Course Description

This course will cover semen collection and evaluation, gamete freezing and storage, reproduction management techniques and pregnancy diagnosis. In addition, students will gain experience with the reproductive management and breeding of cattle and goats.

Course Objectives

1. Understand and describe in detail the estrous cycle, the structures and hormones involved and how it is regulated in the cow, sow, and doe.
2. Understand and explain current methods available to producers to manipulate the estrous cycle and control the time of breeding for each of the focus species.
3. Understand the process of artificial insemination and how it differs between each of the species.
4. Give each student the opportunity to actively participate in the insemination of each of the species through the semester.

Prerequisites

ANS 311: Reproductive Physiology of Domestic Animals

Materials

Required Text: None

Grading

Attendance: Attendance is expected and will count towards your final grade. You will be given 100 points for lecture. You will be allowed 2 unexcused absences before a 10 point deduction for each absence thereafter. You will be allowed 1 unexcused absence for lab before a 4% deduction in the overall grade for each absence thereafter. Attendance may be used to decide future opportunities such as makeup work or extra credit.

Grading:

1. Exams:

- Three exams will be given through the course.

Tentative Dates:

- February 20th
 - April 3rd
 - May 3rd
- Exams will be given during the entire class period. Exam formats may include T/F, matching, multiple choice, and short answer. Some exams and quizzes will require math so you will need to bring a calculator. A smart phone/cell phone/tablet will not be allowed to use on the exam.
 - All students are to take the in-class exams at the time they are scheduled unless you have a great excuse. If a makeup is written it may be more difficult, not easier, for the student.

2. Quizzes and Homework

- Quizzes will be given regularly throughout the semester. Some quizzes will be posted online through the eCollege website. Others will be given in class
- Homework assignments will be given each week to supplement the class material.
- Unannounced quizzes may also be given.

Grading

A: 90% +
B: 80-89%
C: 70-79%
D: 60-69%
F: Below 60%
