COURSE INFORMATION

Materials – Textbooks, Readings, Supplementary Readings

Class discussions are based on journal articles. The required readings will be announced/accessed on D2L and Gee Library's online database. As such, there are no required textbooks for this course. For students who do not have a background in psychology—specifically, educational psychology, you may consider one of the following textbooks for your own reference:

Ormrod, J. E., & Jones, B. (2018). Essentials of educational psychology: Big ideas to guide effective teaching (5th ed.). Pearson.

Seifert, K., & Sutton, R. (2009). Educational psychology. Author.

(Note: This text is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 3.0 License and can be downloaded here:

<https://open.umn.edu/opentextbooks/textbooks/educationalpsychology>)

Willingham, D. T. (2009). Why don't students like school? A cognitive scientist answers questions about how the mind works and what it means for the classroom (1st ed). Jossey-Bass.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Woolfolk, A. (2019). Educational psychology (14th ed.). Pearson.

Supplementary Text: It is expected that you write in APA, 7th edition while in this course for written assignments (exams and literature critique) and likely the remainder of your graduate career. Therefore, I strongly encourage you to purchase a copy of the APA 7th edition manual:

American Psychological Association (APA). (2020). Publication manual of the American Psychological Association. (7th Ed.). Washington, D.C.

Other Resources. Texas A&M University—Commerce's Gee Library provides access to thousands of online journals. Of particular interest to this class are resources found in the ERIC and PsychInfo databases. You may access these resources on campus or from home by using your CWID and password at <http://www.tamuc.edu/library/>

Course Description

This class is designed to introduce the student to the basic principles of educational psychology with an emphasis on the cognitive aspects of modern pedagogy. Topics that will be covered include a historical introduction to theory, research, and issues in educational psychology through both classic and contemporary readings in the areas of instructional psychology, motivation, measurement, learning, technology, and socialization.

Student Learning Outcomes

Students will demonstrate an understanding of:

1. Theories and empirical research findings on learning processes
2. Theories and practice of creating optimal learning environments
3. Theories and practice of educational measurement
4. Strategies for conducting and evaluating empirical research
5. Ethical and legal considerations related to human learning and development

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Minimal Technical Skills Needed

Needed Skills include being able to use the learning management system (D2L) to access course materials. Additionally, proficiency in Microsoft Office (Word and PowerPoint) is needed. I will not serve as technical support. TAMUC has multiple professionals (e. g., Instructional Technology, CITE, library) who will be able to help you troubleshoot and/or teach you how to navigate the necessary technical requirements for this course.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Instructional Methods

Each week, you will be responsible for completing an online module. In the module, you will have Background Information, Assignments, and Discussions. Each week, you will be responsible for completing a module. You are expected to invest six to nine hours for each module. However, you may decide to space out this time over the course of the week as long as deadlines are met. This includes completing the readings, watching brief 30 to 45-minute videos that provide an overview of the readings and participate in the online discussion boards. For each week, you will have Background Information, Assignments, and Discussions. Weekly modules will be released on Monday and will close on Sundays at 11:59 pm (CDT).

The course is conducted through readings, student presentations, and online discussions. Students are expected to fully engage in the asynchronous discussion board conversations (i.e., complete all assigned readings).

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course

In general, students are expected to invest six to nine hours for each week's module. To successfully complete the course, students should complete the assigned readings, prepare a quality presentation, and fully engage in online discussion on D2L. Reviewing the course material thoroughly is essential for preparing for the exams. Submitting the exams on time through D2L is critical.

Asynchronous classes can be challenging. If you have any difficulties with completing the readings and assignments in a timely manner, please do not hesitate to reach out to me as soon as possible.

You are highly encouraged to monitor your own progress on D2L. My office hours are listed at the top of the syllabus. Since this is an asynchronous class, I am requiring that students schedule two one-on-one Zoom meetings with me over the course of the semester so that I can check in with you regarding the course and other concerns you might have. Please do not wait until the end of the semester to schedule these meetings.

GRADING

Final grades in this course will be based on the following scale:

A = 90%-100%

B = 80%-89%

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

C = 70%-79%
D = 60%-69%
F = 59% or Below

Assessments

Evaluation for Doctoral-Level Students

Presentation	100 points
Discussion posts	420 points (14 discussion posts)
Final exam	100 points
Literature critique paper	100 points
Total Points Possible	720 points

Evaluation for Master's-Level Students

Presentation	100 points
Discussion posts	420 points (14 discussion posts)
Final exam	100 points
Total Points Possible	620 points

Assignments

*Rubrics for the following assignments will be provided on D2L.

Presentation (100 points): Partially based on interest, students will be assigned one of the topics covered in this course and deliver a presentation in any format (e.g., PowerPoint slides, Prezi, technical reports, video presentation, podcast). In the presentation, students are expected to:

- A. Summarize the chapter(s) and the assigned readings of the topics the student is assigned to (50%),
- B. Propose two questions or two themes for debate related to the assigned readings (10%), and
- C. Provide an argument or statement of the aforementioned questions (40%)

Each presentation should be posted on D2L before the start date of each unit (see the course calendar for details) and should address all the three parts listed above.

I. Discussion (30 points each; 420 points in total): Discussion is the core of this asynchronous class. Students are required to participate in the online discussion by providing thoughtful responses to the questions/debates proposed by the presenter, the instructor, or other classmates. Note that discussion posts are not required when the student gives a presentation on the same topic. Before joining the discussion, students are required to read the assigned readings posted on D2L.

In each discussion post, students should directly respond to the question/debate proposed by the presenter(s) or other classmate(s) or start a new discussion thread with questions AND arguments. Students should cite relevant theoretical frameworks and empirical research findings to support their argument(s). Please refrain from excessively citing personal experience as the sole source of your discussion. After all, it is a course on psychology, and academic writing is the expected format of discussion posts. Your personal experience helps, and you are welcome to share it, but it cannot be the only material in your discussion. The discussion should be posted to the designated area of each topic in D2L before the deadline (see the course calendar for details). Students are encouraged to read other students' posts and respond. In total, students are required to participate in all discussion sessions throughout the semester.

Note that discussion topics may change based on students' interests.

Exam (100 points): There will be one final exam, worth 100 points. The exam resembles the format of comprehensive exams and consists of essay questions. These exams are independent submissions, although students may meet with the instructor to discuss any questions. Details, including a rubric, will be provided on D2L.

II. Literature Critique Paper (doctoral students only; 100 points). The goal of this paper is to help students critically evaluate different, sometimes even contrasting, theories and research findings covered in this course throughout the semester, based on a topic of students' interest. In 10 pages (excluding the title page and the list of references), the paper should consist of three parts: a statement of the significance of this topic in research and practice in developmental psychology (i.e., problem statement; 20%), a critical summary of relevant theories and recent empirical research (50%), and a proposal for future research and practice (25%). The rest of the points (5%) go to the mechanics (e.g., grammar, punctuation) and APA style formatting. Students are encouraged to discuss a proper topic and scope with the instructor.

Upon successful completion of this course, students will be able to:	This outcome will be evaluated primarily by:
SLO 1. Theories and empirical research findings on learning processes	Presentation, Discussions, Exams, and Critique Paper (doctoral students)
SLO 2. Theories and practice of creating optimal learning environments	Presentation, Discussions, Exams, and Critique Paper (doctoral students)

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

SLO 3. Theories and practice of educational measurement	Presentation, Discussions, and Exams
SLO 4. Strategies for conducting and evaluating empirical research	Discussions, Exams, and Critique Paper (doctoral students)
SLO 5. Ethical and legal considerations related to human learning and development	Presentation, Discussions, and Exams

TECHNOLOGY REQUIREMENTS

LMS

All course sections offered by Texas A&M University-Commerce have a corresponding course shell in the myLeo Online Learning Management System (LMS). Below are technical requirements

ACCESS AND NAVIGATION

You will need your campus-wide ID (CWID) and password to log into the course. If you do not know your CWID or have forgotten your password, contact the Center for IT Excellence (CITE) at 903.468.6000 or helpdesk@tamuc.edu.

Note: Personal computer and internet connection problems do not excuse the requirement to complete all course work in a timely and satisfactory manner. Each student needs to have a backup method to deal with these inevitable problems. These methods might include the availability of a backup PC at home or work, the temporary use of a computer at a friend's home, the local library, office service companies, Starbucks, a TAMUC campus open computer lab, etc.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Technical Support

If you are having technical difficulty with any part of Brightspace, please contact Brightspace Technical Support at 1-877-325-7778. Other support options can be found here:

<https://community.brightspace.com/support/s/contactsupport>

COMMUNICATION AND SUPPORT

If you have any questions or are having difficulties with the course material, please contact your Instructor.

Interaction with Instructor Statement

Asynchronous classes can be challenging. Because we will not be meeting face-to-face over Zoom or in person, I highly encourage students to make use of the office hours (listed above). Students are also expected to schedule two one-on-one Zoom meetings with me over the course of the semester. The purpose of these Zoom meetings is to ensure that I stay connected with students and am able to offer guidance and resources as needed. Email is the best way to contact the instructor, and on weekdays please allow 2 business days for a response. If you do not receive a response in 2 business days, please resend the message.

COURSE AND UNIVERSITY PROCEDURES/POLICIES

Course Specific Procedures/Policies

Plagiarism: Texas A&M University-Commerce views plagiarism as a serious offense. Plagiarism occurs when individuals take ideas and/or words from another source and claim these ideas as their own without giving credit to the original author(s). This can include copying words from an Internet website, reading an article and taking the authors ideas without giving them credit, or writing work that is remarkably similar to other written work (e.g., Changing words to synonyms is still plagiarism). If any written work contains ideas that are not your own, you need to give credit to the author(s) by including citations. Instructors are obligated to report instances of plagiarism to university officials. Please refer to the American Psychology Association (APA) manual for instructions on citing materials. When in doubt, ask me. Acts of plagiarism on any written assignment, including discussion postings, will result in severe consequences, including the possibility of receiving a zero in the course. Acts of plagiarism will be reported to the department head.

Writing Assignments: All written assignments (exams and literature critique paper) must be formatted according to the APA Manual (7th ed.), as appropriate. You can access information regarding basic APA formatting style via:

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

<http://owl.english.purdue.edu> or the Learning Center located on the main floor of the library.

Late work: On-time submission of all discussion posts, presentation, and exam are required and expected. The due date and time are provided in the course calendar. However, given the nature of the times we are in, students will have up to 24 hours after the deadline before points are taken off for late submission. Ten points will be deducted from each late submission if submitted after 24 hours after the deadline. Any submissions after 48 hours of the deadline will not be accepted unless prior arrangements have been made. No make-up exam is allowed unless prearranged 48 hours prior to the actual exam date and time.

Syllabus Change Policy

The syllabus is a guide. Circumstances and events, such as student progress, may make it necessary for the instructor to modify the syllabus during the semester. Any changes made to the syllabus will be announced in advance.

University Specific Procedures

Student Conduct

All students enrolled at the University shall follow the tenets of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment. The Code of Student Conduct can be found at <https://www.tamuc.edu/student-code-of-conduct/>.

If you believe someone has engaged in behaviors that do not align with the Code of Student Conduct or you have other concerns, please visit the File a Report page at <https://www.tamuc.edu/office-of-student-rights-and-responsibilities/concerns-incident-reporting/>

Students should also consult the Rules of Netiquette for more information regarding how to interact with students in an online forum:
<https://www.britannica.com/topic/netiquette>

Academic Integrity

Students at Texas A&M University-Commerce are expected to maintain high standards of integrity and honesty in all of their scholastic work. For more details and the definition of academic dishonesty see the following procedures:

TAMUC Attendance

For more information about the attendance policy please visit the Attendance webpage.

Artificial Intelligence

Texas A&M University-Commerce acknowledges that there are legitimate uses of Artificial Intelligence, Chatbots, or other software that has the capacity to generate text, or suggest replacements for text beyond individual words, as determined by the instructor of the course.

Any use of such software must be documented. Any undocumented use of such software constitutes an instance of academic dishonesty (plagiarism).

Individual instructors may disallow entirely the use of such software for individual assignments or for the entire course. Students should be aware of such requirements and follow their instructors' guidelines. If no instructions are provided the student should assume that the use of such software is disallowed.

In any case, students are fully responsible for the content of any assignment they submit, regardless of whether they used an AI, in any way. This specifically includes cases in which the AI plagiarized another text or misrepresented sources.

Students with Disabilities-- ADA Statement

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal anti-discrimination statute that provides comprehensive civil rights protection for persons with disabilities. Among other things, this legislation requires that all students with disabilities be guaranteed a learning environment that provides for reasonable accommodation of their disabilities. If you have a disability requiring an accommodation, please contact:
