COVID-19 Information

“A&M-Commerce requires the use of face-coverings in all instructional and research classrooms/laboratories. Exceptions may be made by faculty where warranted. Faculty have management over their classrooms. Students not using face-coverings can be required to leave class. Repetitive refusal to comply can be reported to the Office of Students’ Rights and Responsibilities as a violation of the student Code of Conduct. “

“Students should not attend class when ill or after exposure to anyone with a communicable illness. Communicate such instances directly with your instructor. Faculty will work to support the student getting access to missed content or completing missed assignments.”

Course Description

This course is an in-depth, advanced examination of the emerging body of contemporary literature in change theory and conflict management within education organizational systems. The course includes a culminating experience with students developing their own scholarly driven change model as it applies to their education organizational context.

Prerequisites Doctoral status: EDAD 695 Min Grade C and EDAD 671 Min Grade C and EDAD 601 Min Grade C and EDAD 637 Min Grade C

Upon completion of this course students will be able to successfully construct and implement an answer to the following scenario:

Describe a change situation that you will have to face as a public-school administrator. Detail the theoretical underpinning you will use to guide the process of changing a complex institution like a public-school system. What data will you use to recognize that there is a need for change? What steps would you take, at what levels, to initiate the process? How will you monitor the change? What measures will you use to determine the success of the change initiative?

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Design of the Course

This course is conducted in a 100% online format. All of the instruction and assignments will be delivered using the D2L learning media platform and thus, some obvious technological resources will be required.

- Access to a computer with Internet access (high-speed preferred)

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

- Access to a Webcam
- Document Productivity Software (Microsoft Office preferred)

As a student enrolled at Texas A&M University-Commerce, you have access to an email account via myLeo - all my emails sent from D2L (and all other university emails) will go to this account, so please be sure to check it regularly. Conversely, you are to email me via the D2L email system or your myLeo email as our spam filters will catch Yahoo, Hotmail, etc. and I will not check for your email in spam.

When sending emails be sure that you have the included your name and Course Number (EDAD 634) in the subject line.

This class design is based on constructivist learning principles. This means that the instructor creates an environment for learning by providing focus and guidance to the content. Assignments are designed to be learning experiences for students, and it is presumed and expected that students actively participate in the class through the construction of their own learning. As a graduate level course, the instructor expects quality work from each student supported by adequate preparation and involvement.

Class Participation

Given the constructivist design of the class, this course will be interactive. It is the expectation that all students participate fully for all activities and assignments in order to maximize their learning experience.

Each class may consist of several learning activities including (but not limited to) small & large group discussion, student-led learning activities, lecture and clarification, reflection activities, individual learning activities, written papers, and reflective, integrative examinations.

In order for this class to be interesting and beneficial, each student is expected to be prepared to lead and/or enter into discussions, to ask relevant questions, and to share the results of their study and reflection. This means that each student should be:

- (1) conscious of the class schedule and the requirements for each class (knowing what to be prepared for),
- (2) self-disciplined (spending time to be fully prepared),
- (3) eager to share with your classmates (participating actively by sharing what you have prepared). Participation is an extremely important part of your experience in this class. When you miss participating in a class assignment, not only do you miss information presented, but you miss the interaction of your classmates, which can lead to the loss of key learning experiences.

Assignments:

Regardless of circumstance, all assignments are due on the date specified. All assignment rubrics are found in Doc Sharing. All documents will be submitted in Word for grading.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Late work is not accepted, unless prior approval received by the instructor. Points may be deducted. You will have plenty of notification and time to complete course assignments. If you know you are going to be out of town and unable to access a computer, plan ahead. See course semester outline at the bottom of this syllabus.

Reading Assignments

The assigned readings serve to provide you with strong theoretical contexts for your explorations into public education administration. The readings along with the threaded discussions allow for you and your classmates to extend your learning opportunities by seeing the concepts in the books through multiple perspectives.

Video Viewing Assignments:

The videos embedded into modules provide some alternate views of the topic under examination for that particular week. Note that many videos are academic in nature and correlate to the change paradigms under examination. I have also included many videos that are commercial in nature. These videos offer glimpses into the prevailing educational business marketplace and how change and conflict management are contemplated. You will get a definite feel that someone is trying to sell you something. Are you buying?

Written Assignments

A number of written assignments will be submitted by students. These may be essays, journal entries, power point presentation, interview report, and/or a reflection paper. Students are to follow the APA 7 writing format. All assignment must have a title page and a reference page is scholarly work is cited or referenced.

Threaded Discussions:

Participation in the discussion forums is critical for maximizing your learning experiences in this course. You are required to be part of an online community who interact, through discussion, to enhance and support the professional development of the group. Part of the assessment criteria for the course includes assessing the quality and quantity of your participation in the discussion forum.

These are the discussion board topics you will read about and respond to at least twice weekly. These are the activities that will allow us to build our knowledge of topics collectively as a learning community. You will receive grades for only select postings, so plan accordingly. I will read and respond to select postings and try and share the flavor of the themes I see emerging. I suggest you do the same thing as you expand your professional understanding! Also, it will help you develop tools you will use during your comprehensive examinations. Please see the instructions under the Discussion tab in the Modules. Late discussion postings will not be accepted.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Discussion Thread Criteria:

Some characteristics we consider to be part of excellent discussion contributions are outlined below. I will consider these characteristics when assessing the quality and level of your participation.

- You should submit your initial post (thread) early in the session (by Thursday at the latest), and your subsequent responses to the posts of other learners at timely intervals within the duration of the session. Keep in mind the goal is to have a dynamic discussion that lasts throughout the entire session. Demonstrate the ability to respond to questions effectively.
- Your posts and responses should be thorough and thoughtful. Just posting an "I agree" or "Good ideas" will not be considered adequate. Support your statements with examples, experiences, or references. You are, however, encouraged to be brief — keep each post and response to one or two short paragraphs. Remember, your fellow learners will be reading and responding to you, too.
- Make certain to address the discussion prompt(s). This does not mean you should not extend the topic, but do not stray from the topic. Demonstrate the ability to relate the concepts presented to personal and professional experience by using examples from everyday practices.
- Discussions occur when there is dialogue. So, build upon the posts and responses of other learners to create discussion threads. Make sure you revisit the discussion forum and respond (if necessary) to what other learners have posted to your initial responses.
- When relevant, add to the discussion by including prior knowledge, work experiences, references, Web sites, resources, etc. (giving credit when appropriate), supporting your statement with concepts from the readings or by bringing in a related example or experience. Address the questions as much as possible (don't let the discussion stray). Try to use quotes from the articles that support your postings. Include page numbers when you do that.
- Your contributions to the discussions (posts and responses) should be complete and free of grammatical or structural errors. Use proper etiquette (proper language, typing, etc.).

Scholarly Group Activity and Submission

Each group is to envision a situation in which a major change had to be made or will need to be made in an institution of education. This may be a real situation or a construct. You will discuss and form the topic in your group on discussion boards as posted in the threads and share your deliberations and final choice with all. Follow the description below:

- Describe a change situation that you will have to face as a public-school administrator.
- Detail the theoretical underpinning you will use to guide the process of changing a complex institution like a public-school system.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

- What data will you use to recognize that there is a need for change?
- What steps would you take, at what levels, to initiate the process?
- How will you monitor the change?
- What measures will you use to determine the success of the change initiative?

Your groups have been formed with four students. Organize yourselves according to tasks that are to be completed. Each group will prepare and submit a multimedia presentation and a word document of their plan for classmate viewing (Doc Share - both the paper and presentation) and grading (Assignment Folder-paper only). The multimedia submission may be narrated PPT, video or other? The multimedia task should be between 5 and 8 minutes in length. The paper is to be more detailed and no more than 7 pages in length (include title page and reference page). Please use APA 7 formatting.

GRADING

Student Performance Evaluation: Evaluation will be based on successful completion of each of the performance expectations. Each expectation has been assigned a percentage of points towards the total on which the final course grade will be based.

Major Deliverables (project, paper, & discussion)	30 %
Discussions	30%
Weekly/Content Assignments	25%
Journal Assignments	15%

FINAL GRADE will be based on the following scale:

A = 90-100%

B = 80-89%

C = 70-79%

D = 60-69%

F = 59% and below

Course Organization

This course is organized by modules/units based on the dynamics of change and conflict resolution. Some topics may be studied across multiple weeks. All assignments due the assigned timeframe must be submitted by the posted due date. The calendar found in this course describes the modules found in each week of the 15-week course. Be sure to adhere to deadlines. This is a reading intensive course. I recommend you read ahead if at all possible.

What to Do First

Download syllabus, then open and read the Introduction module. Careful reading of the weekly announcement is strongly recommended as any changes updates, and important areas of information will be noted.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

How to Proceed with Class Activities Each Module

Caveat: This syllabus represents a relationship between the two of us regarding the evaluative measures and the content included in EDAD 634. I reserve the right to amend, revise, or change the content of the syllabus as deemed necessary.

Please Note: While students may receive numerical grades for various assignments listed in the syllabus based on the criteria provided by the instructor and which contribute to an overall grade average represented in the breakdown listed above, grades are given to primarily provide feedback to students and to guide the instructor in making an assessment of student work. The final grade awarded for the course, however, will be at the sole discretion of the instructor and will be based on several factors, including but not limited to the rubrics provided.

Incomplete Grades:

Per university policy, you must visit with the instructor, develop, and sign "A Plan for Completing the Grade of X" before you may receive an incomplete for the course. The reason for such requests is limited to "circumstances beyond student's control which prevented student from attending classes during Finals Week or the preceding three weeks" (Policy A 122.07, EDAD 671 Online Course Syllabus – MacDonald - 6/5/2010 12

Scholarly Expectations:

All works submitted for credit must be original works created by the scholar uniquely for the class. It is considered inappropriate and unethical, particularly at the graduate level, to make duplicate submissions of a single work for credit in multiple classes, unless specifically requested by the instructor. Work submitted at the graduate level is expected to demonstrate higher-order thinking skills and be of significantly higher quality than work produced at the undergraduate level.

Syllabus Change Policy

The syllabus is a guide. Circumstances and events, such as student progress, may make it necessary for the instructor to modify the syllabus during the semester. Any changes made to the syllabus will be announced in advance.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Academic Integrity

Students at Texas A&M University-Commerce are expected to maintain high standards of integrity and honesty in all of their scholastic work. For more details and the definition of academic dishonesty see the following procedures:

Undergraduate Academic Dishonesty 13.99.99.R0.03

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Plagiarism:

Plagiarism WILL NOT be tolerated and will result in an automatic F in the course. Various versions of your work and final papers will be run through Turnitin software - this is not meant to "catch" you in the act, but rather assist you in seeing possible areas that may be unintentionally plagiarized and allow for editing your work.

Words or ideas that require citations include, but are not limited to, all hardcopy or electronic publications whether copyrighted or not, and all verbal or visual communication when the content of such communication clearly originates from an identifiable source. Submissions to any public meeting or private mailbox fall within the scope of words and ideas that require citations if used by someone other than the original author.

In a nutshell, the term "copyright" refers to a form of protection provided by the laws of the United States in Title 17 of the United States Code. Copyright protection is provided to authors of "original works of authorship" including literary, dramatic, musical, artistic, and other intellectual works. One aspect of copyright that complicates things is that no publication, registration, or other action is required to secure copyright protection under U. S. Law. Copyright is secured automatically when the work is created.

Academic dishonesty in an online learning environment could involve:

- Having a tutor or friend complete a portion of your assignment.
- Having a reviewer make extensive revisions to an assignment.
- Copying work submitted by another student to a public class meeting.
- Using information from Online information services without proper citations.
- Again, all papers, reports, etc. may be submitted for review by the online library service "Turitin".
- Specific instructions will be given at a later date for access and use.
