Course Description

Our history gets longer every day, and the events of the past equally can become more remote or less relevant with each passing day.

But, history is always relevant to the context of today. Therefore, this course is designed to help us understand the past, so we can better understand the present. To best understand the past, we will work to both learn history and to practice history—in other words, we will learn historical thinking, so we can better make sense of the past.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

To achieve this goal, every reading, discussion, quiz/test, or writing assignment seeks to answer several basic questions — How have major historical events inspired the country’s growth, expansion, and development? In what ways has the country progressed along its ideals of “life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness” and according to its founding principles? How does our understanding about US history influence our interpretations of national or international affairs? How does history make us, us?

This course, then, explores a series of events along a fairly regular timeline, the history of the United States since 1865, in ways that can help us isolate, analyze, and understand key factors involved with the country’s national growth.

Prerequisite and/or Corequisite: ENG 1301 or ENG 1302, or concurrent enrollment.

Student Learning Outcomes (Should be measurable; observable; use action verbs)

1. Students will be able to analyze, evaluate, or solve problems when given a set of circumstances, data, texts, or art.
2. In written, oral, and/or visual communication, A&M-Commerce students will communicate in a manner appropriate to audience and occasion, with an evident message and organizational structure.
3. Students will understand and practice academic honesty.
4. Students will demonstrate an understanding of societal and/or civic issues.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Instructional Methods

Discussion

Every class module will attempt to begin with a group conversation that seeks to answer one or more key questions about the module’s history content. That dialogue is followed with some basic lecture and discussion about the material, in ways that are meant to offer evidence that can inform perspectives offered during the group conversation.

- 1 point means you are in class but not contributing;
- 2 points means you are following the discussion, writing some notes, sometimes contributing talking points or observations;
- 3 points means you are contributing in ways that advance the conversation in meaningful directions.

Extra points can be banked and rolled into “extra credit” toward the semester’s final grade.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Breakout Group Discussion

Learning does not occur in a vacuum, and we all can benefit from the opinions and insights offered by someone else. Students will be assigned by the instructor into small discussion groups. These groups are expected to use the D2L discussion board for their own discussions about discussion questions, or about reading assignments, or about response paper documents, or other similar activities. Students are expected to seek some preliminary answers through these discussions, to be better prepared for the large-group conversations that will occur as in-class discussion.

Within the breakout group forum, each student is expected to 1) contribute their impressions from the reading assignment (typically something that jumps out at you) and 2) respond to at least one other group member's observations. This setup means that each of you will be better prepared for lecture or for the class discussions.

Attendance

Each class session, the instructor takes attendance, because attendance is necessary for success: Attending class directly equals success in the class, just as it generally means success in any aspect of your life — you have to exercise to benefit from the exercise. Attendance grading reflects this philosophy, with the opportunity to collect bonus points that add to your final grade — each day of class is worth 3 points; each week of class is worth 3 points; perfect attendance for the entire semester can earn more than 30 “extra credit” points. You have to attend class to be where the action is.

Quizzes

An open-note, open-book quiz accompanies each textbook chapter. They help the instructor check that students are completing reading assignments, but they also provide ways to test your understanding of the material.

Two of the quizzes are unrelated to reading assignments. One quiz is an Academic Honesty Quiz that is used to measure Student Learning Outcome #3, and a second quiz targets students' understanding of details found within the syllabus.

Exams

Four exams are given throughout the semester. Exams are completed during an exam day class period. The exams are not comprehensive, each exam covers a specific portion of the overall course content.

Each exam consists of two sections. A multiple choice section asks questions about the basic historical facts; these details will tend to be the most important information that is introduced or discussed in class. A short essay section encourages students to discuss the significance of historical events. The instructor will give possible question prompts in advance of the exam, and the essay questions will be drawn from these likely question prompts.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

During exams, students will be required to put away all electronic mobile devices.

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course

PACE YOURSELF! Please remember that all assignments have specific due dates within the syllabus. This sort of outlining is designed to empower you to manage this class and all of your other coursework throughout the semester. Be aware of deadlines, be careful not to miss assignments, be sure to attend class—courses always have a way of snowballing when permitted, so please diligently avoid procrastination and all of the other ways you might end up sabotaging your own success.

Attendance policy

Students are expected to attend every class, so they are in the classroom to participate during the discussions and learn from the lectures. Each unexcused absence beyond two (2) instances will result in a 10% reduction of the attendance grade; two unexcused absences also will trigger a report to the student's academic adviser. Excessive absences (more than 5 unexcused absences) may result in a failing grade for the course, at the instructor's discretion.

Students should inform the instructor if there is a legitimate reason (illness, emergency, etc.) for missing an exam. Students should contact the instructor within 48 hours of the missed exam to schedule a make-up exam; failure to contact the instructor may forfeit the possibility of making up a missed exam.

Non-documented excuses for absences generally are not accepted by the instructor, but can be accepted at the instructor's discretion. If you must travel for university business (for example, with an athletic team), then please inform the instructor ahead of time.

Participation

Students are expected to complete the reading assignments for this class on-time. Students also should be prepared to discuss reading assignments as part of the class discussion, or within lectures, or as scheduled group work. Occasional in-class writing assignments may be used by the instructor in place of discussions, as necessary if participation in the conversations lags.

Students are encouraged to bring questions to class, and they are also encouraged to interrupt lecture to ask questions about the material, or to provoke the instructor to further explain some point made during the class.

Important note: Students must create and sustain an open intellectual learning environment that fosters comfortable discussion. Students are expected to listen to the comments and questions from classmates with an open mind and while clearly respecting viewpoints that might be different from their own. This sort of open environment is necessary for us to properly function as historians – we should avoid judging the people of the past, we cannot dismiss historical actors' behaviors because we perceive them to have been "wrong;" we must be open to understanding why people of the past behaved as they did, so that we can learn from their experiences to inform our own.

Reading

Students must complete reading assignments before we begin the section when they are discussed (example: materials for Section 3 must be read before we begin covering Section 3). The documents listed below within the course calendar especially must be read before class discussion, otherwise you will not be prepared for discussion.

All reading assignments include content covered during class discussions and lectures and other class work; all reading assignments equally include materials that are not part of those conversations or lectures. Students are responsible for completing all reading assignments, and they are responsible for all of the material within reading assignments that may not be covered during a class session (this content may appear on quizzes or exams).

GRADING

Final grades in this course will be based on the following scale:

A = 90%-100%	A = 900 – 1000 points
B = 80%-89%	B = 800 – 899 points
C = 70%-79%	C = 700 – 799 points
D = 60%-69%	D = 600 – 699 points
F = 59% or Below	F = less than 600 points

Weights of the assessments in the calculation of the final letter grade:

Exams (in class)	400 points (each exam = 100 points)
Quizzes (D2L)	150 points (each quiz = 10 points)
Participation (in class)	100 points (each class discussion = up to 3 points)
Breakout Group Discussion (D2L)	60 points (each group discussion = up to 5 points)
Attendance	100 points (each class meeting = 3 points)
TOTAL	810 points

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Although you think that you can subtly multitask this way, you cannot—it is a distraction, and if I notice it, everyone around you notices it, too.

The university's faculty members expect that all work submitted for grades is work that the students themselves have completed on their own.
