Course Description

A study of research methods and designs appropriate for proposing, conducting, reading, reporting and critiquing research in health, kinesiology, and sports studies. A major emphasis will be on conducting meta-analysis of research literature. Each student is required to demonstrate systematic research techniques through the investigation and formal reporting of an independent research project using meta-analysis, descriptive or experimental research design.

Student Learning Outcomes

1. Understand terminology related to research.
2. Understand various types and designs of research in health, kinesiology, and sport studies
3. Critique research in their respective fields.
4. Demonstrate the ability to write an intro, lit review, and methodology sections of a research proposal.
5. Demonstrate the ability to write in accordance with the guidelines set forth by the American Psychological Association (7th ed).

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Minimal Technical Skills Needed

Students must have working knowledge of and know how to use the MyLeo Online: D2L Brightspace learning management system, and Microsoft Word/Excel/PowerPoint. Students must utilize their University assigned email (Leo mail) for all course communications. All email communication from the instructor will be sent to the student's Leo mail.

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course

Students can expect to do well in this course when they attend class on-time, complete all assignments/discussions/quizzes/exams, etc., and seek assistance when they do not understand course material. Students should also utilize the course resources provided through D2L, such as, course lecture notes, assignments, and course information. This course will require using D2L. It is the students responsibly to have internet access, check this site frequently, and become familiar with how it works. Students should check their MyLeo email often for course announcements.

Grading

Each assignment will be worth a pre-determined amount of points. Upon the completion of the course, grades will be calculated by adding up the total number of points each student has earned and dividing it by the total amount of points available in the course. This will produce a percentage of points earned (Ex. Student earned 850 points out a possible 1000 in the course: $850/1000 = 85\%$ "B"). Grades will be assigned based upon the percentages below.

Introduction Video: 10 pts	Grading Scale:
CAP Assignments: 150 pts	A = 90-100%
Assignments: 150 pts	B = 80-89%
Quizzes: 100 pts	C = 70-79%
Research Proposal Project: 240 pts	D = 60-69%
Total: 650 pts	F = 0-50

Students are expected to earn points toward their final grade during the course of the semester with the assignments and tests that are scheduled. Extra Credit Assignments WILL NOT be given at the end of the semester. All students are graded based on the exact same criteria and no exceptions will be made for individual assignments, tests, or final point values.

Students will receive back all graded assignments in a timely manner (typically within 1 week of the due date). Students are encouraged to keep all graded assignments as well as keep up with their grades throughout the semester. Any questions or concerns about assignments/grades should be brought to the instructor's attention immediately (i.e. Do not wait until the end of the semester)

ASSESSMENTS

Introduction Video Assignment & Discussion

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Students will create a short video and introduce themselves to the class. Video will need to be posted in the discussion board.

Quizzes

Quizzes are a combination of scenarios, multiple choice questions, and short answer essays. This assignment is not intended to trick you, it is intended to "check for understanding" and highlight the most important concepts from the reading. They are cumulative in nature, meaning some questions may include previous week's information. Quizzes are timed. It is strongly recommended to read and view resources prior to completing the quiz. Quizzes have due dates posted online. Students will get one attempt for each quiz. If you get locked out of the quiz accidentally, e-mail the instructor to have the quiz re-set, as long as it is before the due date.

Assignments

The purpose of the weekly assignments is to develop your research skills as it relates to your culminating requirement for the graduate program. Professionalism is imperative and students will be graded accordingly. More importantly, each assignment prepares you for your critical assignment: Research Proposal for a thesis or project. Accurate and professional submissions are important. Give yourself plenty of time each week to complete this assignment. It is strongly recommended to read, view resources, and complete the quiz prior to completing the assignments. Students will be responsible for obtaining all materials presented online and assigned readings from the textbook. Assignment instructions will be posted in D2L for the week they are assigned. Students are responsible for submitting assignments on time and to the correct submission folder.

CAP: Critical Assignment Preparations

For the duration of the course, you will be working to complete a series of critical assignments that demonstrate your mastery of the major course concepts. There will be three separate supportive submissions that will assist you in developing skills/content towards completing your critical assignment (Introduction, Literature Review, and Methodology). Specific instructions and examples will be posted in D2L during the week in which that supportive submission is due.

Critical Assignment – Research Proposal Presentation

The critical assignment in this course is to complete a Research Proposal Presentation. Your submission should completely integrate all required components into a coherent, well-organized research proposal presentation. The proposal should be clear, insightful, and follow the appropriate order. Please note— feedback provided to you throughout the semester (especially from CAPS 1-3) must be included within the final revision of your critical assignment. Failure to adhere to this standard will significantly affect your earned score. Students will submit their recorded presentation in D2L. As a way of demonstrating your understanding of qualitative and quantitative research design, you will design a research project proposal using either methods. You will not be collecting and analyzing data in this course, but your plan should have enough detail for you to continue the study if you wanted

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Introduction & Literature Review

Think of the introduction as a big funnel: You should identify a broad topical area, specify a particular focus area within that topic, and then present your purpose statement and research question in a specific form. Your introduction should draw the reader into the importance of your topic and research question. You should use the literature review as a way to familiarize the reader with the research questions, findings, and a discussion that informs and impacts your study.

Research Methods Plan

The research plan explains how you propose to find an answer to your research question. Think about the design of a research project that you particularly liked from the literature. What kinds of questions did they ask? What type and quality of data would you need in order to address your research question?

See your text, as well as the resources on D2L for additional information on content and formatting of the research proposal.

All work submitted for this course must be your own work, must have been developed specifically for this course, and may not have been submitted for evaluation or assessment in any other course. The Critical Assignment must be passed at an acceptable rate in order to pass the course.

Late Work

All assignments are due as assigned and must be turned in on or before the due date to receive full credit. Assignments turned in after the due date will receive zero (0) points. It is the student's responsibility to be aware of assignment due dates that are posted on D2L.

AI Tools

East Texas A&M University acknowledges that there are legitimate uses of Artificial Intelligence, ChatBots, or other software that has the capacity to generate text, or suggest replacements for text beyond individual words, as determined by the instructor of the course. Any use of such software must be documented. Any undocumented use of such software constitutes an instance of academic dishonesty (plagiarism).

Like an encyclopedia or a dictionary or Wikipedia, AI tools can be used to begin the process of writing; in other words, it is a tool for preliminary research, not a reliable source. Preliminary research assists writers in learning the basics about a topic so that they can research the specifics using credible, academic sources which can be cited in the assignment. Thus, AI is used to generate ideas in the same way that a brainstorm or a Freewrite is used in the prewriting stage of the writing process. While no one would drop a brainstorm into a formal document, the ideas that are generated from the brainstorm can be developed as part of a writing assignment. The same is true of AI. In any case, students are fully responsible for the content of any assignment they submit, regardless of whether they used an AI, in any way. This specifically includes cases in which the AI plagiarized another text or misrepresented sources.
