The Literature Review: A Step by Step Guide for Students by Diana Ridley

Course Description

This is a graduate course that prepares students to write research based literature reviews. The course will cover a variety of techniques for collecting literature related to a research topic, as well as various techniques for writing a successful literature review. Students will also discuss the process of knowledge creation and researchers' roles in producing knowledge.

Student Learning Objectives

1. Students will be able to examine their role as researchers in knowledge production.
2. Students will be able to conduct research of previous literature relating to a research topic of their choice.
3. Students will be able to write a well crafted literature review of a research topic of their choice.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

To be successful in the course you must be able to use D2L, and using Microsoft Word and PowerPoint.

Instructional Methods

This course will be delivered entirely online. You must have access to D2L in order to complete the requirements for this course.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course

You must log into D2L multiple times a week in order to be successful in this course. All course communications and assignments will be completed through D2L. If you have questions regarding access to D2L or technical requirements, information to reach out to Campus IT is provided below.

ASSESSMENTS

Weekly D2L Discussion Posts: (11 posts @ 30: 330 points total)

Each week students will need to post a 500 word summary of the week's readings and how the readings help situate scientific knowledge creation and assessment. The first three weeks' readings will focus on knowledge creation while the rest of the semester will focus on reviewing other people's scholarly studies. Students must interact with at least two of your fellow students' post each week.

Research Question and Hypothesis (1@ 100 points)

You will choose a research topic that interests you and will be responsible for crafting a research question and hypothesis. Please provide an introduction to your topic..what are the main questions you are interested in examining? Why is this topic an important topic for research? Provide a general overview in addition to your research and hypothesis. Should be one to two pages long.

First Draft of Literature Review: (1@200 points)

Each student will choose a research topic to craft a literature review about. The literature review draft will focus on synthesizing the major arguments and literature surrounding the research topic that the student has chosen. Should be six to eight pages long double spaced.

Concept Mapping: (1@20 points)

Students will draw or create a concept map that outlines their main arguments and the literature that they will be using.

Final Literature Review (1 @ 300 pts: 250 points total)

Each student will turn in a final draft of the literature review that has been reviewed by at least two peers and that addresses the professor's feedback from the first draft. Should be six to eight pages long.

Total Class Points: 1000 Points

Grade Scale: A 900-1000

B 800-899

C 700-799
