Course Description

This is a special topics course on cognitive aging. We will discuss cognitive processes such as processing speed, attention, different forms of memory, and decision making, and how these processes change with age. Keep in mind that the average life expectancy has increased, but individuals do not merely want to live longer; instead they want to optimally age, which includes physical, mental, and cognitive aspects. Given the emphasis on optimal aging, we will consider factors that are associated with higher cognitive performance in late adulthood.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Course Philosophy:

In all of my classes my philosophy is that courses should be both educational and interesting to students. Powell text comes from a perspective of a clinician and focuses on how to promote optimal aging, which is relevant to us all because we are all aging and have friends and family that are in the latter half of the adult lifespan. I take the glass-half-full approach to aging and consider aspects that will facilitate optimal aging. I encourage you to take this approach and see aging as an opportunity for development and action.

Student Learning Outcomes (SLOs)

1. Students will recognize trends in cognitive performance in late adulthood.
2. Students will discuss readings and apply content of readings.
3. Students will create a presentation to demonstrate how we can promote optimal aging.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Assessments

- I. Quizzes -- Quizzes will be administered to provide an assessment of your knowledge of the assigned chapter reading for the week. These quizzes are open book/open notes, but they must be completed independently. Quizzes are timed, so you will need to prepare beforehand for them. Each student can drop one quiz grade. Quizzes are worth 30% of your course grade.
- II. Discussions – There will be discussion assignments for each of the unit. The parameters of the assignments are described in each of the units in D2L. Discussions are worth 30% of your course grade.
- III. Final Presentation -- You will create a presentation about optimal aging. In this presentation you will incorporate content you learned to provide tips for optimal aging; the presentation must contain internal citations to provide evidence for claims. The presentation is worth 40%.

Visual Recap of Assignments

Assignment	SLO	Format	% Weight
Quizzes	1	Recognition Test	30%
Discussions	2	Written Discussion	30%
Final Presentation	3	Presentation	40%

Minimal Technical Skills Needed

Needed Skills needed include being able to use the learning management system to access course materials. Additionally, proficiency in Microsoft Office or similar program is needed.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Instructional Methods

The course is grouped by units. Each unit has an overview with the learning objectives for that unit. Quizzes and discussions will be included in the majority of the units to aid learning.

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course

In order to succeed in this course you need to keep up with the readings and complete the assignments. Typically the units span two weeks. I recommend doing the readings and completing the Discussion assignment in the first week. Then in week two you can return to the readings to review after having reflected on them before completing your quiz. Be sure to read the overview in each of the units; students comment that these help them prepare for the quizzes.

GRADING

Final grades in this course will be based on the following scale:

A = 90%-100%

B = 80%-89%

C = 70%-79%

D = 60%-69%

F = 59% or Below

COURSE AND UNIVERSITY PROCEDURES/POLICIES

Course Specific Procedures/Policies

Plagiarism: Texas A&M University-Commerce views plagiarism as a serious offense. Plagiarism occurs when individuals take ideas and/or words from another source and claim these ideas as their own without giving credit to the original author(s). This can include copying words from an Internet website, reading an article and taking the authors ideas without giving them credit, or writing work that is remarkably similar to other written work (e.g., Changing words to synonyms is still plagiarism). If any written work contains ideas that are not your own, you need to give credit to the author(s) by including citations. Instructors are obligated to report instances of plagiarism to university officials. Please refer to the American Psychology Association (APA) manual for instructions on citing materials. When in doubt, ask me. Ignorance will not be tolerated as an excuse for plagiarism. Acts of plagiarism on any written assignment, including discussion postings, will result in severe consequences, including the possibility of receiving a zero in the course. Acts of plagiarism will be reported to the department head.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Scholarly Expectations: All works submitted for credit must be original works created by the scholar uniquely for the class. It is considered inappropriate and unethical to make duplicate submissions of a single work for credit in multiple classes, unless specifically requested by the instructor.

Late Work: The penalty imposed depends on the course assignment. Quizzes: These must be completed on time. No late quizzes; each student gets to drop one quiz. Final Presentation and Discussions: If the assignment is turned in within 24 hours of the due date, a 10-point/grade step penalty will be imposed. If the assignment is turned in between 24-48 hours of the due date, a 20-point/2 grade step penalty will be imposed. If the assignment is submitted more than 48 hours late, it will automatically be scored as a zero (i.e., no credit granted). If you have an issue with uploading your website presentation, be sure to email me; that will serve as the date/time stamp.

 If you have an extenuating circumstance (e.g., emergency) be sure to contact me to discuss whether penalties can be waived and/or extensions granted based on documentation. If you experience an issue with the D2L, be sure to contact Brightspace (see above), and be sure to request an email ticket to show to me for documentation.
