Course Description

While there is some debate over what counts as the first adolescent novel (a debate we will discuss in class), adolescent literature today has been indelibly influenced by the problem novel genre in which social issues are brought to life and explored through narrative. This course examines the problems common in twenty-first century adolescent literature, including (but not limited to) race, gender, sexuality, class, indigeneity, religion, age, and genre/media. Each week, we will tackle a different problem, examining how specific texts address the problem along with larger questions about why these problems are so prominent in adolescent fiction today.

Student Learning Outcomes: Students will be able to:

1. Identify and analyze various social problems within adolescent texts.
2. Define adolescence and young adult literature within the current American landscape.
3. Analyze specific adolescent literature texts and tie such analysis to cultural exploration.
4. Critically and respectfully approach scholarly inquiries and develop inquiries of their own.
5. Develop and implement their own project plans.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Minimal Technical Skills Needed

The most important technical skill you need is the ability to use a word processor, such as Microsoft Word or Google Docs. Unless otherwise noted in the assignment prompt, all projects and essays must be submitted as a Word Doc, a Google Doc, or a pdf. You will also need to be familiar with D2L and websites such as YouTube. If you choose to do the Creative Tract, you will also need to know how to use the editor appropriate for the medium you've chosen (e.g., iMovie if you're making a video, Audacity if you're making a podcast, Canva if you're making a visual project, etc.).

Instructional Methods

This course is in person, and most of our work will take place while we are together in the classroom. Each day will consist of a lecture and some kind of class conversation or activity. I will also offer feedback on everything you submit. If you ever want more feedback, please let me know.

Student Responsibilities

You will need to complete readings (or viewings) for every class, including a mixture of primary and secondary sources, in order to engage fully in the conversations we will have each Thursday. This is a graduate course, so I expect each of you to come to class with thoughts, ideas, and questions about our readings. I will lead questions and activities, but part of the work of this course is to develop your own way for approaching the weekly texts, both on your own and in collaboration with your classmates. You will also need to complete a major project (which will require extra work on your part) and small engagement assignments to fully engage with our topic and our community.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

GRADING

In this course, you have complete control over your grade. This course uses what's called Gameful or Gameified learning, designed around concepts of gaming. Basically, there are many assignments you can complete in this course. You choose which assignments you want to complete based on what interests you and what you think will benefit your learning journey most. So, for example, if you're a current teacher wanting to refine your pedagogical skills, you can work on developing ready-to-use class materials. Likewise, if you want to develop something that could become a journal article, you can do that. You choose which assignments work best for you.

As you complete assignments, you will rack up points. While I will assign points to each project, your grade rests mostly on completion. If you do all that is asked of you in the manner and spirit it is asked, you will earn all of the points that assignment is worth. I may disagree or misunderstand your ideas, but if you put in the labor, you are guaranteed all the points on each assignment you submit. Assignments will not earn full points if they are shorter than the assigned prompt, late, or do not complete the work of the assignment prompt (see policies below).

Your semester grade will be determined by how many points you have at the end:

- A = 90+ points
- B = 80-89 points
- C = 70-79 points
- D = 60-69 points
- F = less than 60 points

You can turn in as many or as few assignments as you like to get the score you want. In other words, your grade does not depend on the quality of your work; my comments will be geared towards quality to help you strengthen your analysis and writing skills. Instead, your grade depends completely on what you turn in and how much you're engaging in the work of the course. This is intended to give you more room to experiment and fail, to alleviate stress since you will have control over all that you do, and to allow you to chart your own educational path within this course. If you'd like to learn more about gameful learning, you can do so here.

Assessments

There are six required assignments:

- Contextualization Presentation (10 points) in which you will 10-15-minute presentation on the subject of one of our classes.
- Tract declaration (10 points) in which you will explain which of the Major-Project tracts you will work through for the rest of the semester.
- Annotated Bibliography (10 points) in which you will review pieces like your own proposed project.
- Formal Proposal (10 points) in which you will write a formal proposal appropriate for your chosen track after doing the research for your Annotated Bibliography.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

- Workshop Draft (10 points) which you will submit the penultimate week of class then get feedback on before the Major Project is due.
- Major Project (30 points) in which you will engage with the work of this course in a sustained way through one of five options:
 - Scholarly Tract: write an article-length scholarly essay
 - Pedagogical: develop a unit plan/syllabus and other materials to teach children's literature to a level of your choice
 - Creative: create a children's text of your own
 - Digital: plan and possibly implement a digital project about children's literature
 - Writer's choice: in consultation with me, develop a different project in relation to children's literature

Alongside these projects, you can also earn Community Engagement points that allow you to engage in our course community in a variety of ways:

- Class notes (3 points each)
- Office hours (3 points each)
- Discussion boards (3 points each week completed)
- Reading the World (5 points)
- Social media essay (5 points)
- Text/Event Review (5 points)

TECHNOLOGY REQUIREMENTS

LMS

All course sections offered by Texas A&M University-Commerce have a corresponding course shell in the myLeo Online Learning Management System (LMS). Below are technical requirements

LMS Requirements:

ACCESS AND NAVIGATION

You will need your campus-wide ID (CWID) and password to log into the course. If you do not know your CWID or have forgotten your password, contact the Center for IT Excellence (CITE) at 903.468.6000 or helpdesk@tamuc.edu.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Note: Personal computer and internet connection problems do not excuse the requirement to complete all course work in a timely and satisfactory manner. Each student needs to have a backup method to deal with these inevitable problems. These methods might include the availability of a backup PC at home or work, the temporary use of a computer at a friend's home, the local library, office service companies, Starbucks, a TAMUC campus open computer lab, etc.

COMMUNICATION AND SUPPORT

If you have any questions or are having difficulties with the course material, please contact your Instructor.

Technical Support

If you are having technical difficulty with any part of Brightspace, please contact Brightspace Technical Support at 1-877-325-7778. Other support options can be found here:

Interaction with Instructor Statement

As an instructor, communication is key with me. I am happy to be flexible with most things in this course if it will help you succeed, but I'm not a mind reader. You have to tell me what you need so that I can help you. If you need to contact me, send me an email. Generally, I will respond to emails sent between 8am and 5pm, Monday-Friday, within 24 hours of receiving them. If you have an urgent question about an assignment that's due on Sunday, you might want to start working on it by Friday so you have a chance to ask me before the weekend. If you forget and get started late, just let me know you need more time in the Extension Request Form. If I plan to be away from my computer for more than a couple of days, I will let you know in advance. I will also update the online grades as quickly as I can. I aim for no more than a week, but it may take me longer, especially with longer projects. You will receive written feedback for every project, so make sure you check for it. I often use rubrics, so if it looks like I didn't leave any comments, look for the rubric.

COURSE AND UNIVERSITY PROCEDURES/POLICIES

Course Specific Procedures/Policies

Policy on Humanity

My courses and teaching are designed around two core concepts: adaptability and empathy:

- I recognize that you have considerable knowledge about many things coming into this class. I start by exploring what you already know so that I can help you take your skills and refine and strengthen them. I also want you to be able to take what you learn in my class forward with you. So, I design my courses around skills that I can teach you that you can then apply elsewhere as you move through your education and life.
- I know that you do not begin and end with this class, and I approach each student first and foremost as a human being who, if we're being honest, may have more important things going on in their lives than this class. Your health—physical, mental, emotional, spiritual, financial—is more important than anything we will do or discuss, and I want you to prioritize them. That means a few things:

- If you need help, accommodation, an extension, or anything else to perform as well as you can while also maintaining your health, please let me know. That also means that you can eat and drink in class if you need to, that you can use technology as it best serves you, and that if you need to leave the room at any point for your health (including mental and emotional), please do so.
- This class will be full of human bodies, so please be considerate. If you are sick, stay home. There are plenty of ways to make up any day of class.
- As a fellow human being, I respect you. By respect, I mean that I will always do my best to see you as a whole human being whose life experiences have created a person who acts in certain ways and who deserves to be treated like a human being. All I ask is that just as I respect you as a human being, you treat me and your peers with that kind of respect. We may at times cover new or difficult material and we all may have different opinions about it. I ask that you keep an open mind and be respectful with me, your classmates, and our material.

Ultimately, my goal is to discover where you are on your personal learning journey and help you move along that journey in whatever way I can. Most importantly, I am here to help you, not harm you. If there is ever anything I can do to help you with that, please let me know!

Absence Policy

While your presence in the course will help both you and your classmates learn and process the material, life often finds a way to get in the way. So, every student is allowed three missed days within the semester without a penalty. You do not have to tell me why you're absent (unless you believe that your absence would count as one of TAMUC's attendance policy's reasons for excused absence, at which point, you should definitely tell me); you may be sick or need to work an extra shift or look after a child or simply need a mental health day to be the best you that you can be. You do not owe me an explanation for organizing your time as well as you can. When you have missed three days, I will let you know that you have used your free absence days. At this point, you will lose five grade points for every day you miss.

Makeup Work

If you are absent for any reason at any point in the course, you can complete a make-up activity by contacting me to receive the specific activity for that day. If, and only if, you have missed more than three days, this makeup activity will replenish the five points you lose from missing additional days. Either way, the makeup activity will allow you to complete whatever educational objective you missed for the day you are gone.

Grading Policies:

- Late projects: Because there are so many different projects due at different times, it is helpful if you turn assignments in on time. All formal and informal assignments should be ready to turn in at the beginning of the class they are due and/or submitted to D2L no later than the stated deadline. If you need an extension, fill out the Extension Request Form before the due date; if you need more time to do your best work, I'm absolutely happy to give up to a week extra (for real, I give out extensions like free candy, except at the very end of the semester, when I need to turn in grades). If, and only if, you don't communicate with me, late projects will lose two points each calendar day they are late.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

- Short projects: Each of the assigned projects has been designed to fit a certain length, the word requirement given on the assignment prompt. I do give you wiggle room: as long as you're within 50 words for shorter assignments and 100 words for longer assignments, you'll be fine. Any project not meeting this standard will lose points according to how much of the project is missing. For example, if the assignment is for 1,000 words, and you submit 500, you can only make half the number of points on the assignment.
- Missed-the-point projects: Even though I'm fairly flexible with how students interpret the prompt, if you do not complete the project asked of you, you cannot receive full points. For example, if you submit a project that requires research but offer no research to support your ideas, the assignment would be incomplete and will receive no more than half of the possible points. Likewise, if you write an essay when a podcast is required, you cannot receive full points because you have not engaged with the public aspect of the project.

Syllabus Change Policy

The syllabus is a guide. Circumstances and events, such as student progress, may make it necessary for the instructor to modify the syllabus during the semester. Any changes made to the syllabus will be announced in advance.

University Specific Procedures

Student Conduct

All students enrolled at the University shall follow the tenets of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment. The Code of Student Conduct is described in detail in the Student Guidebook.

AI Use in Courses

Texas A&M University-Commerce acknowledges that there are legitimate uses of Artificial Intelligence, ChatBots, or other software that has the capacity to generate text, or suggest replacements for text beyond individual words.

However, since this course is intended to teach you how to generate your own content, no use of AI will be permitted. Any undocumented use of such software constitutes an instance of academic dishonesty (plagiarism).

In any case, students are fully responsible for the content of any assignment they submit, regardless of whether they used an AI, in any way. This specifically includes cases in which the AI plagiarized another text or misrepresented sources.
