Textbook(s) Requirement	No textbook required.
Software Required:	None
Optional Texts and/or Materials	All supplemental reading or video materials are available online at no charge to students.

Course Objective

This course addresses diversity and inclusion issues and challenges, primarily from the constructs of race, gender, and social class viewed from a broader sociological context and then focused to the context of higher education. Other constructs will be examined as time permits.

Course Contents

This course has four learning components (with the term paper as its fifth unit), each with its own discussion forum and writing assignment.

- Unit 1: Race, Part 1, Runs from June 3-7, 2024.
- Unit 1: Guest Speaker – June 10, 2024
- Unit 2: Race, Part 2, Runs from June 10-11, 2024.
- Unit 2: Guest Speaker – June 17, 2024
- Unit 3: Race, Part 3, Runs from June 17-21, 2024.
- Unit 3: Guest Speaker – June 24, 2024
- Unit 4: Gender, Part 4, Runs from June 24-28, 2024.
- Unit 4: Guest Speaker – July 1, 2024

- Unit 5: Discussion
- Unit 5: Overview of Diversity in Higher Education
- Unit 5: Guest Speaker – July 15, 2024
- Unit 6: Epilogue, Due Date for Term Paper is July 31, 2024

Your performances in Units 1 to 4 will constitute 80% of your grade. Your final term paper will constitute the remaining 20% of your final grade.

If you received an average weighted score of 79% or less, you will get a grade of "C." A score between 80% to 89% will earn you a grade of "B," and any score 90% or higher will earn you the highest grade of "A."

COURSE AND UNIVERSITY PROCEDURES/POLICIES

Course Specific Procedures/Policies

Late Assignments

There will be no late assignments in this course. In such cases, you will be assigned an "F" for the class. Regarding the discussion, all components (initial response and responses to your peers, must be submitted and submitted on time). No partial points will be provided.

Respect Differing Views

As with all graduate-level classes, this course deals with common and differing ideas and opinions. Please always be scholarly, courteous, fair-minded, and respectful of each other's opinions, particularly in disagreement situations. Always be a good listener, attempting to understand other people's rationale, perspective, and beliefs. Any discourtesy and lack of respect will not be tolerated.

Academic Honesty

Academic integrity is of utmost importance in academia. Acts of academic misconduct and plagiarism are considered egregious matters that will severely jeopardize your career as a student. Plagiarism, depending on severity, will result in a failing grade for either that particular assignment or the entire course. Work produced, whether in part or in whole, from assignments for other courses will not be accepted for credit and will be considered a form of plagiarism.

I expect all assignments for this course to be creative and honest representation of your scholarly work. If the evidence is clear that you have committed academic misconduct, including plagiarism, a formal charge will be filed against you following university policy. At my discretion as the course instructor, if the misconduct is not intentional, I can decide on whether a particular assignment may be rewritten and resubmitted for a maximum grade of 70% of the original total, along with other stipulations, including participation in an academic misconduct workshop.

Writing Center

Students are encouraged to visit the A&M-Commerce Writing Center and other locations for writing assistance. Graduate students, especially at the doctoral level, are expected to have a high level of writing ability and skills. Also, as the instructor for this class, I will be providing helpful writing guidance and advice. You should also consult with your faculty advisor for any needed assistance.

Syllabus Change Policy

The syllabus is a guide. Circumstances and events, such as student progress, may make it necessary for the instructor to modify the syllabus during the semester. Any changes made to the syllabus will be announced in advance.

University Specific Procedures

Student Conduct

All students enrolled at the University shall follow the tenets of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment. The Code of Student Conduct is described in detail in the Student Guidebook.
