Course Description

This class explores the legal standards affecting higher education institutions and members of the campus community (e.g., faculty, students, and administrators). The class will address key legal issues arising in higher education, including: institutional legal obligations and responsibilities; student rights and responsibilities (e.g., speech rights, organizational rights, and student conduct); rights and responsibilities of faculty members; legal issues related to affirmative action; and legal distinctions between public and private colleges and universities.

Student Learning Outcomes

After completing this course, a student will be able to:

- Identify and analyze key legal issues arising in higher education
- Read published legal opinions
- Reflect on the intersections between legal standards arising in higher education and the implications for professional practice

Activities Outside of Regular Class Meetings

As an asynchronous course, there are no required course meetings. During the semester, I will be available for regular one-on-one check-ins to work with individuals on their assignments. These check-ins are not required but are greatly encouraged. For students who are physically present in Commerce all or part of the semester, I am also happy to meet in person if our schedules can align. These one-on-one check-ins provide a great opportunity for me to learn more about you and your interests and work. An asynchronous learning environment provides greater flexibility to meet learning needs, but I hope to connect with students during the semester to help them maximize what they can get out of the course. I suggest scheduling a check-in as often as needed to be helpful. I am also open to scheduling optional synchronous online meetings for multiple students, such as in response to a topic that comes up on our D2L discussion board or assignments. No matter what the medium, I encourage (welcome) students to be in contact with me throughout the semester as needed!

AI use policy [Draft 2, May 25, 2023]

East Texas A&M University acknowledges that there are legitimate uses of Artificial Intelligence, ChatBots, or other software that has the capacity to generate text, or suggest replacements for text beyond individual words, as determined by the instructor of the course.

Any use of such software must be documented. Any undocumented use of such software constitutes an instance of academic dishonesty (plagiarism).

Individual instructors may disallow entirely the use of such software for individual assignments or for the entire course. Students should be aware of such requirements and follow their instructors' guidelines. If no instructions are provided the student should assume that the use of such software is disallowed.

In any case, students are fully responsible for the content of any assignment they submit, regardless of whether they used an AI, in any way. This specifically includes cases in which the AI plagiarized another text or misrepresented sources.

Course Activities and Assignments

The following are the assignments/activities for the semester. Additional details for the completion of assignments/activities will be provided elsewhere in the syllabus or during the semester. Note: depending on circumstances, the schedule, readings, and activities and assignments may be amended as needed.

Assignment/Activity	Points
Participation/Discussion in D2L Modules such as discussion postings or other assignments. We will use D2L for our module discussions. My hope is that these discussions are informative and interactive and provide a place for us to learn from one another. I don't use the discussion board as a place for "busy work," and I do not require lengthy posts or responses. Instead, I ask for students to provide responses that are thoughtful and reflect their deep engagement with readings/topics. I also ask that we are respectful of one another in how we interact with and respond to our peers in our online discussions. That, of course, doesn't mean that everyone has to share the same interpretation of a reading or topic covered in class.	40 (5 points each module)
I expect that everyone will be treated with Respect in this course.
Class presentation on final paper in D2L	10

Paper (or collection of papers) on topic of choice dealing with a legal issue arising in higher education. Also, I am very open to alternative assignments as they serve student learning needs and interests. Please reach out to me to help design a major learning assignment that aligns with your educational and professional goals. We will discuss the final assignment more during our discussion posts in D2L. Based on their paper, or one of their papers if writing a collection of papers, students will make a presentation to the class that will be posted in D2L for Module 8. While this is an asynchronous class, I am happy to welcome the opportunity to meet with students by Zoom or in person. You can schedule an appointment by email.	50
