COURSE INFORMATION

Materials – Textbooks, Readings, Supplementary Readings

There is no textbook. Instead, shortly after each lab meeting, I will email an article that we will discuss at the next week's lab meeting. These articles will be from the published psychological literature, mostly involving eyewitness memory or decision-making.

Course Description

This course involves two primary elements:

- 1) Weekly lab meetings, during which one of three things will occur:
 - a) I will lecture about research methods (beginning of the semester) and about the eyewitness memory literature (most of the rest of the semester).
 - b) Training on experiments that we will run in the lab this semester
 - c) Reading and discussing a research article each week. A few times during the semester, you will be in charge of leading discussion (more on this below).
- 2) Attending your weekly timeslots in the lab so that you can run participants through our experiments, and possibly also complete other work we provide (e.g., literature review, data coding/analysis).

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Student Learning Outcomes

1. You will learn how to digest psychological research articles, including interpretation of graphs.
2. You will learn about topics from psychology and law, especially eyewitness identification/memory.
3. You will learn how to interact with participants and how to run them through experiments.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Minimal Technical Skills Needed

Using Microsoft Word, Excel, and PowerPoint

Using general Internet search engines (i.e. Google.com, Yahoo.com) to locate research related to topics

Accessing and using the Texas A&M University-Commerce Library electronic databases

Instructional Methods

All content in this course will take place in the Applied Cognition Lab (Binnion 208), especially during weekly lab meetings (Wednesdays at 4pm). You can only attend via zoom with prior approval from me before the semester begins.

ATTENDANCE AND PARTICIPATION REQUIREMENTS

You are required to attend the lab meeting each week, and to be in the lab during your assigned timeslots (see schedule below). If you cannot attend any part of your upcoming timeslots, you must provide notice (to myself or a graduate RA) at least one week in advance. Moreover, you need to make an effort to get another RA to cover your slot.

There will be no quizzes or tests of any kind in this course.

Your grade will be either Satisfactory or Unsatisfactory based largely on your attendance during the semester, both for lab meetings and your timeslots.

INSTRUCTOR'S STATEMENT RELATING TO ACADEMIC INTEGRITY

Academic Honesty and Integrity: I cannot emphasize the following enough or too much. Far too many students are "finding out the hard way" that instructors and the university are extremely serious about our policies relating to academic integrity and honesty, and this is true in both web-based and face-to-face classes. Each environment has its own set of security needs, and these are addressed by instructors in various ways. In the simplest of terms, NEVER engage in any behavior or practice that is dishonest or misleading in any way. You must ALWAYS do your work and only your own work. NEVER have another student do work for you and then present it as your own. NEVER agree to do another student's work, and NEVER do another student's work. NEVER copy information from an internet source or another source, online and otherwise, and present it as your own.
