University Specific Procedures

General University Policies

1. Late work

No late work will be accepted in this course, without exceptions. Failure to submit an assignment on time will result in a zero (F) grade. In the case of an emergency or other reasonable situation which may affect your submissions, please contact me immediately. PLEASE NOTE: Your personal responsibilities are not a legitimate excuse.

2. Academic Dishonesty

Plagiarism is borrowing (stealing) the work of others and not giving credit where credit is due. It is unethical and reflects very poorly on a person's character. Copying someone else's work, or asking a friend or tutor to write your work constitutes a violation of the TAMUC Academic Honesty Policy. Likewise, the use of electronic media to translate your work to Spanish is also unacceptable.

statement of plagiarism and academic cheating

Plagiarism and Academic Cheating

Plagiarism and academic cheating will not be tolerated in the Department of Literature and Languages. Plagiarism is the unacknowledged use of work that is not original or work in which unauthorized assistance has been given by another person. Academic cheating is any dishonest practice by students in meeting the academic requirement of courses.

The Literature and Languages faculty want to heighten your awareness of the more common forms of plagiarism. The following categories of plagiarism, often committed unintentionally by students, represent selected forms of unacknowledged borrowing.

- a. Padded Bibliographies. A bibliography is padded if it includes entries which are not cited in the paper and which are not otherwise identified as “Works Consulted.”
- b. Improper Use of Indirect Sources. If you want to quote information that someone else has quoted, you must show that you found the material cited in a source other than the original.
- c. Inaccurate Paraphrasing. Paraphrasing is expressing someone else’s ideas in other words. Some of the key words of the original may appear in the paraphrase; but if exact phrases or sentences are used from the original, then paraphrasing has stopped and quoting has begun.
- d. Improperly Documented Précis and Synopsis. A précis is a concise summary of main points; a synopsis is a condensed statement or outline of the considered material. Both are shorter than a paraphrase. Both use the student’s own words. Like paraphrasing, both require documentation.
- e. Omitted Quotation Marks. Verbatim materials (that is, paragraphs, sentences, phrases, key words) require proper notation in addition to identification of the source.

Accurate methods of documentation and quoting indicate more than writing skill; they indicate the honesty and fidelity with which students have treated primary and secondary sources. Texas A&M University-Commerce describes the possible consequences of plagiarism in university policy and in the guidebook for students.

Confirmed cases of plagiarism or of academic cheating discovered by instructors will be reported to the head of this department and for referral to the disciplinary committee and/or to the Dean of Student Life will be at the discretion of the instructor. Plagiarism is a serious offense, as serious as cheating on an examination. If you have any doubts about what constitutes plagiarism, you should consult your instructor, who is willing to answer questions about proper acknowledgment of borrowed material and documentation.

Penalties for students guilty of academic dishonesty include disciplinary probation, suspension, and expulsion. (Texas A&M University-Commerce Code of Student Conduct 5.b[1,2,3])

Undergraduate students at Texas A&M University-Commerce are expected to maintain high standards of integrity and honesty in all of their scholastic work. Faculty and staff are expected to uphold and support student integrity and honesty by maintaining conditions that encourage and enforce academic honesty. Conduct that violates generally accepted standards of academic honesty is defined as academic dishonesty (see definitions). In addition, F-1 and J-1 international students must comply with the Student Exchange Visitor Program regulation related to their visa status. Penalties for students guilty of academic dishonesty include disciplinary probation, suspension, and expulsion (Texas A&M University-Commerce Regulation 13.99.99.R0.03 ‘Undergraduate Academic Dishonesty’). For further information please see the Academic Honesty statement of the Department of Literature and Languages below.

A student may drop a course by logging into his/her myLEO account and clicking on the hyperlink labeled “Drop a class” from among the choices found under the myLeo section of the Web page.

Incomplete grades (grade of “X”) are granted only under rare and extraordinary circumstances which are fully documented.

7. Grievance procedures

Students who have concerns regarding their courses should first address those concerns with the assigned instructor in order to reach a resolution. Students who are unsatisfied with the outcome of that conversation or have not been able to meet individually with their instructor, whether in-person, by email, by telephone, or by another communication medium, should then schedule an appointment with the Director of the Spanish Program, Dr. Flavia Belpoliti (flavia.belpoliti@tamuc.edu).

If there are still unresolved issues, students need to schedule an appointment with the Department Head, Dr. Hunter Hayes, or Assistant Department Head, by completing a Student Grievance Form (available in the Main Office, HL 141). In the event that the instructor is the Department Head, the student should schedule a meeting with the Dean of the College of Arts, Sciences, and Humanities after following the steps outlined above; if the instructor is the Assistant Department Head, students should schedule a meeting with the Department Head.

Where applicable, students should also consult University Procedure 13.99.99.R0.05 (“Student Appeal of Instructor Evaluation”).

Academic Dishonesty Appendix

Department of Literature and Languages
Texas A&M University-Commerce
Policy #12

April 28, 2003

ACADEMIC HONESTY

Preamble. Students at Texas A&M University-Commerce are expected to maintain high standards of integrity and honesty in all their scholastic work. Faculty members are expected to employ teaching practices that encourage academic honesty.

1. Academic Dishonesty Defined. Texas A&M University-Commerce defines “academic dishonesty” in the following way (Procedure A13.12 “Academic Honesty”): Academic dishonesty includes, but is not limited to, plagiarism (the appropriation or stealing of the ideas or words of another and passing them off as one's own), cheating on exams or other course assignments, collusion (the unauthorized collaboration with others in preparing course assignments), and abuse (destruction, defacing, or removal) of resource material.

2. “Plagiarism” Further Specified. The Department of Literature and Languages builds on the university definition of “plagiarism,” given in 1, in the following manner (taken from “Defining and Avoiding Plagiarism: The Council of Writing Program Administrators’ Statement on Best Practices” undated, pages 1-2, 12,2003.

<http://www.ilstu.edu/~ddhesse/wpa/positions/WPAplagiarism.pdf>)

Plagiarism occurs when a writer deliberately uses someone else’s language, ideas, or other original (not common-knowledge) material without acknowledging its source. [. . .] Ethical writers make every effort to acknowledge sources fully and appropriately in accordance with the contexts and genres of their writing. A student who attempts (even if clumsily) to identify and credit his or her source, but who misuses a specific citation format or incorrectly uses quotation marks or other forms of identifying material taken from other sources, has not plagiarized. Instead, such a student should be considered to have failed to cite and document sources appropriately.

3. “Collusion” Further Specified. Collusion specifically includes selling academic products. According to the Texas Penal Code (Title 7 Offenses Against Property, Chapter 32 Fraud, § 32.50 Deceptive Preparation and Marketing of Academic Product), an “‘academic product’ means a term paper, thesis, dissertation, essay, report, recording, work of art, or other written, recorded, pictorial, or artistic product or material submitted or intended to be submitted by a person to satisfy an academic requirement of the person.”

The Texas Penal Code also specifies that person commits a Class C misdemeanor offense “if, with intent to make a profit, the person prepares, sells, offers or advertises for sale, or delivers to another person an academic product when the person knows, or should reasonably have known, that a person intends to submit or use the academic product to satisfy an academic requirement of a person other than the person who prepared the product.”

4. Responsibility. Matters of academic dishonesty are handled initially by the instructor. If the instructor feels the problem warrants more attention, it should then be pursued through the department head. If the department head and instructor wish, it should be brought to the attention of the Dean of the college for study and review before being referred to the University Discipline Committee (adapted from Texas A&M University-Commerce Procedure A13.04, “Plagiarism”). Instructors may also choose to refer cases directly to the University Discipline Committee (Texas A&M University-Commerce Code of Student Conduct 6.a [2]).

5. Statement for Course Outlines. Instructors of record in the Department of Literature and Languages are required to include an Academic Honesty statement in all course outlines. The following language is suggested for that statement:

Instructors in the Department of Literature and Languages do not tolerate plagiarism and other forms of academic dishonesty. Instructors uphold and support the highest academic standards, and students are expected to do likewise. Penalties for students guilty of academic dishonesty include disciplinary probation, suspension, and expulsion. (Texas A&M University-Commerce Code of Student Conduct 5.b [1,2,3])

6. This Policy supersedes Department of Literature and Languages Policy #12, "Plagiarism," dated October 10, 1990, and will be effective until further notice.

7. The Head of the Department of Literature and Languages is responsible for maintaining and reinforcing this and other policies.

Dr. Hunter Hayes, Head, Department of Literature and Languages
April 28, 2003

statement of plagiarism and academic cheating

Preface

The Department of Literature and Languages is committed to excellence in higher education and to helping you succeed in departmental courses and in your careers. To this end, faculty members post regular office hours and encourage you to visit during those times or at other times by appointment. Faculty members also encourage you to use various tutorial services on campus, such as those of the Communication Skills Center, for special help in meeting class requirements. Grades are assigned, however, on the basis of performance, not simply on the basis of effort.

Plagiarism and Academic Cheating

Plagiarism and academic cheating will not be tolerated in the Department of Literature and Languages. Plagiarism is the unacknowledged use of work that is not original or work in which unauthorized assistance has been given by another person. Academic cheating is any dishonest practice by students in meeting the academic requirement of courses.

The Literature and Languages faculty want to heighten your awareness of the more common forms of plagiarism. The following categories of plagiarism, often committed unintentionally by students, represent selected forms of unacknowledged borrowing.

a. Padded Bibliographies. A bibliography is padded if it includes entries which are not cited in the paper and which are not otherwise identified as "Works Consulted."

b. Improper Use of Indirect Sources. If you want to quote information that someone else has quoted, you must show that you found the material cited in a source other than the original.

c. Inaccurate Paraphrasing. Paraphrasing is expressing someone else's ideas in other words. Some of the key words of the original may appear in the paraphrase; but if exact phrases or sentences are used from the original, then paraphrasing has stopped and quoting has begun.

d. Improperly Documented Précis and Synopsis. A précis is a concise summary of main points; a synopsis is a condensed statement or outline of the considered material. Both are shorter than a paraphrase. Both use the student's own words. Like paraphrasing, both require documentation.

e. Omitted Quotation Marks. Verbatim materials (that is, paragraphs, sentences, phrases, key words) require proper notation in addition to identification of the source.

Accurate methods of documentation and quoting indicate more than writing skill; they indicate the honesty and fidelity with which students have treated primary and secondary sources. Texas A&M University-Commerce describes the possible consequences of plagiarism in university policy and in the guidebook for students.

Confirmed cases of plagiarism or of academic cheating discovered by instructors and reported to the head of this department will result in a grade of F for the course; referral to the disciplinary committee and/or to the Dean of Student Life will be at the discretion of the instructor. Plagiarism is a serious offense, as serious as cheating on an examination. If you have any doubts about what constitutes plagiarism, you should consult your instructor, who is willing to answer questions about proper acknowledgment of borrowed material and documentation. Penalties for students guilty of academic dishonesty include disciplinary probation, suspension, and expulsion. (Texas A&M University-Commerce Code of Student Conduct 5.b[1,2,3])

Behavior: All students enrolled at the University shall follow the tenets of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment.

Americans with Disabilities Act Statement: Students requesting accommodations for disabilities must go through the Academic Support Committee. For more information, please contact the Director of Disability Resources & Services, Halladay Student Services Building, Room 303D, (903) 886-5835.

Plagiarism: Plagiarism is borrowing the work of others and not giving credit where credit is due. It is unethical and reflects very poorly on a person's character. In short, resist the temptation. And please read carefully the handout on plagiarism to learn how to avoid accidentally committing plagiarism. Instructors in the Department of Literature and Languages do not tolerate plagiarism and other forms of academic dishonesty. Instructors uphold and support the highest academic standards, and students are expected to do likewise. Penalties for students guilty of academic dishonesty include disciplinary probation, suspension, and expulsion. (Texas A&M University-Commerce Code of Student Conduct 5.b[1,2,3])
