COURSE REQUIREMENTS

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Minimal Technical Skills Needed

In this class, you will utilize the Learning Management System (LMS) entitled D2L for portions of instructional and learning methods, submitting assignments, participating in online discussions, and completing quizzes. You will need to utilize other technologies such as Microsoft Word, PowerPoint, etc. If you have issues with this system, it is your responsibility to contact the help desk immediately.

Instructional Methods

This course consists of lecture and didactic learning methods, small group discussions, and in-class assignments, coupled with experiential learning and practical application. When we are not meeting face to face, you will be expected to participate and complete all online tasks via D2L. In addition to this, small lecture, discussion, activities, and workshops may be utilized during this course.

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course

As a student in this course, you are responsible for the active learning process. Expectations of this course include the following:

1. You are expected to display professionalism at all times. Be respectful of your professor and peers. Be open to feedback, as you will receive this throughout the program.
2. Prepare for classes. Complete any and all readings prior to class time.
3. Complete all assignments by the deadline.
4. Adhere to the university student code of conduct.
5. Participate. During face-to-face classes, you are expected to actively participate in all activities and discussion. In the online format, you are expected to participate in all online discussions/activities. This is crucial to your learning.
6. All writing assignments must be done according to APA 6th edition.
7. Regularly check your university email. My suggestion is to check this at least once a day as your instructors and others from the department and University may contact you.
8. Begin your readings ASAP. Sometimes it may take more than one attempt to digest the material.
9. Deadlines are the last possible moment something is due—not the first moment to start. Work ahead. I realize this may not always be possible; however, when you can, do so.
10. Be open to the process. This degree takes time, work, effort, and growth.

Assignments/Assessments

1. Attachment Assignment (20 points): This assignment has two parts: responding to questions about the Perry (2001) article and responding to a video of a mother interacting with a baby.
 - a. After reading the Perry article, respond to the following questions. What is attachment? Why is it important? What is bonding? What factors in the infant or caregiver influence bonding and attachment? How does an insecure attachment impact children, adolescents and adults long term? How might attachment issues be affecting children and adolescents who are struggling to belong and fit in at school and with their peers?

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

b. You will watch the following YouTube video in which a mother and baby interact. The researcher, Tronick, illustrates a secure and insecure attachment in the video. The purpose of this assignment is for you to experience the impact of a secure and insecure attachment in a way that is unlikely from reading about it. Before you do the required writing, you will watch the 3 minute video. After watching the video, you will complete a short written assignment. This assignment has two parts: a summary of what you observed and what you think it means about attachment and your personal reaction to watching the mother-baby interaction.

This assignment is not an APA paper. You will write two to three pages, double-spaced and 12 point Times New Roman Font, but there is no title page and no references. Here is the link to the YouTube video.

Attachment Assignment Rubric

3 – Exceeds Expectations (18-20 points)

Student had an insightful understanding of secure and insecure attachment and was able to communicate the importance of the non-verbal cues and parental responsiveness in the interaction between mother and baby. Personal reaction indicated a clear understanding of the importance of attachment.

2 – Meets Expectations (16-17.9 points)

Student had adequate understanding of secure and insecure attachment and was able to observe important non-verbal cues and interaction between mother and baby. Personal reaction indicated an understanding of interaction.

1 – Does Not Meet Expectations (0-15.9 points)

Student did not appear to understand the difference between a secure and insecure attachment. Observation of child was either inaccurate or missed essential elements. Personal reaction to video lacked insight.

3. Personal wellness assessment (20 points)

This assignment will be the first topic covered in class. In your Ivey et al. book, you will find a wellness assessment developed by Myers and Sweeney (co-authors of this text). According to the authors, one of the “best ways to become acquainted with the components of wellness is through a personal assessment.” Follow the instructions on page 50 of the text. You will rate yourself on each of the 17 components and write a 5 page paper on your self-assessment. This assignment will be discussed in depth in class. See Appendix B for more details about this assignment.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

3 – Exceeds Expectations (18-20 points)

Student had an insightful understanding of the wellness components and was willing to explore and assess his/her own wellness. Personal reaction indicated a clear understanding of the importance of most areas of wellness and a high level of self-awareness.

2 – Meets Expectations (16-17.9 points)

Student had adequate understanding of secure and insecure attachment and was somewhat willing to explore and assess his/her own wellness. Personal reaction indicated an adequate understanding of wellness and level of awareness.

1 – Does Not Meet Expectations (0-15.9 points)

Student did not appear to understand the wellness assessment. Personal reaction indicated a lack of awareness and an unwillingness to explore personal wellness.

4. Developmental Assessment Assignment (20 points)

In order to complete this assignment you will watch a second YouTube video and read part of a chapter in Playground Politics (1993).

Video: This video shows Stanley Greenspan talking about emotional development in babies, doing a developmental assessment on a baby and recommending an intervention to the mother of the baby. To access Greenspan's assessment of the baby, click on the following link and begin at the 10:30 mark of the video. You can stop at 14:00 mark.

<https://vimeo.com/44930499>

After watching the video, answer the following questions.

- What were Greenspan's findings about this baby boy?
- What made it harder for this baby to calm down?
- What intervention did Greenspan recommend to the mother?
- How did the intervention change the relationship between mother and child?

Playground Politics Reading: Chapter 2, Joey's Story

The reading also is from Greenspan and describes his assessment of a 9-year-old boy who is extremely aggressive at school. After you complete the reading, respond to the following questions.

- How would you describe the problems Joey was having?
- How did Greenspan assess Joey's development?
- After doing his assessment, what was Greenspan's conclusion about Joey's aggression and other facets of his development?
- Like he did with the baby in the video, Greenspan recommended an intervention for the mother to use with Joey called floor time (a detailed description of the intervention is in chapter 8). Write a paragraph or two explaining what floor time is.

- How did Joey change in this chapter?

Developmental Assessment Rubric

	1 – Does Not Meet Expectation (0-3.9 points)	2 – Meets Expectation (4-4.4 points)	3 – Exceeds Expectation (4.5-5 points)

Child Intervention (5 points)	Inadequate description of intervention Limited understanding of floor time	Adequate description of intervention Adequate grasp of how floor time was helpful	Insightful and perceptive explanation of intervention and clear understanding of floor time and the value of the intervention impacted relationship

4. Adverse Childhood Experiences (ACE) Assignment: To complete this paper you will need to use the following resources: the ACE video, the ACE test, and the ACE research study.

Part I- Familiarizing yourself with ACE information

I would recommend that you watch the video first.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=95ovlJ3dsNk&t=7s>

Please take your time watching and listening to Dr. Burke Harris. Her TED talk is excellent. In addition to explaining how ACEs affect long-term mental health, she helps us understand how physical health is impacted by ACEs. Also, she focuses on neuroscience (including the limbic system) and how abuse and other ACEs affect brain development.

Next, take the ACE test (D2L).

Part II- Written assignment

After watching the video, taking the test and reading the article, you will be prepared to write the assignment. Your paper is not APA format, so you can put your name on page 1 and start writing. I would guess that your paper will be 3-5 pages. Please do not make it more than 5 (no title or reference pages).

As we have been doing, your paper will be both academic and personal. Please include and address the following in your paper.

- A two-paragraph summary of the impact of ACEs according to Dr. Burke Harris in the video
- Your personal reaction to her talk
- Your ACE score, which items were problematic (or if you got a 0 you won't have any) and your response to your own ACE score
- Anything else you want to share about your family of origin related to stress, trauma and fear
- Your thoughts about the article (including interesting findings, questions, and your own thoughts in response to specific statements in the article)

ACE Paper Rubric

3 – Exceeds Expectations (18-20 points)

Student had an insightful understanding of adverse childhood experiences and was able to communicate the importance of how adverse childhood experiences impact development. Personal reaction indicated a clear understanding of the importance of ACE.

2 – Meets Expectations (16-17.9 points)

Student had adequate understanding of adverse childhood experiences and was able to communicate the importance of how adverse childhood experiences impact development. Personal reaction indicated an understanding of the material.

1 – Does Not Meet Expectations (0-15.9 points)

Student did not appear to understand the importance of adverse childhood experiences and was able to communicate the importance of how adverse childhood experiences impact development. Explanation was either inaccurate or missed essential elements. Personal reaction lacked insight.

5. Autobiographical Developmental Paper (100 points):

This assignment assesses your understanding of developmental models and your ability to apply the models to a person: you. Beginning in your early childhood, you will assess your own development and describe your growth and progress developmentally. You will write an extensive autobiographical paper that applies developmental theories to your life. You will be expected to write an honest, in-depth account of your own development. The paper will be in APA format, but also autobiographical. Appendix A provides detailed instructions sheet that will list all of the issues that you will need to address in this paper.

Browser support

D2L is committed to performing key application testing when new browser versions are released. New and updated functionality is also tested against the latest version of supported browsers. However, due to the frequency of some browser releases, D2L cannot guarantee that each browser version will perform as expected. If you encounter any issues with any of the browser versions listed in the tables below, contact D2L Support, who will determine the best course of action for resolution. Reported issues are prioritized by supported browsers and then maintenance browsers.

Supported browsers are the latest or most recent browser versions that are tested against new versions of D2L products. Customers can report problems and receive support for issues. For an optimal experience, D2L recommends using supported browsers with D2L products.

Maintenance browsers are older browser versions that are not tested extensively against new versions of D2L products. Customers can still report problems and receive support for critical issues; however, D2L does not guarantee all issues will be addressed. A maintenance browser becomes officially unsupported after one year.

Appendix A
Self-development Paper

Take an honest look at yourself without judging yourself. You will apply several developmental theories to your own life. This paper will be in APA (6th Edition) style, 12 point Times New Roman font, double-spaced, but it obviously involves your opinion. You will support your opinions with various developmental theories and concepts that we have covered in class. Be extremely honest with yourself. Try to be really honest with me as well. The paper will be from 12-15 pages of text (not including the title page or reference page). I will expect you to cite books that have been used in the course.

Child development

Discuss your development in childhood. Please include the following:

A description of the attachment between you and your mother (You may need to interview other people who knew her then.) Describe how you think your mother was during your first two years of life. Use the attachment handout for categories such as affectionate, available, distracted, etc. You may want to use Perry's model to discuss attachment and Piaget and Greenspan's models to discuss early development.

Describe how you progressed through Erikson's first four psychosocial stages.

Use five adjectives to describe your mother and father as you think they were during your elementary school years. Please elaborate and explain the adjectives. Discuss the impact they had on you. Specifically, describe the relationship and level of trust you had with your parents. Include at least one negative adjective per person.

Using a Maslowian model, describe your elementary school years. For example, how safe did you feel? How was your self-esteem?

Describe your social life during elementary school years. Use Greenspan's Playground Politics as a developmental model. What significant experiences seemed to have an impact on you at this age?

Adolescent development

Using the Havighurst developmental tasks of adolescence model, discuss how you handled each task. What significant experiences seemed to have an impact on you at this age? What kinds of messages about sex did you get from your parents? How did these messages affect you?

Using Loevinger's ego development model, describe your ego development.

Discuss your moral development using either Kohlberg's and Gilligan's models. Give examples of moral choices and dilemmas you have faced. Be honest.

Adult development

What impact have adults had on your development? How have adults facilitated your growth and development? How have they hindered it? What messages did you get that may have helped or hindered you?

Describe the quality of your current relationships. How much support do you receive? Are you in a position where you give far more than you receive? If so, talk about what that's like for you.

Apply the ten forms of twisted thinking to yourself? Which cognitive distortions do you struggle with? Discuss negative self-talk that you deal with. What self-limiting concepts of yourself do you struggle with today? How do you deal with those?

In your relationships, how do you handle anger? When people cross the line do you keep it to yourself, get even with them without talking about it, withdraw, tell them about it, etc? Similarly, when you get hurt in relationships, what do you tend to do? Do you withdraw? Attack? Can you talk about it?

How much does fear limit the choices that you make? Do you feel the need to keep things controlled? Are you willing to take risks that could enrich your life?

How would you describe your self-awareness today?

Use ten adjectives to describe yourself now including several adjectives that suggest areas of growth. Elaborate on the adjectives. Honestly discuss your strengths. What do you like best about yourself? What potential in you could be developed much more than it has?

How cautious are you? How open to growth and change? How open are you to change? Specifically, how open are you to:

- Changing patterns in relationships
- Receiving feedback from others
- Change in general

Currently, where do you see yourself on Maslow's hierarchy of needs? Talk about your own self-actualization. How much have you experienced your potential? Is there something that you have dreamed of doing that you won't attempt due to fear?

Movement vs. stagnation

Where are you stuck in your life? Relationships? Job? What is something that needs to change in your life that has persisted for too long? Development is a dynamic process.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

What challenges do you see ahead for you in the next ten years? How optimistic or pessimistic are you about the future? Why?

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Appendix B

Wellness Assessment Instructions

Complete all of the 17 overall wellness scales. We are going to change the satisfaction score to importance. I will try to explain this in class. Be honest. This is of no value if you kid yourself. I won't be more impressed with someone who has high scores. What I am looking for is an honest appraisal of your habits and patterns as they relate to wellness.

After you complete all of the scales and read the authors comments about each area, spend some time reflecting. What does this assessment say about you?

The first part of your wellness assessment paper should look like my wellness assessment. You will evaluate yourself in all 17 areas. You may add brief comments like I did. The only difference in your wellness assessment is that I want the scores to be overall wellness and importance.

The second part of your wellness assessment paper will be in a paragraph format. First, discuss your general impressions of yourself. You might want to include how you felt when you completed it. Hopefully, the assessment broadened your awareness of your own wellness. Share some of your general impressions in a paragraph or two.

Next, list three strengths that you noticed in your assessment. Discuss these strengths (one or two paragraphs). Then, notice three areas of growth. How are you hindering yourself? We all have self-defeating habits. What are yours? I like to say that we all tend to get in our own way (one or two paragraphs).

Next, pick one or two specific issues to work on. Specifically, how are you getting in your way in one or two specific areas? Create a plan for yourself to address one or two issues. You might find the exercise on page 65 of the Ivey text helpful in developing your plan. Don't get too ambitious! Have a modest plan. I hope that this assignment is worthwhile to you. It has helped me just to focus on the 17 areas.

Here is the assignment in brief bullets.

- Complete all scales honestly. Reflect on them.
- Structure the first part of your paper to be just like my wellness assessment.
- Structure the second part of your paper in paragraph format.
- Write about your general impressions of your wellness based on your appraisal.
- Focus on 3 strengths and 3 areas of growth and write about both.
- Zero in on one or two areas of growth and develop a plan to address these issues.
- Put all of this into a coherent narrative that is honest, thoughtful, and well written. (5-8 pgs)
