Course Description

HIST 526 - Readings in Transatlantic History

Hours: 3

This course introduces students to the broad outlines of Transatlantic History, covering the period from 1492 to the present. It focuses on scholarship that examines the interconnected histories of Europe, Africa, and the Americas, integrating them into a broader discussion of the world and global issues.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

This is a reading-intensive course with bi-weekly reading response papers and a project proposal paper. There is an expectation that students will come to class with the materials read beforehand and be able to discuss critically the topic/materials of the week.

Student Learning Outcomes

This course will teach students to evaluate and analyze materials, and to understand different historians' interpretations of events. By the end of the semester, students should be able to explain what transatlantic history is. Students' ability to meet the objectives and learning outcomes of this course are evaluated through reading response papers and a final project.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Minimal Technical Skills Needed

Using the learning management system and using Microsoft Word

Instructional Methods

This class is face-to-face with additional assignments in D2L Brightspace

Tips for Success in the Course

The major assignment for this semester will be a research project proposal. All citations must be formatted according to Turabian/Chicago style. Please refer to Kate Turabian, A Manual for Writers of Research Papers, Theses, and Dissertations, 9th ed. (Chicago: University of Chicago Press, 2018). If you do not have a copy of this work, it is recommended that you acquire one ASAP.

GRADING

Grading: This course is based on the 100-point system. All assignments are worth 100 points. The final exam is weighted the same as the other two exams. I do not round up. If you earn an 89.9 you will receive a B for the course.

Final grades are determined on the following scale:

100 –90 = A, 89 –80 = B, 79 –70 = C, 69 –60 = D, 59 and below = F

Assessments

Your participation/course engagement grade will be based on your engagement in our class discussions and be guided by the following rubric:

- A = Always prepared, frequently participates, rarely absent
- B = Always prepared, participates only when called on, rarely absent
- C = Usually prepared, rarely speaks, rarely absent
- D = Often unprepared, several absences
- F = Usually unprepared, frequent absences

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

There will be eight (8) reading response papers, one (1) in-class author presentation, and one (1) research project proposal in this course. The assignment details and rubrics will be covered in separate handouts.

Research project proposal (1):	30%
In-class Author Presentation:	5%
Reading analysis/engagement:	35%
Reading response papers (8):	30%
TOTAL:	100%

Descriptions of assignments:

Short Response Papers

Of the twelve assigned books, students will choose eight for which they will write a 500-750 word response paper, to be handed the day before the class for which the book is assigned. These papers should analyze the goals, methodologies, and arguments of the readings, and relate them to previous course readings and discussions as applicable. Students will share summaries of their papers at the beginning of each class to help launch the discussion.

In-Class Author Presentation

Each student will sign up to present on one week's book and author. This requires researching the author's intellectual biography (whose work influenced them, etc.), their previous and subsequent works (if applicable), and reviews of the assigned book (if available), and orally presenting the results in class accompanied by a visual presentation.

Research Project Proposal

At the end of the semester, students will turn in a project proposal of 2500-3000 words. This proposal will identify a topic or problem within transatlantic history and propose a research project designed to address it. Students will identify a research question, summarize (to the best of their ability) the pertinent historiographical debates, and identify the sources, research methodology, and theoretical framework to be used in answering the research question. This proposal is intended to serve as a foundation for a future research project in one of the History Department's research seminars, for a possible thesis or capstone project, and in preparation for the master's qualification exam.

Interaction with Professor Statement

Students are strongly encouraged to interact with me. The more you let me know what is going on with you, the better I can help you out. Beyond the classroom, the best way to get in touch with me is through TAMUC email. I am also available during my office hours. Please come to talk to me about any concerns you might have and about any problems or issues that arise during the semester. We can meet in-person or via Zoom.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

CHSSA Librarian:

Our librarian for Humanities and Social Sciences is Sarah Northam. She is available to assist you in your research, whether it is using the library or identifying and locating sources. Please take advantage of this assistance, as you need it. Her contact information is as follows:

COURSE AND UNIVERSITY PROCEDURES/POLICIESClassroom/In-Zoom Behavior

All students are expected to observe basic tenets of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment (See Student's Guide Handbook, Policies and Procedures, Conduct). During class time, I expect graduate-level professionalism & course engagement. This means putting away cell phones, and other devices, and any other forms of distraction, for the duration of the class period (exceptions will be allowed with advance permission of the professor).

Please come to class on time and plan to stay for the entire period. Coming late and/or disrupting the learning environment shows disrespect for me, your colleagues, and the educational endeavor in which you are engaged. If you must leave early, please let me know at the beginning of class when possible.

I encourage you to come to my office hours, to get to know me, and to keep me informed of any issues you might have that would affect your performance in this class (see above statement on Interaction with Professor).

Late Papers

All written assignments are due as indicated in this syllabus. Late assignments may be accepted at the discretion of the professor and will be assessed a penalty. If you know you will be away when something is due, please notify the professor in advance or plan to turn the assignment in early. I can be very understanding and flexible with you, but only if you come to talk to me in advance. To pass this class, all assignments must be completed. Any missing assignments at the end of the course will be given a grade of zero (0).

Syllabus Change Policy

The syllabus is a working document and a guide. Circumstances and events, such as student progress, may make it necessary for the instructor to modify the syllabus during the semester. Any changes made to the syllabus will be announced in advance.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.
