Course Description:

This basic nutrition science course introduces you to the relationship of food, its nutrients, and other components to health and human performance. Topics covered include the biological functions and food sources of each nutrient; nutrition guidelines; digestion and absorption of nutrients; nutrition throughout the lifecycle; food safety and technology; energy balance and weight management; and physical activity/athletic performance.

Student Learning Outcomes

1. Define a nutrient and an essential nutrient and list the six classes of nutrients found in foods.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

2. State the nutrients that yield energy, how much energy they yield per gram and how energy is measured.
3. Calculate the number of calories consumed and establish percent of intake for the macronutrients.
4. Define the DRI and discuss whom the DRI applies to and how to use the DRI.
5. List the principles for diet-planning and describe the Dietary Guidelines for Americans.
6. Describe the digestion and absorption of nutrients.
7. Describe issues involved with absorption of nutrients and possible solutions.
8. Distinguish between macronutrients and their nutritional pathways.
9. Define metabolism, anabolism, and catabolism; give an example of each.
10. Define hunger, appetite, satiation and satiety and describe how each influence food intake.
11. List risk associated with deficient and excessive food intake.
12. Discuss reasonable dietary strategies for achieving and maintaining a healthy body weight.
13. Describe the benefits of physical activity to the human body.
14. List the fat-soluble, water-soluble vitamins, major and trace minerals and their functions in the human body.
15. List the major diet-related risk factors for select disease states.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS

Minimal Technical Skills Needed

Ability to utilize D2L, word processing, presentation, and database software; ability to utilize university email

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Instructional Methods

We will review various nutritional topics and the role of nutrition in health and human performance. Instructional activities will include discussions, knowledge application activities, quizzes and exams, and projects.

Student Responsibilities or Tips for Success in the Course

This is a college, junior-level course which will require students to be disciplined, motivated, and professional. Attendance, attentiveness, and quality of work should reflect that students are in professional preparation. You should plan to dedicate about nine hours of effort each week to succeed in this course. This time will be committed to reading the course text, attending lectures, and completing assignments. You are expected to read the course material so that you are prepared to have detailed discussions in forums on D2L

Attendance:

You are expected to participate in class activities. Attendance will not be awarded credit. However, it is necessary to complete graded assignments. Given the online format of this course, attendance is evaluated according to completed work and participation in discussion forums. For more information regarding ETAMU attendance policies, view the resources listed later in this document.

GRADING

Final grades in this course will be based on the following scale:

A = 90%-100%

B = 80%-89%

C = 70%-79%

D = 60%-69%

F = 59% or Below

Total points corresponding to the final letter grades:

A = 832 – 925 Points

B = 740 – 831 Points

C = 647 – 739 Points

D = 555 – 646 Points

F = < 555 Points

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Point values of the assessments in the calculation of the final letter grade:

Syllabus Quiz	25 points
Chapter Quizzes (10)	10 x 20/ea = 200 points
SMART Goals Reflection	50 points
SNAP Challenge	75 points
Dietary Analysis	100 points
Micronutrient Presentation	150 points
Exams	400 points
Total Possible Points	1,000 points

Assessments

Syllabus Quiz:

Students will confirm their understanding of the syllabus by completing a syllabus quiz. They will have unlimited attempts. A score of 100% is required.

Chapter Quizzes:

Quizzes will be conducted to assess knowledge of the chapters in the text.

SMART Goals Reflection

Students will develop personal SMART goals based on their Dietary Analysis project and submit a reflection paper. More information such as detailed instructions, rubrics, and structure will be described during the semester in D2L and in class.

SNAP Challenge:

Students will produce a one-day meal plan that adheres to the budget associated with SNAP benefits. Students will analyze this process and reflect upon their experience. Specifics related to rubrics, topics, and instructions will be provided during the semester in D2L and in class.

Dietary Analysis:

Students will record a 3-day food journal, enter it into an online software, and produce an analysis of their diet. Students will calculate their energy and nutrient needs. Students will reflect on their dietary habits and results from their dietary analysis. Specifics related to rubrics, topics, and instructions will be provided during the semester in D2L and in class.

Micronutrient Project:

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Students will select a micronutrient from a list that will be provided. Students will research their topic and prepare a presentation to deliver to the class. Presentations should provide a detailed summarization of the information related to the topic. Specifics related to rubrics, topics, and instructions will be provided during the semester in D2L.

Exams:

Four exams will be conducted during this course to assess knowledge of topics covered during the semester. The final exam will not be comprehensive. Specific details will be provided during the semester in D2L.

COURSE AND UNIVERSITY PROCEDURES/POLICIES

Course Specific Procedures/Policies

Electronic Devices & Acceptable Use Policy: Cell phones and other electronic devices should be silenced and put away upon entry into the classroom. This practice ensures that your electronic devices will not be a distraction. You should only use electronic devices to take notes or for relevant class activities. There will be no penalty for utilizing your cell phone or other electronic devices in a manner that does not impact the learning environment for others. Students who negatively impact the learning environment may be asked to leave the classroom, if necessary, and will not receive credit for missed work. Photos, video, or any other type of recording may not be taken in class without prior expressed written consent of every individual who may appear in such recordings. With respect to online activities, the use of cell phones and other electronic devices is strictly prohibited during quizzes and exams.

Artificial Intelligence: Intellectual honesty is vital to an academic community and for my fair evaluation of your work. All work submitted in this course must be your own, completed in accordance with the University's academic regulations. You may not engage in unauthorized collaboration or make use of ChatGPT or other AI composition software.

The syllabus/schedule are subject to change.

Syllabus Change Policy

The syllabus is a guide. Circumstances and events, such as student progress, may make it necessary for the instructor to modify the syllabus during the semester. Any changes made to the syllabus will be announced in advance.
