COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Instructional / Methods / Activities Assessments

This will be primarily a lecture and readings course. The lecture will provide the evidence you need for creating evidence-based answers to the essay questions on the exams. A list of all the potential essay questions for the semester will be made available on the class site for the course during the second week of class. You will need to prepare in advance to be ready to write a coherent, well supported essay during a timed exam. You will also take a number of online quizzes over lecture material, outside readings, and assigned podcasts.

GRADING

Grade structure:

This course will include two timed essay exams, weekly discussion posts, and quizzes.

Multiple Choice Quizzes: Each will be available for one week minimum. Quiz due dates are listed on the calendar below. There are three reading quizzes and a Responsibility Quiz.

Exams: These will be one essay. You must be able to write a coherent, well structured essay that adequately addresses the question.

Weekly Discussions: Each student will post twice in a discussion forum every week (not including the first week of class). One post must be a response to another student's post or comment. Posts must be substantive to receive credit; simple statements, like "I agree", are insufficient. The work should demonstrate that the student has done the reading for the week and is making the effort to prepare for the quizzes and essays.

Grading breakdown:	Quizzes 27%	(27 points)
	Responsibility Quiz: 5%	(5 points)
	Weekly Discussions: 28%	(28 points)
	Midterm: 20%	(20 points)
	Final: 20%	(20 points)
		(100 points total)

Make-ups:

The window for each assignment is long enough that there should be no need for make-ups. Extenuating circumstances will be considered case by case.

INTERACTION WITH INSTRUCTOR STATEMENT

If you need to reach me outside of office hours, please use email. I typically respond to email within 12 to 36 hours during the week. Do not expect a response during the weekend.

When sending an email always do the following:

- 1) Use a subject line. This tells me what the topic is and prevents your message from ending up in my junk mail.
- 2) Include your class and section. I need to know exactly which of my courses you are in before I can help you.
- 3) End the email with your name, that is “sign” your message. I also need to know who you are.

COURSE AND UNIVERSITY PROCEDURES/POLICIES

Course Specific Procedures

Academic Honesty and Dishonesty

You are expected to do your own work. Dishonesty will not be treated lightly. On each graded assignment I expect each student to honor the following pledge: “I hereby give my word that I have neither given nor received aid while completing this assignment.” Any student found violating this policy will receive a grade of zero for the assignment, and further action may be taken.

Plagiarism:

Plagiarism is taking someone else's work and passing it off as your own words, thoughts, or ideas. This includes, but is not limited to, using direct quotes out of a book or from the internet as your own words, properly using quotation marks but noting the wrong person as the author, purchasing a paper or exam from friends or strangers, using material from the internet verbatim as your own words, and cutting and pasting entire papers or internet pages and passing it off as your own work. Cheating on exams and discussion posts or allowing others to copy your answers is another form of academic dishonesty.

It may be acceptable to use other people's words and ideas as long as they receive credit in citations. If you are unsure about the precise definition of plagiarism and/or think you may have committed this form of academic dishonesty, see the instructor or visit the Online Writing Lab before you turn in the assignment.

Extra-credit

I do not usually give extra credit. Do not ask; that will lower the possibility.
