Course Description

ENG 1301: College Reading and Writing. Three semester hours. Introduces students to writing as an extended, complex, recursive process and prepares students for English 1302, which more rigorously examines the forms and structures of argument and means to approaching multiple audiences. In 1301 students will write weekly, and will work on essay organization and development. The course will emphasize close reading, summarizing, and analysis of expository texts, including student writing.

Core Curriculum Course Objectives

- Critical Thinking Skills: to include creative thinking, innovation, inquiry, and analysis, evaluation and synthesis of information;
- Communication Skills: to include effective development, interpretation and expression of ideas through written, oral and visual communication;
- Teamwork: to include the ability to consider different points of view and to work effectively with others to support a shared purpose or goal;
- Personal Responsibility: to include the ability to connect choices, actions and consequences to ethical decision-making.

English 1301 Learning Outcomes

1. Define important terms/concepts including, but not limited to, literacy, sponsor, code switching, code-meshing, embodiment, and writing processes;
2. Discuss the ways these terms expand based on cultural and communicative practices;
3. Examine scholarly, personal, and/or multimodal course texts that detail varying understandings and applications of key terms/concepts;
4. Develop writing processes that allow for personal exploration of key terms/concepts;
5. Engage in collaboration that supports individualized and communal understanding and writing development;
6. Consider the various affordances and constraints of composing using different technologies (analog, digital, and/or multimodal), practices, styles, and/or languages;
7. Compose texts across different genres and media of writing that further expand key terms/concepts based on personal experiences and engagement with important course texts;
8. Reflect on your writing experiences and literacy practices;

9. Design individualized learning goals appropriate for a first-year writing course; and
10. Assess individualized learning goals based on labor and performance alongside feedback from peers and the instructor.

Instructional Methods

This is a face-to-face class. We will meet on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays from 1pm to 1:50pm in 346 McDowell Administration

I prefer a student-centered approach to teaching—this class is about you and your learning experience. This class is delivered face-to-face, and therefore, I will spend some of my time lecturing at the front of the classroom, and the rest of class time will be spent with students engaging with me and each other through critical discussion on the day’s topics and readings. Students will also be peer-reviewing each other’s papers. In addition, the course information builds as we proceed with each new reading and/or chapter. Therefore, it is imperative that students come to class with the proper materials and having already read and/or completed the assignment.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course

For each class meeting, come to class on time and prepared. Coming to class prepared means having completed any reading/homework beforehand and bringing the required materials like a charged device for textbook access and notetaking.

Here’s a brief list of responsibilities and tips for success:

1. Successful students refer to the syllabus frequently throughout the semester.
2. Successful students attend class regularly.
3. Successful students communicate with their professors and peers regularly and respectfully.
4. Successful students plan their weeks with organizational tools.
5. Successful students study effectively with techniques like practice testing and distributed practice.

Note: This information is taken from “Some Habits for Success in College” in Writing Inquiry, 3rd edition. For the full version of these strategies, see your textbook in Top Hat.

Student/Class Civility Policy:

Your instructor reserves the right to ask any student to leave class if any student proves distracting, hostile, and/or disruptive to either the instructor and/or classmates. If a student is asked to leave, the student will meet with the instructor during the instructor's office hours before returning to class.

If incivility occurs, the student(s) may also have a "0" entered in the gradebook for any activities, quizzes, etc. that were to be completed in class on the day in question. If incivility occurs during group work, ALL parties will meet in my office, and the student(s) at fault may or may not receive a "0" for the assignment(s).

I HAVE ZERO (0) TOLERANCE FOR BULLYING OR HARASSMENT OF ANY AND ALL FORMS.

COURSE ASSESSMENT

As an instructor, my approach to classroom assessment is ...

Midterm and final grades in this course will be based on the following scale:

A = 90%-100%

B = 80%-89%

C = 70%-79%

D = 60%-69%

F = 59% or Below

Weights of the assessments in the calculation of the final letter grade.

Writing Assignments	40%
Writing Histories and Establishing Goals Reflection	complete/incomplete
Rhetorical Analysis	10%
Narrating Your Literacies	10%
Pressured to Perform	10%
Reading the Body's Rhetoric	10%
English 1301 Semester Portfolio Writing Activities	40%
Top Hat Questions	10%
TOTAL 100%

Assignments

Full prompts for assignments are available in Top Hat and/or D2L.

1. Writing Histories and Your Goals Reflection: This first writing assignment invites you to compose a short reflection that addresses each of the following prompts in a well-thought-out, polished piece of academic writing.

For English 1302 students, you should also address how your thinking about your writing histories, learning objectives, and goals have been shaped by your experience in English 1301 or the equivalent experience that placed you in English 1302.

You will return to this reflection throughout the semester to review and reassess your goals for the course.

2. Rhetorical Analysis Projects: This project contains two parts—a group project and an individual essay. For the group project, create a multi-modal advertisement that utilizes at least 2 rhetorical appeals. Consider your audience supportive. For the second part, individually write a 1-2-page, double-spaced essay arguing that the rhetorical appeals in your advertisement successfully (or unsuccessfully) persuaded the target audience.

3. Narrating Your Literacies: For this assignment, you will create your own short Literacy Narrative. Identify a discourse you are a part of, and what knowledge, skills, or things you need to be a part of that discourse. Then talk about people, places, things, or events that helped you become a part of that group.

4. Reading a Body's Rhetoric: In a short composition, tell the story of your body OR in a short composition, analyze the way a piece of media (news report, political speech, meme, advertisement) "reads" a body.

5. Semester Portfolio: Compose a portfolio that documents and reflects your writing and learning throughout English 1301. For this portfolio, first gather all your writing assignments as well as your instructor's feedback on your writing. You will include four (4) of these assignments in this portfolio, so keep them clearly labeled and nearby.

COURSE AND UNIVERSITY PROCEDURES/POLICIES

Course Specific Procedures/Policies

Attendance Policy

Though I do not use attendance records to penalize your grade, I do take attendance at the beginning of each class session, and I do take note if you are tardy. That being said, please come to class and come to class on time. When you miss class, you are not only missing out on vital learning time and instruction, you are also missing out on announcements and the collaborative nature of the higher education classroom setting.

“What should I do when I miss class?”

If students need to miss class, it is the student’s responsibility to ask a classmate what we did in class that day or go to D2L and/or Top Hat to find out what you missed in class. However, this does not necessarily mean you will be able to make up the work you missed in class!

Make-Up Work Policy

Generally, I accept NO make-up work, except in extraordinary circumstances. Students must discuss the make-up work with me at least 24 hours before the assignment is due. As the instructor, it is my prerogative to approve or deny a students’ request for make-up work.

Interaction with Instructor Statement

If you have any questions or are having difficulties with the course material, please contact your instructor.

Please reach out to me, I want to hear from you! I am your instructor, but I am also here to be your mentor. I care about you and your academic experience in my class. Suggestions to make my course better? Trouble understanding the content? Need suggestions and advice on papers and assignments? Have you come down with an illness or any other kind of emergency? Simply want to stop and chat? Need letters of recommendation? Please email me as soon as possible or drop by during office hours! I am in your corner, and I want you to succeed in my class.

Emails: If you need to email me, please do so in the proper format. In the “subject” line of your email, please give me a very short summary, in no more than a few words, as to why you are emailing me (i.e., “Sick— Will Not Be in Class Today”). Also, please compose your email with proper introductions (ex: “Ms. Trotter”), followed by your body paragraphs, and then end with proper salutations (ex: “Sincerely,” “Best”, etc.) with your name underneath them. IMPORTANT NOTICE: This is college, an institution of higher learning, and therefore, we are in a setting where everyone is expected to act with professionalism. Everyone in class, including the instructor, is expected to conduct themselves as adults, which entails; following the schedule, turning in work on time, time management, communicating with the instructor and classmates, completing the readings on time, and professionalism, etc. Therefore, I expect ALL OF US to behave in a dignified and professional manner in class, with assignments, during office hours, and especially with emails.

Please see the example of a full proper email below:

“Dear Instructor Trotter,

I am emailing you today to let you know that I am sick and will not be in-class. I will ask a classmate and/or lookout on D2L or Top Hat for assignments due today and the next class period of the week.

Sincerely,
John Doe”

Grievance Procedure

Students who have concerns regarding their courses should first address those concerns with the assigned instructor in order to reach a resolution. Students who are unsatisfied with the outcome of that conversation or have not been able to meet individually with their instructor, whether in-person, by email, by telephone, or by another communication medium, should then schedule an appointment with Dr. Gavin P. Johnson, the Director of Writing (gavin.johnson@tamuc.edu). In the case when the Director of Writing is the instructor, the student should contact Dr. Hunter Hayes, Chair of the Department of Literature and Languages (hunter.hayes@tamuc.edu). Where applicable, students should also consult University Procedure 13.99.99.R0.05 (“Student Appeal of Instructor
