition to examining the diversity of human cultures throughout the world, we will focus on how anthropological theories and methods can be employed to help us understand why peoples' behaviors and beliefs vary cross culturally and how anthropologists go about uncovering the meanings of both cultural diversity and similarity.

Student Learning Outcomes:

1. Students will be able to demonstrate knowledge of the interconnectedness of global processes (issues, processes, trends, and symptom).
2. Students will be able to apply knowledge of the interconnectedness of global processes
3. Students will be able to view themselves as engaged citizens within an interconnected and diverse world.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Instructional / Methods / Activities Assessments

Instructional method is primarily lecture and class discussion. Students will be assessed through the use of unannounced quizzes, short written assignments, and four exams spaced throughout the semester. Exams will be non-comprehensive.

You are responsible for reading, understanding, and complying with the course requirements. This course introduces concepts, methods, and theories with which most students are unfamiliar, therefore it is critical that you come to class each day prepared to discuss/write and ask questions about the assigned readings. To encourage you to complete the reading assignments as required, there will be various quizzes/in-class writing and homework assignments during the term. Each of these will be worth just ten points, however if you miss a substantial number or receive poor grades on them they will negatively impact your final grade. I do not make extra credit assignments, however you may earn extra points by answering an optional three-point bonus question on each exam. Please do not ask for extra credit assignments because I will not budge on this.

Weekly Online Discussion (150 points): Each week, students are expected to create 3 posts (3 posts x 5 points each x 10 weeks = 150 points):

- One discussion question about the readings or something related to the topic for the class to answer.
- One post responding to a question posted by myself or another student.
- One news article relating to that week's topic, and three sentences that include a summary of the article and an explanation of how it relates to the topic at hand. The article can be about current political events, pop culture, the arts, health, education, etc., but please include a hyperlink of the material to which you are referring. Although you may use any news source, recommended sources include:
 - www.nytimes.com
 - www.bbc.com/news
 - www.aljazeera.com
 - www.reuters.com
 - www.time.com

In order to receive full credit, your posts should reference a total of at least 5 concepts, examples, and/or vocabulary words from lecture slides and the textbook. I am grading you on your engagement with class materials, not solely on your opinion. These points add-up over time and make the difference between a "B" and an "A," treat these assignments seriously and reserve appropriate time to complete them.

You may create as many posts as you like, but only 3 posts will be counted towards the weekly grade. Posts must be up by Sunday evening at 11:59 PM, except for the weeks designated below. However, the sooner you post your questions and responses, the better, so that people have time to respond to the question you post. Be sure to read my graded comments to help guide you towards earning full credit.

Exams: (200 points) There will be four exams during the semester, including a non-comprehensive final, each worth 50 points. The exams will cover all assigned readings, lectures, and any films shown during the term. Each exam will consist of some combination of multiple choice, short answer, and fill-in-the-blank questions. You will have 3 hours to complete the exam, and it can be taken any time during the designated days (see below).

Students who miss an exam due to documented illness, emergency, or a university-sanctioned activity will take a comprehensive exam for the final. Only one exam can be made up. Students, who miss more than one exam, will be dropped from the course. Try to avoid having to take the comprehensive final because it is difficult. The comprehensive final will be worth 100 points. Please be aware that you can only take the comprehensive final if you have my permission. This is not an opportunity to drop an unsatisfactory grade.

Participant Observation Assignment (30 points): Due Sunday, October 30, 11:59 PM through dropbox in e-college.

Spend approximately 1 hour (60 minutes) in a public place (i.e. coffee shop, store, park) or a cultural event (i.e. sporting event, a frat party, or a protest rally) observing other peoples' social interactions. Make sure that there are enough people around for you to see and analyze interactions and be sure that it is okay to take notes (which you will type up later). During the observation exercise, ask yourself some of the following questions:

- How do people greet each other?
- What kinds of relationships are being demonstrated (i.e. families, friends, business partners, significant others)?
- What type of verbal and non-verbal communication is happening?
- What is being exchanged?

- Is there a difference in body language in different relationships?
- What about different ethnic or gender relationships?
- Does anyone say anything that caught your attention? How did people respond?

While observing, draw a map of the area you are in. Note the time, the number of people and where they are, the spatial layout and other things you think are significant to this space. After the observation, please write a minimum one-page write-up from your field notes about cultural social interactions.

- 1) Please submit your detailed hand-drawn map of the space occupied
- 2) Typed up field note that are analysis-free; observations only. Feel free to make a bullet point list.
- 3) Write-up of an analysis based on your observations. Include the following: Do you think these are unique to American culture? Did anything unexpected happen during your observation? How does this exercise use the methods and theories discussed in Chapter 3?

This assignment should be at least three pages (one page map [a picture or scan of it will work], at-least one page of field notes, and at-least one page for your conclusions), either double-spaced, Times New Roman 12 pt font, 1-inch margins on all sides. Each section (map, notes, conclusions) is worth 10 points.

Media Assignment (20 points): due Thursday, December 15 at 11:59 PM through dropbox in e-college.

Each student must pick an article, book, blog post, YouTube video, or other form of media and write a 2-page paper (12 point font, double-spaced, Times New Roman font) to discuss the cultural components of that form of media. For example, if a student chooses to discuss “Gangnam Style” that student will identify what language the song is in, where “Gangnam” District is, and interesting facts about the culture that is associated with this song.

The assignment is worth 20 points, 5 points for the media source, 5 point for syntax and grammar, and 10 points for the critical thinking and analysis. In order to receive full credit for this assignment, you must use at least 10 concepts, examples, and/or vocabulary words from lecture slides and the textbook to support your analysis of the media source. If you have questions of what counts as media or would like suggestions, please contact me.

Grading Criteria
