Course Information and Course Materials

Lecture textbook: Registration would allow you to have access to the ALEKS system of McGraw Hill. The system comes with ebook of Burdge et al.: Chemistry: Atoms First, 4th Ed. (McGraw Hill) - ALEKS 360. Other preferred textbook is General Chemistry, 11th or 10th Edition, Ebbing, Gammon, Brooks/Cole Cengage Learning, Belmont, CA. ISBN: 978-1305580343. However, you can obtain any textbook with similar contents, either hard copies or digital ones.

Course Description: 3 Semester Hours. Lecture related materials will be posted weekly for students to review to enhance their learning. In addition, students are required to participate in group discussion/problem solving meetings in Chem 102 throughout the semester. This course is part of the University Studies core courses and will meet criteria for laboratory science credits.

This is the second part of a two-course sequence of general chemistry. The course is designed primarily for the students majoring in sciences or in pre-professional programs. By the end of the course you will be familiar with a range of fundamental chemistry topics including states of matter, solution properties, chemical reaction rates, chemical equilibrium, acid-base concepts and properties, acid-base titration and equilibria, solubility and complex-ion equilibria, thermodynamics, electrochemistry. Chemists deal with these subject areas every day, but these concepts are also crucially important to other branches of science and technology. Prerequisite: The student must have completed Chem 1311 and Math 1314.

Lecture Learning Outcomes / Course Objectives

Upon completion of the course, I intend for my students to have realized a number of objectives.

1. Students will be able to analyze, evaluate, or solve problems when given a set of circumstances, data, text or art. Be able to critically analyze a chemical problem and deduce a solution to the problem utilizing step-wise processes.
2. Students will be able to interpret, test and demonstrate principles revealed in empirical data and/or observable facts. General chemistry requires good algebra skills. By the end of this course, you should be able to utilize algebraic skills to solve chemical problems.

3. In written, oral, and/or visual communication, A&M-Commerce students will communicate in a manner appropriate to audience and occasion, with an evident message and organizational structure.
4. Students will be able to work together toward a shared purpose relevant to the course or discipline with a sense of shared responsibility for meeting that purpose.

General Content Knowledge Students Should Obtain

1. Relate the structure found in a given molecule to its physical and properties.
2. Know the importance of chemistry and its relationship to other disciplines and our daily lives.
3. Understand the reactivity of compounds, ions, and molecules, and the various qualitative and quantitative methods for describing or depicting chemical reactions.
4. Understand the concept of chemical equilibrium, and the energies that drive chemical reactions: an introduction to the field of thermodynamics.
5. Use LeChatelier's Principle to predict the effects of concentration, pressure and temperature changes on equilibrium mixtures.
6. Understand oxidation-reduction reactions and be able to calculate voltage difference in voltaic cells. Understand how to balance oxidation-reduction reactions.

Course Requirements and Instructional Methods

Course Procedure: The intent of the course is for you to review textbook materials, review lecture related materials, and work individually and/or in small groups to complete assignments throughout the semester. You will work in discussion groups in Chem 102. The Instructor may change the groups periodically. You are required to work together as a team to answer or work out the questions in the assignments. The Instructor for the course is not present to answer the questions for you. Rather, the Instructor is present to guide you in your learning efforts. This has proven to be an effective way to learn Chemistry; we will be using methods similar to a National Science Foundation sponsored program called POGIL (Process Oriented Guided Inquiry Learning, www.pogil.org).

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course: Pointers to Succeed

The content in this course will cover roughly chapters 10 and 13-20 of the textbook in ALEKS. This material will be covered at the rate indicated by the Tentative Class Schedule. Be sure to read the textbook before attending the lecture classes. The course will focus on important chemistry concepts but will not serve as a substitute for reading the textbook. The textbook is a more detailed presentation with a more extensive set of example problems. Chemistry is a physical science and it is imperative to master calculations to pass the course.

Grading

Online ALEKS assignments: 30%

Exams: 50% (the lowest one will be dropped)

Final Exam: 20%

Classroom participation: can be used to replace two low quizzes on ALEKS

Spring Last Date to Drop is March 28, 2025

The final letter grade will be based on a standard scale 90-100% A, 80-89.9% B, 70-79.9% C, 60-69.9% D, and below 60% F. Incomplete grades may be given only if the student has a current average $\geq 70\%$ and is precluded from completion of the course by a documented illness or family crisis.

Only non-programmable calculators are allowed on assignments, quizzes or exams. I recommend purchase of one of the following calculators, which are available for approximately $10.00-$15.00: TI-30X IIS (solar) or TI-30X IIB (battery) or TI-30Xa. NO OTHER CALCULATOR TYPE IS ALLOWED. ALL calculators will be checked before quizzes or exams of the course.

AI use policy [Draft 2, May 25, 2023]

Texas A&M University-Commerce acknowledges that there are legitimate uses of Artificial Intelligence, ChatBots, or other software that has the capacity to generate text, or suggest replacements for text beyond individual words, as determined by the instructor of the course.

Any use of such software must be documented. Any undocumented use of such software constitutes an instance of academic dishonesty (plagiarism).

Individual instructors may disallow entirely the use of such software for individual assignments or for the entire course. Students should be aware of such requirements and follow their instructors' guidelines. If no instructions are provided the student should assume that the use of such software is disallowed.

In any case, students are fully responsible for the content of any assignment they submit, regardless of whether they used an AI, in any way. This specifically includes cases in which the AI plagiarized another text or misrepresented sources.
