Online Articles:

Online reading materials from sources such as smart art history and museum websites are available in D2L modules.

Videos:

Videos linked to or embed in D2L portal provide in-depth looks at specific artists and/or artworks relevant to each module topic. Most videos are 3-5 minutes in length.

COURSE DESCRIPTION

This course examines the relationships between the visual arts and other expressions of human imagination and invention. Special attention is given to parallel developments in the histories of ideas, technology, and art.

COURSE OBJECTIVES Student Learning Outcomes

Upon completion of this course, students will:

1. Gain an understanding of art terminology, the elements of art, and the principles of design.
Methods for assessing this expected outcome: Written assessment, quizzes, test and discussion.
2. Gain an understanding of the processes and materials used in the production of various works of art.
Methods for assessing this expected outcome: written discussion, quizzes.
3. Gain an understanding of the visual arts as an expression of human insight, imagination, and technological achievement.
Methods for assessing this expected outcome: written assessment, quiz, discussion.
4. Learn how to critically interpret and evaluate works of art.
Methods for assessing this expected outcome: exhibition written assessment and exhibition assignment.
5. Learn the ways in which art reflects or communicates social, political, ideological, and religious values and constructions.
Methods for assessing this expected outcome: written discussions, quiz.
6. Explain and differentiate creative works as expressions of values within cultural and historical contexts.
Methods for assessing this expected outcome: written assessment, quiz and exhibition assignment.
7. Learn to recognize the interconnections between art and other expressions of human activity, such as literature, science, economics, music, and theatre.
Methods for assessing this expected outcome: written assessment, quiz, discussion.

Minimal Technical Skills Needed

Using D2L Bright space learning management system, Microsoft Word, Microsoft PowerPoint.

Course Instruction Methods and Student Expectations:

This course will require both reading material located in the D2L classroom, weekly reading assignments from the course textbook, and viewing of online videos. Assignments will include writing assignments, creative projects, and quizzes.

The Online Discussions: What is Art for? AND What is the purpose of public art?

In the first few modules in the course, you'll explore different definitions of art and how these definitions have changed throughout centuries. You'll also explore varying opinions from curators, artists and academics who have thought about the significance or purpose of art throughout time periods and cultures. As you make your way through the module videos and chapters, consider what you believe about art and its purpose in society. Do you believe art is merely aesthetic or meant to be beautiful? Should art serve a function or purpose for people in a community? (For example, the difference between an ancient vessel for drawing water vs an abstract sculpture in a museum). Who gets to decide what art is and what it looks like? Critically consider these questions as you answer the discussion prompt located on D2L.

This discussion is due on D2L by

Helpful readings/videos to get started:

Chapter 1 from the textbook, specifically "1.6. Why do we make art?" lined in Week 1.
"What is Art For" video linked in Week 1.

The second discussion (which you'll complete later in the semester) asks you to consider the meaning and historical/social significance of public art. For this discussion you are asked to go through the last module in the course and choose one of the videos or reading to discuss. Consider what message and work of arts were analyzed and discussed in the video. What did you learn about public sculpture and monuments? How does the work of art or the idea of public sculpture reflect the social, political and cultural contexts?

This discussion is due on D2L by Dec. 9th, 2024.

Quizzes and Tests

This course has 3 major tests which are made up of material covered over 3 or 4 modules. These tests are worth 16% each and together they make up almost 50% of your grade in the class. All tests are comprised of multiple choice, true/false and fill in the blank questions. Because we are covering an array of material this semester across many time periods, regions and contexts, each module is divided into a broad or theme or topic. Quizzes address a single module's content only and are made up of 5 multiple choice questions. There are quizzes for only three modules in the entire course (modules 4, 8 and 12). Quizzes are a way to test your knowledge of the readings/videos and to practice before one of the three major tests. Each quiz is worth 4% and together make up about 12% of your overall grade. Quizzes are due at the end of the week (on Fridays) and are meant to be taken open-book with notes you took/worked during the week. Quizzes and tests are open from 8:00 until 11:59PM and students have until the end of the day to complete.

(please see late work policy for specifics of missed/late tests and assignments)

The Museum Exhibition Assignment

Imagine that you are a museum curator or educator and you've been tasked with putting together a museum exhibition or tour of different works of art. For this assignment you will develop a thematic museum tour with 5 works of art (3 of which must not be featured in the content modules for the course). Your museum tour must include an introduction paragraph explaining the theme of your tour and why you've chosen objects/works of art. For each stop and work of art in your tour, you must include the title of the piece, the medium, and a brief 100-word description of what the work is about and why it is featured in your tour. The template for this assignment is located on D2L along with other instructions.

Getting Started:

1. Think through some of the works of art and concepts you've explored in this course so far. What works of art stood out to you throughout the semester?
2. Is there a particular topic that interests you (for example, if you are an engineering major, maybe the intersection of math and art is interesting to you?)
3. Once you decide on a theme for the exhibition, start looking for works of art that illustrate this theme. You can do this by searching museum collections using artists or key words (i.e., patterns or food) ARTSTOR is a great resource for finding high-quality images!
4. Make sure your assignment has an introduction paragraph that explains your theme, 5 works of art that are relevant to the theme, each work possesses a title, artist, media and dimensions. Each work of art has a 100-word description.
5. MAKE sure to include citations in proper Chicago Style formatting!

COURSE POLICIES:

Attendance: The course takes place fully online. We will NOT meet via Zoom or in-person this semester. There is no attendance grade assigned, however, it is important that you stay on track with assigned readings/videos each week. Please consult the syllabus and the content page on D2L for a full schedule and due dates. It is expected that students will log in to the course each week and complete required reading/material.

Academic dishonesty: Instructors are required use of Turnitin.com for written assessment to help with plagiarism.

There is zero tolerance for academic dishonesty in this class. Be sure that you understand what constitutes academic dishonesty (e.g., plagiarism, cheating on exams, theft of instructional material or exams, representing the work of someone else as one's own, etc.). Academic dishonesty is a severe transgression in college and may result in referral to the Dean of Students, dismissal from class, expulsion from the University, and a failing grade.

Interaction with Instructor Statement

If you have questions about the course content or assignments, please email me, and I will do my best to help.

Every effort will be made to answer emails within 24 hours from Monday to Thursday. Please expect that if you send an email on Friday, it may only be answered the following Monday. Make sure to log in to the course on a weekly basis and turn on notifications so that you don't miss regular weekly announcements, clarifications and tips on how to complete assignments throughout the semester.

Late Work Policy

Late submissions will receive a ½ letter grade deduction for each day submitted late and will not be accepted after three (3) days past deadline. See course schedule and the course schedule below for deadlines.

All exams and tests must be completed during the designated time (BEFORE 11:59pm on their respective dates). In the event that you experience an emergency, or something prevents you from taking a test, email notification must be sent to the instructor BEFORE the test/exam deadline and documentation of circumstance may be required. See course schedule for test/exam and assignment deadlines.

AI use policy [Draft 2, May 25, 2023]

Texas A&M University-Commerce acknowledges that there are legitimate uses of Artificial Intelligence, ChatBots, or other software that has the capacity to generate text, or suggest replacements for text beyond individual words, as determined by the instructor of the course.

Any use of such software must be documented. Any undocumented use of such software constitutes an instance of academic dishonesty (plagiarism).

Individual instructors may disallow entirely the use of such software for individual assignments or for the entire course. Students should be aware of such requirements and follow their instructors' guidelines. If no instructions are provided the student should assume that the use of such software is disallowed.

In any case, students are fully responsible for the content of any assignment they submit, regardless of whether they used an AI, in any way. This specifically includes cases in which the AI plagiarized another text or misrepresented sources.
