Course Description

This scholarly writing and research in Educational Leadership course will give students the knowledge, skills, and dispositions to transition to the Carnegie Project on the Education Doctorate (CPED). This introductory research methodology course will be taught entirely online. In this course, the students will develop knowledge of academic scholarly writing and demonstrate facility with APA 7th edition in all written work. Students' course performance is expected to reflect the highest standards of academic integrity.

In addition, the students will be introduced to basic qualitative, quantitative, and mixed-methods approaches to learn how to use multiple frameworks and tools. They will also be introduced to the principles, tools, and methodology of improvement science, action research, and program evaluation.

Student Learning Outcomes - By the end of the semester, students will be able to:

1. Create a Problem of Practice with an 80% mastery level.
2. Develop a brief literature review with an 80% mastery level.
3. Apply knowledge and skills learned to write an annotated bibliography of 10-15 sources with an 80% mastery level.
4. Apply knowledge and research design skills to read and critically evaluate empirical studies in education at 80% level.
5. Gain and demonstrate knowledge of various quantitative, qualitative, and mixed methods research designs.
6. Gain and demonstrate knowledge of action research, improvement science, and program evaluation principles.
7. Apply strategies, tools, and techniques learned to improve writing and research skills.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Minimal Technical Skills Needed

Students will need to have access to a computer with Internet (high-speed preferred), access to a Webcam, and document productivity software (Microsoft Office preferred). Additional skills needed are using the new learning management system, using Microsoft Word and PowerPoint for presentation a graphics programs.

Instructional Methods

This class design is based on constructivist learning principles. This means that the instructor creates an environment for learning by providing focus and guidance to the content. Assignments are designed to be learning experiences for students, and it is

AI use policy [Draft 2, May 25, 2023]

Texas A&M University-Commerce acknowledges that there are legitimate uses of Artificial Intelligence, ChatBots, or other software that has the capacity to generate text, or suggest replacements for text beyond individual words, as determined by the instructor of the course.

Any use of such software must be documented. Any undocumented use of such software constitutes an instance of academic dishonesty (plagiarism).

Individual instructors may disallow entirely the use of such software for individual assignments or for the entire course. Students should be aware of such requirements and follow their instructors' guidelines. If no instructions are provided the student should assume that the use of such software is disallowed.

In any case, students are fully responsible for the content of any assignment they submit, regardless of whether they used an AI, in any way. This specifically includes cases in which the AI plagiarized another text or misrepresented sources.
