GLOBAL COURSE GLB SPA 471
COMPARATIVE LITERATURE LATIN AMERICAN LITERATURE/FILM AND THE WORLD

1. Descripción del curso

Este es un curso diseñado para formar al estudiante sobre la literatura latinoamericana y su relación con el mundo desde la época colonial hasta siglo XX/XXI. Estudiaremos los textos de la época precolombina, las primeras crónicas de la conquista, los escritores del barroco, de la ilustración y los precursores de la independencia de España, hasta los escritores representativos del siglo XX y XXI paralelamente al arte, música y filmografía internacional inspirada en estas épocas. El estudio se hará en el contexto artístico y cultural de la época y sus tendencias estilísticas.

2. Objetivos

Este curso además de ofrecer al estudiante un recorrido por la literatura latinoamericana del siglo XV al XXI, reforzará también la habilidad oral y escrita a un nivel avanzado por medio de presentaciones, discusiones y ensayos respuesta. El estudiante adquirirá además las herramientas necesarias, para reconocer los diferentes estilos y representantes de cada época y conocerá el transfondo histórico, cultural y político desde el cual estas obras fueron gestadas. Siendo una clase global, el estudiante estará expuesto a los puntos comunes de la cultura latinoamericana y otras culturas a nivel intercontinental.

Student Learning Outcomes: Students will demonstrate their knowledge of the history and esthetic of critical texts related to Latin American Colonial to Contemporary Literature by writing a well-organized, 600 to 800 word essay, in Spanish. The essay must be divided in clearly-defined sections that include an introduction with a clearly-stated thesis; a body which develops the thesis; and a conclusion that synthesizes and summarizes the information given throughout the essay. This outcome will be assessed by evaluation of the final drafts of the individual project.

Students will be able to demonstrate knowledge of the interconnectedness of global dynamics by showing their understanding on how literature in Latin America has been influenced by African, European and Asian heritage. This outcome will be assessed by evaluation of their final presentation.

General University Policies

1. Late work

This is an online course with no extended deadlines. No late work will be accepted in this course, without exceptions. Work should be submitted by midnight (CT) on the due date provided in the class schedule. Failure to submit an assignment on time will result in a zero (F) grade. In the case of an emergency or other reasonable situation which may affect your submissions, please contact me immediately. PLEASE NOTE: Your personal computer and internet access problems are not a legitimate excuses for filing a ticket with the Pearson LearningStudio Help Desk. Only Pearson LearningStudio based problems are legitimate reasons to contact the Help Desk.

You strongly are encouraged to check for your internet browser compatibility BEFORE the course begins and take the Pearson LearningStudio tutorial offered for students who may require some extra assistance in navigating the Pearson LearningStudio platform.

2. Academic Dishonesty

Plagiarism is borrowing (stealing) the work of others and not giving credit where credit is due. It is unethical and reflects very poorly on a person's character. Copying someone else's work, or asking a friend or tutor to write your work constitutes a violation of the TAMUC Academic Honesty Policy. Likewise, the use of electronic media to translate your work to Spanish is also unacceptable.

STATEMENT OF PLAGIARISM AND ACADEMIC CHEATING

Plagiarism and Academic Cheating

Plagiarism and academic cheating will not be tolerated in the Department of Literature and Languages. Plagiarism is the unacknowledged use of work that is not original or work in which unauthorized assistance has been given by another person.¹ Academic cheating is any dishonest practice by students in meeting the academic requirement of courses.

The Literature and Languages faculty want to heighten your awareness of the more common forms of plagiarism. The following categories of plagiarism, often committed unintentionally by students, represent selected forms of unacknowledged borrowing.

- a. Padded Bibliographies. A bibliography is padded if it includes entries which are not cited in the paper and which are not otherwise identified as "Works Consulted."
- b. Improper Use of Indirect Sources. If you want to quote information that someone else has quoted, you must show that you found the material cited in a source other than the original.
- c. Inaccurate Paraphrasing. Paraphrasing is expressing someone else's ideas in other words. Some of the key words of the original may appear in the paraphrase; but if exact phrases or sentences are used from the original, then paraphrasing has stopped and quoting has begun.
- d. Improperly Documented Précis and Synopsis. A précis is a concise summary of main points; a synopsis is a condensed statement or outline of the considered material. Both are shorter than a paraphrase. Both use the student's own words. Like paraphrasing, both require documentation.
- e. Omitted Quotation Marks. Verbatim materials (that is, paragraphs, sentences, phrases, key words) require proper notation in addition to identification of the source.

Accurate methods of documentation and quoting indicate more than writing skill; they indicate the honesty and fidelity with which students have treated primary and secondary sources. Texas A&M University-Commerce describes the possible consequences of plagiarism in university policy and in the guidebook for students.

Confirmed cases of plagiarism or of academic cheating discovered by instructors will be reported to the head of this department and for referral to the disciplinary committee and/or to the Dean of Student Life will be at the discretion of the instructor. Plagiarism is a serious offense, as serious as cheating on an examination. If you have any doubts about what constitutes plagiarism, you should consult your instructor, who is willing to answer questions about proper acknowledgment of borrowed material and documentation. Penalties for students guilty of academic dishonesty include disciplinary probation, suspension, and expulsion. (Texas A&M University-Commerce Code of Student Conduct 5.b[1,2,3])

Undergraduate students at Texas A&M University-Commerce are expected to maintain high standards of integrity and honesty in all of their scholastic work. Faculty and staff are expected to uphold and support student integrity and honesty by maintaining conditions that encourage and enforce academic honesty. Conduct that violates generally accepted standards of academic honesty is defined as academic dishonesty (see definitions). In addition, F-1 and J-1 international students must comply with the Student Exchange Visitor Program regulation related to their visa status. Penalties for students guilty of academic dishonesty include disciplinary probation, suspension, and expulsion (Texas A&M University-Commerce Regulation 13.99.99.R0.03 'Undergraduate Academic Dishonesty'). For further information please see the Academic Honesty statement of the Department of Literature and Languages below.

3. Students with Disabilities

The Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) is a federal antidiscrimination statute that provides comprehensive civil rights protection for persons with disabilities. Among other things, this legislation requires that all students with disabilities be guaranteed a learning environment that provides for reasonable accommodation of their disabilities. If you have a disability requiring an accommodation, please contact:

Office of Student Disability Resources and Services

Texas A&M University-Commerce

Gee Library, Room 132

Phone (903) 886-5150 / (903) 886-5835

StudentDisabilityServices@tamuc.edu

www.tamuc.edu/CampusLife/CampusServices/studentDisabilityResourcesAndServices/default.aspx

3. Student Conduct and Discriminatory Behavior

All students enrolled at the University shall follow the tenets of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment. (See Code of Student Conduct from Student Guide Handbook). Students also should consult the Rules of etiquette for more information regarding how to interact with students in an online environment: <http://www.albion.com/netiquette/corerules.html>

A&M-Commerce will comply in the classroom, in the campus, and in online courses, with all federal and state laws prohibiting discrimination and related retaliation on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, national origin, disability, age, genetic information or veteran status. Further, an environment free from discrimination on the basis of sexual orientation, gender identity, or gender expression will be maintained.

6. Withdraws & Incomplete grade

A student may drop a course by logging into his/her myLEO account and clicking on the hyperlink labeled “Drop a class” from among the choices found under the myLeo section of the Web page.

I reserve the right to drop a student from the course administratively for excessive absences or violations of the Code of Student Conduct.

Incomplete grades (grade of “X”) are granted only under rare and extraordinary circumstances which are fully documented.

7. Grievance procedures

Students who have concerns regarding their courses should first address those concerns with the assigned instructor in order to reach a resolution. Students who are unsatisfied with the outcome of that conversation or have not been able to meet individually with their instructor, whether in-person, by email, by telephone, or by another communication medium, should then schedule an appointment with the Director of the Spanish Program, Dr. Flavia Belpoliti (flavia.belpoliti@tamuc.edu).

If there are still unresolved issues, students need to schedule an appointment with the Department Head, Dr. Hunter Hayes, or Assistant Department Head, Dr. Susan Stewart, by completing a Student Grievance Form (available in the Main Office, HL 141). In the event that the instructor is the Department Head, the student should schedule a meeting with the Dean of the College of Arts, Sciences, and Humanities after following the steps outlined above; if the instructor is the Assistant Department Head, students should schedule a meeting with the Department Head. Where applicable, students should also consult University Procedure 13.99.99.R0.05 (“Student Appeal of Instructor Evaluation”).

8. Tutoring and Advising

Your Instructor: I am your first resource and want to make your experience as positive as possible. Please talk to me if you are having any problems in the course and I will do my best to assist you.

Advising: Dr. Flavia Belpoliti is the Spanish Programs adviser. To declare a major, second major, or minor in Spanish, or to get further information on the Spanish program, please make an appointment with Dr. Belpoliti (flavia.belpoliti@tamuc.edu).

9. Technology Requirements for Web-Enhanced / Online courses

To fully take advantage of the LearningStudio platform tools, you will need regular access to a computer with a broadband Internet connection. The minimum computer requirements are:

- 512 MB of RAM, 1 GB or more preferred
- Broadband connection required courses are heavily video intensive
- Video display capable of high-color 16-bit display 1024 x 768 or higher resolution
- Sound card, which is usually integrated into your desktop or laptop computer
- Speakers or headphones.
- Microphone
- Internet connection is necessary to participate in discussions and assignments, access readings, transfer course work, and receive feedback from your professor.
- Current, Flash enabled browser. For PC users, the suggested browser is Internet Explorer 9.0 or 10. For Mac users, the most current update of Firefox is suggested.

For courses where interactive tools are used, like VoiceThread or ClassLive Pro, headphones are suggested for use with recording and playback. We recommend a webcam with an integrated microphone, such as the Microsoft LifeCam Cinema. All devices should be installed and configured before class begins.

Both versions of Java (32 bit and 64 bit) must be installed and up to date on your machine. Java can be downloaded at: <http://www.java.com/en/download/manual.jsp>. Current anti-virus software must be installed and kept up to date.

You will need some additional free software for enhanced web browsing. Ensure that you download the free versions of the following software: Adobe Reader & Adobe Flash Player

At a minimum, you must have Microsoft Office 2013, 2010, 2007 or Open Office. Microsoft Office is the standard office productivity software utilized by faculty, students, and staff. Microsoft Word is the standard word processing software, Microsoft Excel is the standard spreadsheet software, and Microsoft PowerPoint is the standard presentation software. Copying and pasting, along with attaching/uploading documents for assignment submission, will also be required. If you do not have Microsoft Office, you can check with the bookstore to see if they have any student copies.

- Note: Personal computer problems do not excuse the requirement to complete all course work in a timely and satisfactory manner. Each student needs to have a backup method to deal with these inevitable problems. These methods might include the availability of a backup PC at home or work, the temporary use of a computer at a friend's home, the local library, office service companies, an Internet cafe, or a bookstore, such as Barnes & Noble, etc.

Academic Dishonesty Appendix

Department of Literature and Languages
Texas A&M University-Commerce
Policy #12
April 28, 2003
ACADEMIC HONESTY

Preamble. Students at Texas A&M University-Commerce are expected to maintain high standards of integrity and honesty in all their scholastic work. Faculty members are expected to employ teaching practices that encourage academic honesty.

1. Academic Dishonesty Defined. Texas A&M University-Commerce defines “academic dishonesty” in the following way (Procedure A13.12 “Academic Honesty”): Academic dishonesty includes, but is not limited to, plagiarism (the appropriation or stealing of the ideas or words of another and passing them off as one's own), cheating on exams or other course assignments, collusion (the unauthorized collaboration with others in preparing course assignments), and abuse (destruction, defacing, or removal) of resource material.

2. "Plagiarism" Further Specified. The Department of Literature and Languages builds on the university definition of "plagiarism," given in 1, in the following manner (taken from "Defining and Avoiding Plagiarism: The Council of Writing Program Administrators' Statement on Best Practices" undated, pages 1-2, 12, 2003.

<http://www.ilstu.edu/~ddhesse/wpa/positions/WPAplagiarism.pdf>)

Plagiarism occurs when a writer deliberately uses someone else's language, ideas, or other original (not common-knowledge) material without acknowledging its source. [. . .] Ethical writers make every effort to acknowledge sources fully and appropriately in accordance with the contexts and genres of their writing. A student who attempts (even if clumsily) to identify and credit his or her source, but who misuses a specific citation format or incorrectly uses quotation marks or other forms of identifying material taken from other sources, has not plagiarized. Instead, such a student should be considered to have failed to cite and document sources appropriately.

3. "Collusion" Further Specified. Collusion specifically includes selling academic products. According to the Texas Penal Code (Title 7 Offenses Against Property, Chapter 32 Fraud, § 32.50 Deceptive Preparation and Marketing of Academic Product), an "'academic product' means a term paper, thesis, dissertation, essay, report, recording, work of art, or other written, recorded, pictorial, or artistic product or material submitted or intended to be submitted by a person to satisfy an academic requirement of the person."

The Texas Penal Code also specifies that person commits a Class C misdemeanor offense "if, with intent to make a profit, the person prepares, sells, offers or advertises for sale, or delivers to another person an academic product when the person knows, or should reasonably have known, that a person intends to submit or use the academic product to satisfy an academic requirement of a person other than the person who prepared the product."

4. Responsibility. Matters of academic dishonesty are handled initially by the instructor. If the instructor feels the problem warrants more attention, it should then be pursued through the department head. If the department head and instructor wish, it should be brought to the attention of the Dean of the college for study and review before being referred to the University Discipline Committee (adapted from Texas A&M University-Commerce Procedure A13.04, "Plagiarism").

Instructors may also choose to refer cases directly to the University Discipline Committee (Texas A&M University-Commerce Code of Student Conduct 6.a [2]).

5. Statement for Course Outlines. Instructors of record in the Department of Literature and Languages are required to include an Academic Honesty statement in all course outlines. The following language is suggested for that statement:

Instructors in the Department of Literature and Languages do not tolerate plagiarism and other forms of academic dishonesty. Instructors uphold and support the highest academic standards, and students are expected to do likewise. Penalties for students guilty of academic dishonesty include disciplinary probation, suspension, and expulsion. (Texas A&M University-Commerce Code of Student Conduct 5.b [1,2,3])

6. This Policy supersedes Department of Literature and Languages Policy #12, "Plagiarism," dated October 10, 1990, and will be effective until further notice.

7. The Head of the Department of Literature and Languages is responsible for maintaining and reinforcing this and other policies.

Dr. Hunter Hayes, Head, Department of Literature and Languages
April 28, 2003

LearningStudio Notifications

Students can be alerted to course activities via text on their mobile phones or up to two email addresses.

Based on their preferences, students can automatically receive a push notification with every new: course announcement, threaded discussion post, grade, and/or assignment without having to login to the course. Enrolled students will automatically receive email notifications for announcements and can opt out of this feature. To receive text notifications, students must opt in.

To begin setting up notifications, go into your course in LearningStudio and click on the bell-shaped Notifications icon on the main menu ribbon.

By default the student's university email address will appear. This cannot be changed in LearningStudio. Additional email addresses may be added by clicking the Add button. After all of the other selections are completed be sure to click the Save and Finish button.

COMMUNICATION AND SUPPORT

Interaction with Instructor Statement

My office hours are Mondays 2-4 in Commerce (F2F weeks) and in UCD 4-6 (F2F weeks). You can also reach me through email and set up an appointment if neither of these times suits your schedule. I will respond to your inquiry in 24 hours during M-F.

Statements to students required by the University and the Department of Literatures and Languages

STATEMENT OF PLAGIARISM AND ACADEMIC CHEATING

Preface

The Department of Literature and Languages is committed to excellence in higher education and to helping you succeed in departmental courses and in your careers. To this end, faculty members post regular office hours and encourage you to visit during those times or at other times by appointment. Faculty members also encourage you to use various tutorial services on campus, such as those of the Communication Skills Center, for special help in meeting class requirements. Grades are assigned, however, on the basis of performance, not simply on the basis of effort.

Plagiarism and Academic Cheating

Plagiarism and academic cheating will not be tolerated in the Department of Literature and Languages. Plagiarism is the unacknowledged use of work that is not original or work in which unauthorized assistance has been given by another person.² Academic cheating is any dishonest practice by students in meeting the academic requirement of courses.

The Literature and Languages faculty want to heighten your awareness of the more common forms of plagiarism. The following categories of plagiarism, often committed unintentionally by students, represent selected forms of unacknowledged borrowing.

- a. Padded Bibliographies. A bibliography is padded if it includes entries which are not cited in the paper and which are not otherwise identified as "Works Consulted."
- b. Improper Use of Indirect Sources. If you want to quote information that someone else has quoted, you must show that you found the material cited in a source other than the original.
- c. Inaccurate Paraphrasing. Paraphrasing is expressing someone else's ideas in other words. Some of the key words of the original may appear in the paraphrase; but if exact phrases or sentences are used from the original, then paraphrasing has stopped and quoting has begun.
- d. Improperly Documented Précis and Synopsis. A précis is a concise summary of main points; a synopsis is a condensed statement or outline of the considered material. Both are shorter than a paraphrase. Both use the student's own words. Like paraphrasing, both require documentation.
- e. Omitted Quotation Marks. Verbatim materials (that is, paragraphs, sentences, phrases, key words) require proper notation in addition to identification of the source.

Accurate methods of documentation and quoting indicate more than writing skill; they indicate the honesty and fidelity with which students have treated primary and secondary sources. Texas A&M University-Commerce describes the possible consequences of plagiarism in university policy and in the guidebook for students.

Confirmed cases of plagiarism or of academic cheating discovered by instructors will be reported to the head of this department and for referral to the disciplinary committee and/or to the Dean of Student Life will be at the discretion of the instructor. Plagiarism is a serious offense, as serious as cheating on an examination. If you have any doubts about what constitutes plagiarism, you should consult your instructor, who is willing to answer questions about proper acknowledgment of borrowed material and documentation.

Penalties for students guilty of academic dishonesty include disciplinary probation, suspension, and expulsion. (Texas A&M University-Commerce Code of Student Conduct 5.b[1,2,3])

Behavior: All students enrolled at the University shall follow the tenets of common decency and acceptable behavior conducive to a positive learning environment.

Americans with Disabilities Act Statement: Students requesting accommodations for disabilities must go through the Academic Support Committee. For more information, please contact the Director of Disability Resources & Services, Halladay Student Services Building, Room 303D, (903) 886-5835.

Plagiarism: Plagiarism is borrowing the work of others and not giving credit where credit is due. It is unethical and reflects very poorly on a person's character. In short, resist the temptation. And please read carefully the handout on plagiarism to learn how to avoid accidentally committing plagiarism. Instructors in the Department of Literature and Languages do not tolerate plagiarism and other forms of academic dishonesty. Instructors uphold and support the highest academic standards, and students are expected to do likewise. Penalties for students guilty of academic dishonesty include disciplinary probation, suspension, and expulsion. (Texas A&M University-Commerce Code of Student Conduct 5.b[1,2,3])
