Prerequisites: HIED 696 or EDAD 698. Note: The course is intended for advanced doctoral students who plan to do a qualitative study for their dissertations and/or seek in-depth practical experience in the use of qualitative research methods used in educational research (e.g., interview strategies, participant observation, and case studies). Students will engage in practice and skill development in analyzing and interpreting qualitative data, communicating results, and evaluating qualitative research. Each student will complete a qualitative research project and write a journal length article based on the research.

General Course Information

This course is experiential and involves an active lecture-discussion format. It will involve lecture, class and small group discussions, reading and writing assignments, and student presentations. There will be substantial emphasis on learning to access and utilize the research literature, to critically analyze the results of published research, to design qualitative studies, and to translate research into practical applications in professional contexts.

Course Goals and Objectives:

Upon completion of the course, students will be able to:

1. Identify and describe different types of qualitative approaches and designs.
2. Understand the historical and political influences impacting qualitative evaluation and research.
3. Develop and reflect on their identity and role as a researcher.
4. Recognize ethical considerations in qualitative research.
5. Apply and tailor various approaches and designs for educational and social programs.
6. Pose qualitative research questions and develop problem statements.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change

7. Describe data collection alternatives and develop various types of data collection tools and guides.
8. Collect data using tools developed in class.
9. Understand how to enhance the quality and credibility of qualitative research findings.
10. Become familiar with specific topics and issues in qualitative research such as ethnography, case studies, qualitative interviews, focus groups, open-ended items on questionnaires, participant observation, document review, sampling techniques, and triangulation.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Minimal Technical Skills Needed

In this class, you will utilize the Learning Management System (LMS) entitled D2L for portions of instructional and learning methods, submitting assignments, participating in online discussions, and completing quizzes. You will need to utilize other technologies such as Microsoft Word, PowerPoint, etc. If you have issues with this system, it is your responsibility to contact the help desk immediately.

Instructional Methods

Face to face instruction, experiential activities, discussion, small group activities, and seminar based learning

In this course, we will be utilizing peer review teams. I will assign you a writing/research consultation to serve as your reviewer and editor for assignments. During this time, you will have one hour to utilize in class. Your peer will provide this service for homework assignments and the final paper. More information will be provided below in assignments.

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course

As a student in this course, you are responsible for the active learning process. Expectations of this course include the following:

Final Grading

Class Attendance and Participation	10 points
Prospectus Outline	45 points
Qualitative dissertation Critique Presentation	20 points
Memory Text and Theme Analysis	40 points
Observation/Ethnographic Record	40 points

Total 155 points

Total points possible = 235. Your Final Grade is determined adding the point values earned from each assignment and then dividing by 235. The resulting value is multiplied by 100 to yield a percentage. For example: $(225 \text{ [points earned]} / 235) \times 100 = 96$

*Written assignments are due on the day noted in the syllabus. All papers are due at the beginning of the class period. Late papers will have 10% deduction per day late from the final score. After a week late, you will receive a 0.

Browser support

D2L is committed to performing key application testing when new browser versions are released.

New and updated functionality is also tested against the latest version of supported browsers. However, due to the frequency of some browser releases, D2L cannot guarantee that each browser version will perform as expected. If you encounter any issues with any of the browser versions listed in the tables below, contact D2L Support, who will determine the best course of action for resolution. Reported issues are prioritized by supported browsers and then maintenance browsers.

Supported browsers are the latest or most recent browser versions that are tested against new versions of D2L products. Customers can report problems and receive support for issues. For an optimal experience, D2L recommends using supported browsers with D2L products.

Maintenance browsers are older browser versions that are not tested extensively against new versions of D2L products. Customers can still report problems and receive support for critical issues; however, D2L does not guarantee all issues will be addressed. A maintenance browser becomes officially unsupported after one year.
