Recommended Texts:

MLA Handbook for Writers of Research Papers, 9th ed.

Course Description:

Studies of the major documents in the evolution of dramatic theory, from classical foundations through major movements to contemporary criticism.

Student Learning Outcomes: By the end of this course, the student will be able to:

1. Recognize, identify, and differentiate dramatic critical/theoretical ideas.
2. Demonstrate appropriate interpretation of standard critical/theoretical literature utilizing a vocabulary specific to material covered in the course.
3. Apply critical theory with assurance and to write persuasive, theoretically grounded analyses that add to critical conversation.
4. Synthesize academic research into cohesive scholarly writing and oral presentation.

Course Objectives:

To introduce students to (or reacquaint them with) major critical/theoretical thinkers who have influenced ideas about theatre. To gain a more complete understanding of past critical theory and to grasp the ramifications of its interpretation and application to both historical and contemporary theatre.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS
----------------------------

Instructional / Methods / Activities Assessments:

Talking Points (12 @ 2.5 pts = 30 pts.): Each student will complete lucid and cogent talking points for each class meeting. These can be in whatever format you choose (bullet points usually work best) but should be questions and/or comments (anything that can assist with a class discussion) that struck you while reading.

Application Papers (5 @ 5 pts. = 25 pts. total): Students will submit 5 short papers that apply the theoretical underpinnings of our readings to plays of the period (Antigone, Le Cid, Miss Julie, The Dream Play, and Marat/Sade). You will need to focus on how the ideas set forth in the critical/theoretical texts work (or do not work) as applied to the play. Papers should "cut to the chase," focus on/explore a single aspect of the texts/plays, and should cite both actions and lines from the plays and theoretical/critical texts. Papers should be approx. 2-3 pages, typed, double spaced, 12 pt. font (or whatever your default font/size is), well-organized (complete sentences, full paragraphs). I will consider spelling, punctuation, and sentence structure in the grading. Papers are to be submitted via email. I will not accept hard copies of your papers. However, students will need to have access to their papers for in-class discussions.

Abstract (10 pts): Students will submit a short (250-300 word) abstract that summarizes their paper topic and the critical lens(es) they will use. We will discuss how to write an abstract in class.

Rough Draft (15 pts): Students must turn in a rough draft of their paper. Rough drafts need not have formal "scholarly apparatus" as in proper formatting of Endnotes and Works Cited, but be forewarned. These are not to be slap-dash efforts. These must be coherent, fully formed papers, 12-15 pages in length. They must be well-organized and draw a conclusion. You have to give me a paper that is ready for editorial comments, not stream-of-consciousness. PLAN AHEAD.

Polished Paper (20 pts): Each student will turn in a conference length paper (10-15 pages) analyzing a particular performance (note: performance does not necessarily denote "traditional" theater) or play, applying a theoretical lens(es)/concepts covered in class (note: concepts from The Poetics through Brecht & Artaud are not included in these options; you must use those from Boal, Soyinka, and Havel onward. You may, however, use concepts covered in the Theatre Theory Theatre text not covered in class - ie: Asian theatre practitioners such as Bharata or Zeami).

Papers must "cut to the chase" and demonstrate what, using the material we have studied, you can add to critical conversation. DO NOT spend a lot of time introducing or explaining your critical lens. In fact, TRY not to even name it. Best papers will incorporate contemporary critical theory, give the critical history of the performance/play, and provide an original argument on this topic. This project is to familiarize students with the research process and to prepare them for future, more extensive research.

During the final exam period, students will present part (12-15 minutes) of the final draft of their research papers. This means you will need to cut your paper down to c. 7-8 pages/talk us through your paper in a "scholarly" fashion. We will approach this final presentation in the manner of an academic scholarly panel.

Grading:

The following grading scale will be used to determine all individual grades as well as the student's overall grade in the course:

90-100 =	A
80-89=	B
70-79=	C
60-69=	D
59 and below=	F

Please note: A grade of "A" will not be assigned to an individual who has not completed ALL outside of class assignments, regardless of average.

COMMUNICATION AND SUPPORT

Contacting Me:

Please feel free to visit me during my office hours at any time during the semester. Virtual meetings during these hours via Zoom are available (& preferable. If an in-person meeting is preferred, I request that you wear a mask while in my office). If you can't make my office hours due to a scheduling conflict, please set up an appointment with me. The easiest and most reliable way to contact me is via email. Please do not leave a message for me in the main department office.

Email Policy:

Before sending me an email with a general course-specific question, review your syllabus/look at the handouts/check D2L/ask a classmate first. If your question has already been addressed in one of those places, then you will have the answer you need. If your question does not exist, please feel free to email me.

When emailing me: Please make your emails clear and concise, written with proper grammar in order to assure my earliest attention. In addition, please follow some common "email etiquette" procedures in order to keep our electronic communication effective and efficient. Specifically:

- Write a relevant subject line (e.g., "Dramatic Theory question," or "THE 511 meeting request")
- Address me by name (ie: "Dear Professor Worley" or "Hi Becca" or just "Becca")
- Concisely state what it is you need. If it can't be communicated in a concise manner, perhaps request an appointment. If requesting an appointment, give me times that you are available in the initial email!!! My office hours are posted above.
- Use a "sign-off" ("Thank you" is always good) and sign your name.

Not following these guidelines potentially puts you at the bottom of my list for response time.
