BAAS Human Resources Develop Program Description

The Bachelor of Applied Arts and Sciences (BAAS) degree in Human Resources Development is a competency-based program that equips students with leadership skills to become human resource professionals. Graduates are prepared to guide employees toward future roles while also retaining and enhancing existing talent. This program provides opportunities for students to receive credit for what they know and can do already, allows them to accelerate completion of their degree, and — because it is fully online — students are able to plan their study schedule around the rest of their day to complete the coursework.

Course Description

This course is an integrated perspective of the opportunities and challenges in Human Resource Development. The course requires analysis and synthesis of the student's knowledge and skills acquired during the Human Resource Development Program journey. Special consideration is on adult learning and the integration of technology into training efforts. Students will have the opportunity to integrate their knowledge of their applied major courses to propose interventions for organizations through practical applications as final preparation for entering the workforce. Proposed interventions and practical applications are showcased in the Culminating Project: Executive Portfolio. The Executive Portfolio will be presented so that it reflects the student's work during this course, as well as their applied major courses, and can be utilized in the student's career beyond the Human Resource Development Program at East Texas A&M University.

Student Learning Outcomes

Completion of this course provides the student with the knowledge to:

- Understand the basic components of a well-written resume and use that knowledge in a career search.
- Conduct an environmental scan and analyze technological or other environmental influences impacting an industry or organization of the student's choice.
- Demonstrate the strategic value contribution of Human Resource Development to an organization of the student's choice, applying concepts and knowledge in a real-life and practical situation.
- Create an Executive Portfolio showcasing student skills demonstrated in the three course learning modules as well as application of knowledge acquired from the Human Resource Development program.

Regular and Substantive Course Interaction

As a general guide, students enrolled in a three-semester hour course should spend one hour engaged in instructional activities and two to three hours on out-of-class work per week in a traditional semester. Students are expected to double this effort of engagement given that this course is being delivered in a seven-week term. Educational activities in this course are designed to ensure regular and substantive interaction between students and faculty to ensure that students can demonstrate competency.

To be successful in this course, all content and course modules should be read and reviewed. All assignments and quizzes (both graded and not graded) should be completed. Please contact the instructor by email for any assistance.

Dropping the Course Due to Failure

Students are NOT allowed to drop a course due to failure in the course. In the event a student does not make 80% or higher on a posttest or culminating project by the third attempt, the student is not allowed to drop the course due to failure. The student is also ineligible to accelerate or re-enroll/re-take the course in the current term.

To drop a course, students must have passing grades in the course or have not attempted any assignments in the course. Please reach out to an academic advisor to drop a course.

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES FOR COURSE

Instructional Methods

This course is an online course. To be successful in this course, all content and course modules should be read and reviewed. All assignments and quizzes (both graded and not graded) must be completed by the due date specified. Please contact the instructor by email for any assistance or support.

Technology-Related Issues

Personal computer and internet connection problems do not excuse the requirement to complete all course work in a timely and satisfactory manner. Each student needs to have a backup method to deal with these inevitable problems.
