Course Description

ENGL 1301: College Reading and Writing. Three semester hours. Introduces students to writing as an extended, complex, recursive process and prepares students for English 1302, which more rigorously examines the forms and structures of argument and means to approaching multiple audiences. In 1301 students will write weekly and will work on essay organization and development. The course will emphasize close reading, summarizing, and analysis of expository texts, including student writing.

Core Curriculum Course Objectives

- Critical Thinking Skills: to include creative thinking, innovation, inquiry, and analysis, evaluation and synthesis of information;
- Communication Skills: to include effective development, interpretation and expression of ideas through written, oral and visual communication;
- Teamwork: to include the ability to consider different points of view and to work effectively with others to support a shared purpose or goal;
- Personal Responsibility: to include the ability to connect choices, actions and consequences to ethical decision-making.

English 1301 Learning Outcomes

- Define important terms/concepts including, but not limited to, literacy, sponsor, code-switching, code-meshing, embodiment, and writing processes;
- Discuss the ways these terms expand based on cultural and communicative practices;
- Examine scholarly, personal, and/or multimodal course texts that detail varying understandings and applications of key terms/concepts;
- Develop writing processes that allow for personal exploration of key terms/concepts;
- Engage in collaboration that supports individualized and communal understanding and writing development;
- Consider the various affordances and constraints of composing using different technologies (analog, digital, and/or multimodal), practices, styles, and/or languages;
- Compose texts across different genres and media of writing that further expand key terms/concepts based on personal experiences and engagement with important course texts;
- Reflect on your writing experiences and literacy practices;
- Design individualized learning goals appropriate for a first-year writing course; and

- Assess individualized learning goals based on labor and performance alongside feedback from peers and the instructor.

Instructional Methods

This course is an online course, and as such there is no in-person component to it. There will not be any mandatory meetings of any kind. This course will not be lecture based, but discussion based. Every person has different knowledge than everyone else because we all have lived different lives and have different cultures, memories, and perspectives. We will be sharing our knowledges to build a community in our classroom that encourages teamwork, communication, and personal responsibility. As we share knowledges and discuss our readings from multiple perspectives, we will develop our critical thinking skills. This is also a writing course, so there will be plenty of writing – and opportunities for other modes of composition as we expand our knowledge and literacies.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course

- ★ With every course, it is your responsibility to ensure you keep up with the readings and coursework, but with an online course, without a class to attend regularly to remind you to do the readings and classmates you see in person and talk to about the assignments, personal motivation and responsibility become even more important. There will be weekly readings, discussions, and assignments, and then there will be major assignments. There are deadlines. If you get behind, you can work with me (the professor) to catch up, but it is extremely difficult to do so. Do your best to turn things in on time. If they are a couple hours late, then so be it. Just do your best and do not let things pile up. I promise that you will not be able to do the final three major assignments and the final portfolio in the last couple of weeks. Do not put yourself in that situation.
- ★ Communicate with me! If you are having any type of issue in the class, whether that is reading comprehension, understanding assignments, or getting assignments done on time, please come to me about it. If you need an extension for anything, communicate with me about it before the assignment is due so that you do not lose any credit for it. If you email me, I will generally respond within a day.
- ★ I will have virtual office hours every Tuesday from noon to 3 pm. That means I am available to meet during those hours without any notice; you may “drop in” by sending me an email requesting a meeting, and even if it is 2:45pm, as long as I am not already in a meeting, I will send you a Zoom link, and we can have a virtual meeting. If you email me within that time frame, I will return the email promptly. You may email me at any time during the week to make an appointment for my office hours, or, if that time does not work for you, then email me and I will work with you to schedule a different meeting time.

- ★ In my courses, I respect all Englishes. The English language has evolved into many different dialects, and no one of them is better than the rest – they are all equals. I won't be grading to correct your language into the Standard American English that is White Mainstream English.

- ★ This course does not have a final exam. Instead, there is a Final Portfolio. It will consist of 5 total items: 2 revised essays and 3 reflections. You will choose 2 of the major essays from the course to revise (change, make corrections, improve), after revising them you will write a short reflection on the writing process for each of them, and then you will write a longer reflection on the course, including if you met goals you set for yourself at the beginning at the course. I will give you more details closer to the due date, and I will offer Zoom meetings with me for anybody who has any questions regarding the Final Portfolio or their revisions during the last weeks of the course. The Final Portfolio is worth 35% of the course grade, so if you do not complete the Final Portfolio, the highest possible grade you can receive for the course is a 65%.

COURSE ASSESSMENT

Grades are technologies of surveillance and control, used to uphold a racist, classist patriarchal structure in the academy. They do far more harm than good. Unfortunately, grades are still required at the end of this course and still affect you in terms of your scholarships, majors, ability to graduate, attend graduate schools, and even obtain future jobs. In this course, labor and effort are far more important. I will be giving your assignments assessments based on the labor, effort, and how well you met the requirements of the assignment. Your assignments will receive constructive written feedback that you should use to revise, rethink, and remix your work.

Each assignment will receive one of three responses on D2L:

- Accept - when the project is fully completed according to the assignment prompt and turned in promptly. Strong effort is evident and only minor revisions would be beneficial.
- Revise - when elements of the project are incomplete and/or the project was not turned in promptly. Some effort is evident but major revisions (changes/fixes/improvements) would be beneficial. For assignments marked Revise, you are able and encouraged to revise and resubmit. Once resubmitted, if the revisions are sufficient, the status will be changed to Accept.

- No Credit - when a project wasn't completed according to the prompt and/or wasn't turned in. I accept late work, so even if something has been marked as No Credit, you can still turn in the assignment until 11:59 pm on 5/2/2025, and if it meets the assignment criteria, the status will be changed to Revise.

Unfortunately, I am required to assign a grade at the end of this course. If you look below at the Assignments table, you will see each assignment is a portion of the final grade. At midterm and final grades, any assignment that has the status Accept will receive 100% of that assignment's portion. Any assignment that has the status Revise will receive 85% of that assignment's portion. Any assignment that has the status No Credit will receive 0% of that assignment's portion.

Midterm and final grades in this course will be based on the following scale:

A = 90%-100%

B = 80%-89%

C = 70%-79%

D = 60%-69%

F = 59% or Below

Weights of the assessments in the calculation of the final letter grade.

Writing Assignments	40%
Rhetorical Analysis Projects	10%
Narrating Your Literacies	10%
Pressured to Perform	10%

Assignments

Full prompts for assignments (with more details) will be available on D2L.

Writing Assignment 1 – Rhetorical Analysis Project – This project contains two parts – a group project and an individual essay. For the group project, create a multi-modal advertisement that utilizes at least 2 rhetorical appeals. Consider your audience supportive. For the second part, individually write a 1-2 page, double-spaced essay arguing that the rhetorical appeals in your advertisement successfully (or unsuccessfully) persuaded the target audience.

WA 2 – Narrating Your Literacies – For this assignment, you will create your own short literacy narrative. Identify a discourse you are a part of, and what knowledge, skills, or things you need to be a part of that discourse. Then talk about people, places, things, or events that helped you become a part of that group.

WA 3 – Pressured to Perform – For this project, think about a time you felt pressured to perform. What did you think you needed to change about yourself? What was the tension? Think critically and deeply about it – why was that tension even there in the first place? Was it systemic oppression? Social expectations? A crowd you wanted to fit in with? A blend of ideas? How did you respond? This project can be a written essay or can take some other multimodal form. Here are some questions and guidelines you will want to consider and include in your project: provide clear, personal examples of code-switching and/or meshing in your life. (In other words, don't just talk about code-switching in general or someone else's experience – this is about you.)

WA 4 – Reading a Body's Rhetoric – In a short composition, tell the story of your body. OR – In a short composition, analyze the way a specific piece of media (news report, political speech, meme, advertisement) “reads” a body. The specific piece of media must be included in your assignment submission.

Final Portfolio – A project in which you will revisit and revise your work, pick out strengths, and engage with your own writing process. You will revise two of your major writing assignments, write reflections for each of them, and write a reflection of the course.

TECHNOLOGY REQUIREMENTS

Minimal Technical Skills Needed

You will need Internet access for this course. It will take place on D2L, with the course documents, discussions, and assignments due on D2L, and the course readings will be on Top Hat. D2L is found through your MyLeo platform. You will need to be able to navigate and use D2L to complete the course. New content will be posted to D2L for the course weekly.

You will also need access to your LeoMail student email account in case I need to email the class. I will email the class weekly with updates on the course schedule and any other announcements relevant to the course as they occur.

You will need a word processor as well for writing projects for the course. When turned in, assignments must be either .doc, .docx, or .pdf files. Students can get Microsoft 365 for free. Instructions are here:

We will have assignments that are multimodal, so they can be slide presentations, posters, videos, podcasts, etc. You can use a wide variety of programs to create these, but as ETAMU students you get Adobe's Creative Campus for free! Take advantage of this wonderful opportunity! Information & instructions here: Adobe Creative Campus - Texas A&M University-Commerce \(tamuc.edu\)

Note: Personal computer and internet connection problems do not excuse the requirement to complete all course work in a timely and satisfactory manner. Each student needs to have a backup method to deal with these inevitable problems. These methods might include the availability of a backup PC at home or work, the temporary use of a computer at a friend's home, the local library, office service companies, Starbucks, an ETAMU campus open computer lab, etc.

COURSE AND UNIVERSITY PROCEDURES/POLICIES

Course Specific Procedures/Policies

Late Work Policy

I believe due dates are ableist and classist, as an assumption that all students have the same time, experiences, and access. However, due dates are helpful motivators, so I will not get rid of them entirely. If you talk to me before the due date about an extension beyond the original due date, I am extremely willing to work with you and you can earn an Accept. If you do not communicate with me and just turn in assignments late, the best status the assignment can receive is Revise. Assignments can be turned in after the due date up to the last day of class for a “Revise” status. Assignments can be turned in up to the last class day, no later. For this course, that is May 2, 2025.

Access

Access is the process of designing for all types of bodies, minds, and experiences. Our classroom is made up of a diverse array of learners and I am happy to make reasonable accommodations to make sure you and your colleagues have as much access to accomplishing course goals as possible. Disabilities are documented and undocumented, visible and invisible. If you need an accommodation for any reason, please communicate with me. If you find an issue with accessibility with any part of the course, whether it is in the discussions, assignments, or structure, please communicate with me. If you find yourself struggling for whatever reason, please communicate with me. In whatever workplace or academic context you enter next, you’ll be best served by articulating your needs, challenges, and strengths as a learner and as a colleague.

Please see below for some support and resources on campus.

Emailing the Professor

A note on emailing me, the professor. As I have said, it is important to keep in contact with me and email me with any issues or questions. When you email me or any other professor, please do so from your university provided email account so that we may discuss your course performance and materials per FERPA guidelines. Also, please refer to your professors as Professor _____ or Dr. _____ (if you know they have their Ph.D. or MD or Ed.D., etc.). While it does not need to be a formal email, please do not use slang.

Professor Harsin’s AI Policy

The use of generative AI is strictly prohibited in this course, except when the professor advises students may use it for a specific assignment. The use of AI to check for punctuation, spelling, and grammar – for example, basic Grammarly – is allowed, as long as you are not using the AI to generate content for your writing assignments. The content of your writing assignments must be your own.

Grievance Procedure

Students who have concerns regarding their courses should first address those concerns with the assigned instructor in order to reach a resolution. Students who are unsatisfied with the outcome of that conversation or have not been able to meet individually with their instructor, whether in-person, by email, by telephone, or by another communication medium, should then schedule an appointment with Dr. Gavin P. Johnson, the Director of Writing (gavin.johnson@tamuc.edu). In the case when the Director of Writing is the instructor, the student should contact Dr. Christian Hempelmann, Chair of the Department of Literature and Languages (C.Hempelmann@tamuc.edu). Where applicable, students should also consult University Procedure 13.99.99.R0.05 (“Student Appeal of Instructor Evaluation”).

Syllabus Change Policy

The syllabus is a guide. Circumstances and events, such as student progress, may make it necessary for the instructor to modify the syllabus during the semester. Any changes made to the syllabus will be announced in advance.

University Specific Procedures

Student Conduct

All students enrolled at the University shall follow the tenets of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment. The Code of Student Conduct is described in detail in the Student Guidebook.
<http://www.tamuc.edu/Admissions/oneStopShop/undergraduateAdmissions/studentGuidebook.aspx>

Students should also consult the Rules of Netiquette for more information regarding how to interact with students in an online forum:
<https://www.britannica.com/topic/netiquette>

Nondiscrimination Notice

East Texas A&M University will comply in the classroom, and in online courses, with all federal and state laws prohibiting discrimination and related retaliation on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age, genetic information or veteran status. Further, an environment free from discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression will be maintained.

AI Use in Courses

East Texas A&M University acknowledges that there are legitimate uses of Artificial Intelligence, ChatBots, or other software that has the capacity to generate text, or suggest replacements for text beyond individual words, as determined by the instructor of the course.

Any use of such software must be documented. Any undocumented use of such software constitutes an instance of academic dishonesty (plagiarism).

Individual instructors may disallow entirely the use of such software for individual assignments or for the entire course. Students should be aware of such requirements and follow their instructors' guidelines. If no instructions are provided the student should assume that the use of such software is disallowed.

In any case, students are fully responsible for the content of any assignment they submit, regardless of whether they used an AI in any way. This specifically includes cases in which the AI plagiarized another text or misrepresented sources.

Collection of Data for Measuring Institutional Effectiveness

To measure the level of compliance with the university's Institutional Effectiveness guidelines, throughout the semester, I will collect some of the ungraded texts you produce. The texts will be part of a portfolio created on your behalf and will be measured to ensure that our program "promotes practices that result in higher student academic achievement; an enhanced student experience; aligned and transparent decisions; and readily available information for improvement, accountability, and accreditation” (see “Department of Institutional Effectiveness,” <http://www.tamuc.edu/aboutus/institutionalEffectiveness/default.aspx>). This is solely an assessment of program effectiveness and in no way affects students’ course grades or GPAs.

Students with Disabilities-- ADA Statement

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal anti-discrimination statute that provides comprehensive civil rights protection for persons with disabilities. Among other things, this legislation requires that all students with disabilities be guaranteed a learning environment that provides for reasonable accommodation of their disabilities.
