Course Description

SOC 320. Deviant Behavior. 3 semester Hours. An introduction to the general phenomenon of social deviance. The course focuses on criminal as well as non-criminal deviance such as mental disorders, drug use, and prostitution. Theoretical approaches which seek to explain deviance will be critically explained. (Recommended prerequisite courses: SOC 1301).

This online graduate course explores advanced sociological principles through the use of selected classic and contemporary readings. Students will be expected to read, synthesize, and integrate a wide variety of sociological materials and to analyze and discuss them from divergent theoretical perspectives.

Student Learning Outcomes

After completing this course students should be able to:

1. Develop a sociological perspective on deviant behavior.
2. Explore and critically analyze major theoretical perspectives on deviant behavior.
3. Explore and critically examine research on specific types of deviant behavior.
4. Develop and foster critical thinking skills and the enhancement of the students' abilities to express their ideas in written and oral communication.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Minimal Technical Skills Needed

The class will use the D2L learning management system. Students in the class may be required to use or be able to perform task employing Microsoft Word, PowerPoint, and using presentation and graphics programs, etc.

Instructional Methods

All assignments must be posted into D2L (our online learning management system). All assignments or any other class activities must be submitted by 11:59pm. In most cases assignments or responsibilities will be posted early and there will be a time span in which the student may submit the assignment.

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course

With this being an online class, students must make sure they are reading and understanding the class instructions. Students are encouraged to make sure they are keeping up with their readings and aware of the due dates for various assignments. All class assignments must be submitted on time and students should do their best on each assignment.

Since this is a graduate class, we enter it with some assumption that you are familiar with at least the basic ideas of sociology and familiarity with sociological jargon. At this point you should have the ability to think somewhat like a sociologist.

Tips on How to be successful in this Class:

1. Students must commit serious time to reading the assigned readings.
2. Students should ask questions of the professor if there is any information he/she does not understand.
3. Students must commit a serious amount of time to preparation for the exams, writings and other assignments.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

4. Students must submit all assignments on time.

Assessments

DISCUSSIONS/PARTICIPATION:

Particular modules will have a discussion board assignment. Answers to Discussion Questions must be posted not later than Saturday at 11:59 p.m. Late Replies receive no credit (think of it as missing a traditional class, and therefore not being able to participate). Also, you are required to respond to at least two peers on all discussion boards.

The discussion posts are your question responses-substantive responses to my question found in the discussion board. The substantive posts should: 1) reference course material, 2) link course material to outside experience or current events, and 3) facilitate further class discussion. Substantive posts that address all three criteria will receive 10 points. To get full credit (10 points/ 1 week) for discussion, the students must post on time considerate responses and thoughtful interpretation of the readings.

The peer response posts will engage in the minimum of two of your peer's question responses. In this post, you will provide a substantive evaluation of your peer's response! Responding to other students post are essential in creating a dynamic learning environment. We all can learn from each other. Response posts should further the discussion and should not simply be creative ways of saying "I agree" or "I disagree"! Response post are part of the 10 points/1 week total. You are encouraged to make additional posts. Please engage each other as much as you can-the success of any on-line course is very much dependent on the amount of interaction which YOU have with your peers.

EXAMINATIONS:

There will be four major examinations worth 100 pts. each. The exams will include multiple choice and short answer questions. The exams are scheduled in the course outline and will be taken online on designated from Monday at 8am and ending Saturday at 11:59pm. So you have the same amount of time to complete the weekly and discussions and exams when due.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.
