COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Instructional Methods, Activities, and Assessments

Instructional Methods

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, we will utilize a combination of the You-See-U virtual classroom in D2L and Zoom as our primary sources of interaction. Please let me know, immediately, if you do not have the technological capabilities to participate in class. I will want to work with you to address this issue as it is likely to impact you beyond this particular class.

While we will not physically meet in a classroom, students will be expected to log on virtually and participate during the scheduled meeting time (Please note – we are going to try to schedule one outdoor classroom activity if conditions permit). This class will be run as a virtual seminar course with numerous discussions and critical thinking. It will not be a typical lecture course. The skills and concepts you learn in this course shouldn't be merely memorized – they should be put into practice in your daily lives. Those practices require us to discuss your experiences during implementation. We will talk about what concerns, worries, struggles, and stressors you are facing as a college student and as an Honors College student. I want to hear you so I can facilitate your transition into higher education.

All assignments, schedules, and due dates are subject to change.

Assignments: unless otherwise noted, all assignments are due by your class day and time on that date.

Class Participation and Discussion

As you read above, this course relies upon your participation. Thus, a portion of your grade will rely upon your participation in discussions. There are numerous elements that go into class participation: (1) Good attendance (according to University rules, students may be dropped from the class for excessive unexcused absences). (2) Frequent, and preferably intelligent, contributions to class discussion; (3) Active participation in group exercises; (4) Polite and civil interactions with all members of the class. To earn points toward participation, students will be expected to utilize both video and audio components. For each class period in which the student is engaging both with audio and video capabilities, 10 points will be earned toward the participation grade. Discussions in D2L will also be utilized for critical thinking, group exercises, and reflection. Each D2L discussion thread in which the student adequately participates will earn 10 points toward the participation grade. ["All students enrolled at the University shall follow the tenets of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment." (See Student's Guide Handbook, Policies and Procedures, Conduct)]. Points: 150

Academic Planner:

You will use the academic planner you have purchased to plan out the rest of your semester. Take the syllabi from your classes in which you are enrolled (including this one). Put the major due dates from the syllabi in your planner. For example: Plant Assignment will go in the box for December 11. If you have lost a syllabus from a course, you can find it on the current schedule of classes (www.tamuc.edu/schedule). House Bill 2504 mandates that all syllabi must be posted by the first class day, so you will always have access to the information. We will meet individually to go over your planner. Points: 50 (Due Sept. 18)

Plagiarism Certificate

Plagiarism is a serious offense with lasting consequences. You will visit <https://www.indiana.edu/~istd/> for a tutorial on "How to Recognize Plagiarism". Visit each section on the left hand side, including IU Definition, Overview, Cases, Examples, and Practice. Once you feel you have mastered the material, take the Certification Test. Your age group is "I'm an undergraduate college student or advanced high school student". You will need to register an account to take the test, using a valid email address. When you pass the test, your certificate will be emailed to you. Submit your certificate in D2L before your class time on the due date. Points: 50 (Due Oct. 2)

Growth Event Paper

Growth occurs when we are able to develop - in our actions, thoughts, behaviors, or otherwise. All students grow during their first semester of college, sometimes unexpectedly. Undoubtedly, you will experience something that goes against your initial expectations of yourself or others. Write a reflection essay about a time this semester when you experienced growth. This could be relationally, academically, or personally. What situation or event were you confronted with? Did you embrace change initially or were you resistant? How do you feel the outcome of this growth relates to your experience as a college student, and how will it contribute to your success? Students may submit papers at any time prior to the due date. Please place your section on your paper. Points: 75 points total (Due Oct. 16)

Plant Assignment

You will be given a seed and soil on the first day of class. The assignment is to take it home and see what happens. Toward the end of the semester, you will submit a one-page reflection of your experience of the process. How did you start the process? Was it difficult to take care of your plant? Did it grow? Did you find yourself forgetting about it, or did you look forward to it each day? What did you take away from this assignment? How can you relate it to your academic career? Points: 50 (Due December 11)

Grading

A total of 375 points is available this semester. Final grades are based on the total number of points earned during the term in accordance, generally, with the following levels of proficiency:

A = 375-335
B = 295-334
C = 255-294
D = 215-254
F = 214 and below

TECHNOLOGY REQUIREMENTS, ACCESS AND NAVIGATION

Students will need access to the internet, a word processor, a webcam, and sound/microphone capabilities to participate in virtual discussions.
