Student Expectations

Classroom Participation

All students enrolled at the university shall follow the tenets of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment. Students are expected to contribute to classroom discussions. Thoughtful participation means more than talking frequently, although this is encouraged. It means demonstrating both a knowledge of and a willingness to think critically about the assigned readings. Students are encouraged to engage not only with the professor and the material, but also with each other where appropriate. Students must remain a respect for their colleagues at all times.

Technology

All students enrolled at the University shall follow the tenets of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment. (See current Student Guidebook). Students should also consult the Rules of Netiquette for more information regarding how to interact with students in an online forum: Netiquette

Some course materials will be posted to the course website, managed through Pearson D2L. To get started with the course, go to myLeo. <http://www.tamuc.edu/myleo.aspx>

Academic Dishonesty and Plagiarism

Do not engage in any of the following:

- Plagiarism: The adoption or reproduction of ideas, words, statements, images, or works of another person as one's own without proper attribution. This includes self-plagiarism, which occurs when an author submits material or research from a previous academic exercise to satisfy the requirements of another exercise and uses it without proper citation of its reuse.

- Cheating: Using or attempting to use unauthorized materials, information, or study aids in any academic exercise. This includes unapproved collaboration, which occurs when a student works with others on an academic exercise without the express permission of the professor. The term academic exercise includes all forms of work submitted for credit or hours.
- Fabrication: Unauthorized falsification or invention of any information or citation in an academic exercise.

Going online and taking information without proper citations, copying parts of other student's work, creating information for the purposes of making your paper seem more official, or anything involving taking someone else's thoughts or ideas without proper attribution is academic misconduct. If you have a question about an assignment, please come see me to clarify. Any cases of academic misconduct may be reported to university administration for violating the academic honesty requirements in the student handbook. They will also result in failure of the assignment in question and possibly for the course.

Collaboration

Do not let the fear of committing plagiarism scare you away from genuine intellectual engagement and discussion with your colleagues. The best ideas will come out of such collaborative engagement, both during and outside of class. This type of collaboration should lead you to produce superior individually written papers.

Position Papers

Over the course of the semester, each student will write five, 4-5 page position papers related to the five course units. While each paper will have a distinct prompt and source requirements, all will require students to draw on and appropriately cite course readings to form historically grounded arguments. See the course writing guide for more details on formatting and style. Specific instructions for each unit paper will be provided on the unit overview on D2L. You must submit a digital copy to the D2L dropbox in addition to bringing a paper copy to class. These papers will be evaluated for insight, argument, use of evidence, and clarity of presentation—in that order of importance. After receiving their graded paper, students are strongly encouraged to resubmit a digital copy (with word's track changes feature) within a week after receiving their initial grade for regrading.

Presentations

Over the course of the semester, students will have be required to present their arguments and the results of their research to the class. The format of these presentations will vary depending on the unit, but all must demonstrate a depth of research and a commitment to communicating clearly and concisely. Above all, these presentations should not waste the time of your colleagues and professor. The single course grade for presentations will reflect a student's success in all such activities over the course of the semester.

Procedures and Policies

Drop/Withdrawal

If you decide that you need to drop or withdrawal from this course, it is your responsibility to complete the necessary paperwork. I will not drop you from the course if you stop attending.

Electronic Devices

Students are permitted to bring laptop computers to class for the purpose of note taking. Students are NOT permitted, however, to check e-mail, use the internet, complete other assignments, update facebook profiles, or use their computer or cell phone for any purpose other than taking notes unless expressly instructed to by the professor. Please silence your phones when you arrive each day.

Email Communication

All course communications will come through your university email account. Be sure to check it regularly. You should contact me through my TAMU-C email address (Andrew.Baker@tamuc.edu). I check my email regularly between 8 am and 5 pm Monday – Saturday. I do not check my campus email on Sunday. A failure of planning on your part does not constitute a crisis on my part.

Attendance

Regular attendance is vital to success in the course. Each unexcused absence after the third will result in a loss of 30 points from a student's participation grade. Only medical and family emergencies and university approved absences will be excused. Normal sickness does not qualify as an emergency and will only be excused with a doctor's note. Students are expected to obtain class notes from fellow students when absent. Students who show up more than ten minutes late to class will be considered absent for that day. A student who misses a day in which they are to present will have to arrange an alternate assignment with the professor, in advance if possible. Failure to do so will significantly hurt your participation and presentation grades.

Make-up Work

Position papers will be penalized one letter grade per day late, including weekends, to a maximum penalty of half the points available for the assignment. Students who anticipate university-approved absences must make arrangements to complete the work at an alternate time.

Syllabus Changes

The syllabus is a plan, not a contract. Circumstances and events, including student progress, may make it necessary for the instructor to modify the syllabus during the semester. Any changes made to the syllabus will be announced as far in advance as is practicable.

ADA Statement

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal anti-discrimination statute that provides comprehensive civil rights protection for persons with disabilities. Among other things, this legislation requires that all students with disabilities be guaranteed a learning environment that provides for reasonable accommodation of their disabilities.
