COURSE MEETING DAY/TIME/PLACE/AND WORKING REQUIREMENTS

This course meets every Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 7:30am to 8:20am. Location BA 340 in the McDowell Bldg on the TAMUC campus. MyLab Eco learning management system is to be used as a study aid. Homework in MyLab Eco will be graded and part of your final grade. Location of Quizzes to be determined.

The table below maps text chapters to weeks of the semester. The quiz dates are in the same table in the right-hand column.

If you experience a technical problem with online software, you will need time to have it resolved by the appropriate Help Desk or Tech Support. What that means is don't wait until the last moment to do your work. Technical problems are an inevitable consequence of a digital work environment. I CANNOT RESOLVE TECHNICAL ISSUES. I have neither the expertise nor the access required. I won't try. I won't contact the Help Desk for you. Showing me a trouble ticket doesn't matter. What matters is sending me a copy of the resolution of your reported trouble, specifically the date and time of the resolution. See below under Late Work.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course introduces you to the basic concepts and tools of analysis in macroeconomics. Economics as a discipline is a behavioral science. From its inception, it has had the goal of understanding why some countries are wealthy and others not so much. The seminal work in organized economics is Adam Smith's An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations, published in 1776 (that year sound familiar?).

The focus of economics has become the operation of markets, with recent emphasis placed on the analysis of health care, the environment, crime, education and income/wealth inequality all of which are related to the competitiveness of the markets in which various goods and services are sold and labor employed. This course looks at the economy as a whole not individual markets for specific products. The latter focus is the purview of Microeconomics, Eco 2302.

At the heart of societal structure are three questions, namely, what to produce, how to produce it and who is going to get what is produced. Every argument or debate about the state of the economy, the outcomes we produce for ourselves, or how it should be managed is about one or more of these three questions. At the end of the day, the way we answer these questions determines how much stuff there is to divide up (a lot or a little) and what the division will be between the haves and the have nots (definitions of the latter are ambiguous at best). In every society, wealth and income are determined by the degree of control one has over the allocation of scarce resources. Scarce resources include but are not limited to such things as intelligence, education, skills, ambition, initiative, raw materials and technology and the degree of corruption among the governing authorities. We will examine these issues and the conflict they create between individual liberty and the limits placed on individual liberty by the collective (as manifested by some form of government).

MAKING YOUR GRADE

Exams = 80% of final grade.

Attendance – University Policy

Students are expected to be present for all class meetings of any course for which they are enrolled. Students are responsible for learning about and complying with the attendance policy stated in the catalog, Student Guidebook, and/or faculty syllabus.

Faculty members will provide details on requirements and guidelines for attendance in their classes in their course syllabus. Faculty members will keep students' attendance records. There will be a sign-in sheet in class. Excessive absences = > 6 unexcused.

MyLab Econ Homework = 10%

AD/AS Spreadsheet = 10% of final grade. See below.

There will not be any extra credit work made available on request. If you can't do the work that is required, how do you expect to do anything more? Do the work assigned, do it well and on time and you will likely make a C or better. This is one of the more difficult courses you will take while matriculating at Texas A&M University-Commerce. It is not likely you had a course this difficult in high school.

LATE WORK

Make up quizzes will generally not be given. Due dates for Quizzes will generally not be extended. Due dates missed will be assigned a zero unless you can provide me with a reasonable excuse and proof of same, trouble resolution statement identifying the Help Desk's acknowledgement that a legitimate technical problem existed as you reported to them and that they resolved it. If you have a university sanctioned event inform me ahead of time. If you are an athlete, I need an email from the athletic department staff verifying your actual participation in any event that causes you to miss a class or an assignment due date.

NUMERIC GRADING RANGES

All grading will be $\geq 90\%$ = A; 80-89% = B; 70-79% = C; 60-69% = D with $< 60\%$ = F. Nothing unusual here. This is the university's grading scale.

Please also note that if this course is required for your major, you will not graduate with a D.

If you are NOT in the STEM College, this is one of the most difficult courses you will take.

Plan to spend more time on it each week than that to which you are accustomed.

AD/AS Assignment:

- We will develop an Excel spreadsheet of the AD/AS model. We will put that model through its paces in a macroeconomics policy simulation. You will write up your results with particular attention to how your results compared to what the theory suggested might happen. More in class.

	1 – Failing/Poor (D or F)	2 – Emergent (C)	3 – Successful (B)	4 – Mastery Level (A)
Citation	Failed to cite properly any references to outside sources	Only pasted the URL	Cited the reference, but not using accepted format	Correct citation

Correctly identifies market issues, discusses economic choices/consequences	Demonstrates a solid grasp of economic implications. Makes correct use of economic terms. Recognizes the tradeoffs inherent in economic structural choice.

Critical thinking	Student fails to identify central concepts and implications of author's central thesis.	Student can identify critically thematic issues, but doesn't identify the distinction between long- and short-term critical implications, or how different segments of society can have different objectives.	Student identifies critical impacts and does 2 of the following: -identifies the potential effects on societal functioning, even if they are not completely elaborated in the article. -identifies winners/losers -proposed recommendations fit scenario, data, and economic principles.	Student identifies societal impacts and does more than 2 of the following: -identifies the potential effects on society, even if they are not completely elaborated in the article. -identifies winners/losers - Proposed recommendations fit scenario, data, and economic principles.

STUDENT CONSIDERATIONS

- Any emails sent from outside the university domain will be deleted without being opened. The IT folks require this action as a security precaution.
- If you have an issue that needs urgent attention, use email first. If you have an exercise that you can't work, use the Question Help/Challenge feature embedded in every homework item. If that doesn't work, schedule a face to face in meeting in Zoom or in BA 102B.
- Cheating on exams or plagiarizing assignments will absolutely not be tolerated. You must read the TAMU-Commerce Academic Honesty Policy posted in the Content section in D2L. Continuing in the class is an implicit agreement to abide by the terms of the Honesty Policy. If you are caught cheating in this class, you and anyone else involved will receive an F for the class. I take this VERY seriously and do a fair amount of research into any suspicious results or similarities. Online cheating is actually much easier to detect than you would expect. Depending on the severity of the offense, you may be expelled from the University for Academic Dishonesty.
- The deadline for dropping a class is listed under the academic schedule.
