COURSE INFORMATION

Course Description

HIST 1302: A broad interdisciplinary course in the historical development of the United States and North America from 1865. Note: Assignments will focus on reading, writing, and analysis.

Prerequisites: ENG 1301 or concurrent enrollment or ENG 1302 or concurrent enrollment.

From the instructor: This course covers Reconstruction through the late 20th century. We will cover the meaning of “republicanism” and “liberalism” in historical context, and the growth of the American economy, youth culture, national identity, and ideas of “race.” In the nineteenth century, ideas of national identity still excluded many Americans from that definition. However, in the wake of 20th century economic growth and depression, debates over race, immigration, class conflict, and global warfare led to civil rights movements, youth consciousness, and a flowering of popular culture fueled by African Americans among others. This class aims to make sense of the modern American transformation to a more inclusive (not perfect) democratic republic. The class in essence is a study of popular culture, which reflects expectations of Americans at a given time in history, late 19th through late 20th century. We study aspects of film, music, radio, and TV. All media reflected popular expectations and behaviors at a given time—they were “mirrors.” This helps us analyze major events, movements and people in the modern United States: a very powerful modern state, and perhaps the most complex.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Materials – Textbooks, Readings, Supplementary Readings

Required Texts:

Franz, Kathleen et al., Major Problems in American Popular Culture, 1st Ed.
(Cengage Learning)

(W.W. Norton)

Malcolm X, The Autobiography of Malcolm X
(Various editions)

Student Learning Outcomes

As a Core Curriculum requirement, this class focuses on four common Student Learning Outcomes:

3. Personal Responsibility - Students will understand and practice academic honesty.

Student Learning Outcomes will be assessed by the Student Responsibility Quiz and a Primary Source Analysis assignment.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Instructional Methods and Assessment

Late assignments can be turned in only the week that they are due; five points will be deducted for papers turned in after the first week.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Assignments, Student Responsibilities, Expectations, and Tips for Success

Plagiarism: Taking work directly from other sources and presenting it as your own is a serious academic offense and will automatically result in a “0” grade for your paper, and possibly for the class. In addition, students will need to meet with the instructor for an explanation and will be subject to disciplinary action by the University. Modern technology has made detection of plagiarism easier than ever before, and faculty members in most cases have adopted a “zero tolerance” policy for such actions. All work produced for this class must be specific to History 1302 for the Summer 2026 semester. Our software also detects use of AI in assignments, so the instructor requires textbook citations for all assignments and exams.

Primary Source Analysis Assignments: This assignment asks students to analyze information, communicate clearly and effectively, and show awareness of social and civil issues or problems. Using the selected primary source document, students should write 1-2 paragraphs that: (1) identify the author/creator and context of the document (including when and where it was created); (2) consider the purpose of the document, including the author’s goals in its creation and its intended audience; and (3) evaluate the document, analyzing why this document is important to help understand the historical period or the events it describes (its significance), and how the document contributes to our historical understanding of the period (historical causes and effect). The written analysis should be presented using full and complete sentences and proper grammar and punctuation.

GRADING

Final grades in this course are based on the following scale:

A = 90%-100%

B = 80%-89%

C = 70%-79%

D = 60%-69%

F = 59% or Below

Assessments

Two Exams = 150 points total

Short Assignments = 90 points total

Malcom X Presentation, Adobe Creative Cloud (online) = 30 points

Also, an Academic Honesty Quiz (five points) and one extra credit assignment

Total = 275 points possible (not including extra credit)

Exams: Online exams are assigned in this class. Students will answer two out of three questions in standard essay form. There are no makeup exams for class; they may be taken prior to the scheduled date. Short Assignments: Students will analyze primary sources (explained in D2L), based on documents in Major Problems in American Popular Culture; students write 2-3 pages with citations according to posted guidelines. There is a five-point deduction from any Short Assignment papers turned in past the due date later than one week. Students have two options: submit three assignments in total or submit four, with the lowest grade being dropped from the total. In addition, an Adobe Creative Cloud presentation based on aspects of The Autobiography of Malcolm is worth a total of 30 points.

Type all Primary Source/Short Assignments in 12-point Times New Roman or Calibri, single space with headings for each topic.
