Software Required: Microsoft Office Suite, Adobe Acrobat

Course Description

Three semester hours A course in biochemistry using nutrition as a model. Topics will include the energetics of metabolism, the structure and metabolism of proteins, carbohydrates, lipids and the integration of metabolic systems. Included also will be the chemistry of nitrogenous bases and how transcription and translation is accomplished on the cellular level.

Student Learning Outcomes

1. Describe the structure and function of amino acids, proteins, coenzymes, vitamins, carbohydrates, and lipids, and examine the role that structure applies to functions in the body with emphasis on livestock species
2. Explain metabolism and bioenergetics of nutrients and examine the role of these pathways in the context of animal health

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

3. Describe the process of biological information flow in the body and compare and contrast mechanisms of DNA and RNA synthesis and information transfer
4. Investigate the importance of nutrients for normal bodily function and predict the ramifications of inadequate nutrient supply in livestock species

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Minimal Technical Skills Needed

Students will need to be able to access and use the course online platform for the University, D2L. They will also need to have access and be able to use Microsoft Word, PowerPoint, and other components of the Microsoft Office Suite.

Instructional Methods

This course will be offered as an online, asynchronous course. All lectures will be recorded and provided on the D2L system. All assignments and exams will be listed in D2L and will be due/take on the D2L platform. Additional information about exams and assignments will be provided prior to the upload of those assignments.

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course

In order to be successful in the course, students will need to ensure that they actively participate in the course, including any online activities or discussions; thus watching lectures and completion of assignments is paramount. A good rule of thumb is that students should spend approximately 2-3 hours outside of class on the course material for every hour of meeting time (i.e. for 1 hour of lecture you should study 2-3 hours outside of class). If you have any questions at all regarding the course structure, material, or anything else related to the course, feel free to post the question on the discussion forum on D2L or email the instructor. I can't help you if you don't ask for help!

GRADING

Final grades in this course will be based on the following scale:

A = 90%-100% (900 to 1000 pts)

B = 80%-89% (800 to 899 pts)

C = 70%-79% (700 to 799 pts)

D = 60%-69% (600 to 699 pts)

F= 59% or Below (< 600 pts)

Assignment	Point Value	Due Date
Exam 1	100	9/18/2024
Exam 2	100	10/21/2024
Exam 3	100	11/18/2024
Exam 4 (Final Exam)	150	12/12/2024

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Assignments	500	Throughout semester
Participation	50	Throughout semester
Total	1000

Assessments

All assessments and grading are presented in the above table. Assessments will include primarily exams, but will also include assignments throughout the semester. You will be graded on a combination of exams and assignments.

Exams: Exam dates and topics will be announced on D2L. All exams will not inherently be cumulative (except the final); however, due to the nature of the course, material builds upon previous material and material from previous exams may be included on subsequent exams. Students will NOT be allowed to take exam late unless prior, university-approved excuses have been cleared with the instructor. Students will have 75 minutes to take exams 1-3 and will have two hours on the final exam. All exams are due by 11:59pm on the due date.

Assignments: Students will be given assignments throughout the semester. These assignments may be worksheets, quizzes, case studies, etc.

Participation: Students can earn 5% of their grade (50 points total) from participation. Participation may include attendance, pop quizzes, case studies, etc.

Examples and Definitions of Academic Dishonesty

Below are examples of academic dishonesty from 13.99.99.R0.03 Undergraduate Academic Dishonesty Rules and Regulations from TAMUC:

“Academic dishonesty includes the commission of any of the following acts. This listing is not, however, exclusive of any other acts that may reasonably be called academic dishonesty.

Clarification is provided for each definition by listing some prohibited behaviors.

ABUSE AND MISUSE OF ACCESS AND UNAUTHORIZED ACCESS: Students may not abuse or misuse computer access or gain unauthorized access to information in any academic exercise.

CHEATING: Intentionally using or attempting to use unauthorized materials, information, notes, study aids or other devices or materials in any academic exercise. Unauthorized materials may include anything or anyone that gives a student assistance, and has not been specifically approved in advance by the instructor.

COMPLICITY: Intentionally or knowingly helping, or attempting to help, another to commit an act of academic dishonesty.

FABRICATION: Making up data or results, and recording or reporting them; submitting fabricated documents.

FALSIFICATION: Manipulating research materials, equipment, or processes, or changing or omitting data or results such that the research is not accurately represented in the research record.

FORGERY: Making a fictitious document, or altering an existing document, with the intent to deceive or gain advantage.

MULTIPLE SUBMISSIONS: Submitting substantial portions of the same work (including oral reports) for credit more than once without authorization from the instructor of the class for which the student submits the work.

PLAGIARISM: The appropriation of another person's ideas, processes, results, or words without giving appropriate credit.

SPECIAL NOTE REGARDING GROUP PROJECTS: If someone in a group commits academic misconduct, the entire group could be held responsible for it as well. It is important to document clearly who contributes what parts to the joint project, to know what group members are doing, and how they are acquiring the material they provide.”

Penalties for Academic Dishonesty

Discipline is up to the discretion of the faculty member. Below are common first offense disciplinary actions as outlined by TAMUC:

“The most common penalty imposed by a faculty member for a first violation is an “F” in the course.

Less severe penalties may be imposed if the circumstances warrant. Examples of lesser penalties include:

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

A grade reduction for the course
A zero on the assignment
A requirement to participate in extra requirements or training
Some combination of these”
